New sitcom airings is the perfect way to beat the summer repeat blues! Posted by Pavan -- SitcomsOnline. Hurricane Irene may be coming through on the east coast, so if you need to take shelter and you have electricity, of course, why not take this time to enjoy some sitcoms through DVDs or websites such as Hulu? In any event, we are here with more news another slow week, though! But how will these sets be different from the previously released Rhino sets? The article goes into a bit of depth about a few issues that those sets had we have not previously reviewed the series as it was released before we even began to truly acknowledge TV-on-DVD. As a side note, the MSRP has been adjusted on the set, and is almost half of what it was originally reported to be. Factory is getting in gear to release the second season, and creator Joe Murray is going to be involved this time. At the moment, his role is limited to working on the packaging which means we should actually see some creative new "modern" art on the package, but he is trying to get some more creative features on the set. See how that comes about when you watch the very fun series No Ordinary Family! The family obtains powers that are unheard of for humans, but many questions still need to be answered. The Powell family are about to go from ordinary to extraordinary. To encourage family bonding time, Jim decides the family will join Stephanie on her business trip to South America. When their plane crashes into the Amazon River, they barely enjoy a moment to celebrate their survival before returning to the grind of everyday life. But they will soon realize that their lives have been forever changed. Each member of the family starts to show signs of new, unique and distinct super powers. Will their newfound abilities finally bring them together or push them further apart? All 20 episodes are very fun starting with the pilot. The series goes to an amazing level around episode 7 and on. This was one of my favorite series of this past season. Among the memorable episodes are of course the "Pilot," where it all begins! In "No Ordinary Powell," Dr. King uses Victoria to infiltrate the Powell family and find out the reasons behind the permanence of their abilities but her plans are soon thwarted by Jim when he discovers her real identity and purpose, while Stephanie finds out that Dr. King is the one who assigned Victoria to kill her husband and decides to do some infiltration of her by playing a larger role in his human experiments. Here are the episodes with the runtimes on this disc: No Ordinary Pilot No Ordinary Marriage No Ordinary Ring No Ordinary Vigilante No Ordinary Quake No Ordinary Visitors No Ordinary Mobster No Ordinary Accident No Ordinary Anniversary No Ordinary Sidekick No Ordinary Friends No Ordinary Brother No Ordinary Detention No Ordinary Double Standard No Ordinary Powell No Ordinary Proposal No Ordinary Love No Ordinary Animal No Ordinary Future No Ordinary Beginning The cover art has the Powell family front and center with a ray of blue light surrounding them. The color scheme is blue. Instructions Not Included" phrase below the logo. The back of the case has info on the series and set, a nice shot of the family running. We also have four small episodic photos, below the main photo. When we open the case, we have two plastic holders holding the discs. The plastic holders are like pages in a book and you can flip them. The first holder has disc one in the front and disc two in the back. The second holder is similar and has disc three in the front and disc four in the back. The disc art has the same artwork as the cover art, but the family is separated. Jim is on disc one. Stephanie is on disc two. Daphne is on disc three. And JJ is on disc four. The same type of background from the cover art are on the disc background as well. Finally, there is no artwork or anything on the panels itself, it is just a plain black background. The menu screen is very cool. We start off with the show logo and then Jim Powell comes and pushes the logo away and we see the rest of the family. Each disc features the character on the disc art. So after this sequence, we get video clips of Jim Powell on the main menu on disc one. Disc two has Stephanie, while disc three has Daphne and disc four has JJ. The closing theme plays in the background as well and the background is similar to the cover art in blue. Submenus have background music from the series playing in the background. The main menu options are: The latter is only on disc four, though. Episode Selection takes us to a submenu with episode and title. It is simple and it works with cool artwork. The video is excellent. The audio is a very good English 5. There is nothing to complain about and everything is how it is supposed to be for a new series like this. The episodes are around 43 minutes, so everything is unedited like how we saw on ABC. And we get 6 chapter stops per episode, so it is easier to go through an episode, if you are looking for anything in particular. As far as bonus material, we have two items here! The bonus features are only on disc four. First up, we have "No Ordinary Bloopers" 3: This of course shows all the flubs and mistakes the cast make, but of course it is all in fun! You can tell this cast gelled with each other. And the final extra is "Deleted Scenes" 8: We get 9 deleted scenes from various episodes and these are nice to see.

A man on his honeymoon disappears. The cruise line accused of a cover-up. Tonight, how Oprah got the woman who lost her husband and the head of the cruise line to face each other for the first time. Did you participate in the cover-up? Dirty laundry about entertainment icons. This is Ricky Martin. Hammer, live, in New York City. Tonight, a lingering mystery and a dramatic confrontation all played out in front of millions of people watching "The Oprah Winfrey Show" today. It is the story that you have seen on the news, the case of George Smith, the newlywed who disappeared while cruising the Mediterranean with his bride. And there was one heck of a showdown on "Oprah" that you just had to watch. What was going on here, Deborah? Well, it was definitely memorable. Since George Smith went missing during his Mediterranean honeymoon cruise on July 5, news channels have been all over the story. His family has been all over the airwaves. You think your husband was murdered? I think something bad happened to him. A devastated bride and a mystery that, after six months, is still no closer to being solved. Jennifer Hagel Smith, the wife of missing cruise ship passenger George Smith, appeared on "The Oprah Winfrey Show" today to talk about the night her husband disappeared. I do not remember the last, you know, words or time we saw each other. Answer questions surrounding her own actions that night. Every single person in the world is looking at me, like, "Yes, right. And for the first time ever, confront the president of Royal Caribbean, the cruise line that she says failed her during such an excruciating time. Just admit some wrongdoing. After a night of partying, George disappeared. On "Oprah," his wife talked with Gale King about what happened and did not happen the last time she saw her husband alive. People have said all sorts of things. People have said that I got in a really bad fight with George and that he called me names and I kned him. People are going to slam me either way. His family fears the worst. They claim the cruise line botched the investigation, contaminated the crime scene, and even made Mrs. Smith pay for her own plane ticket home. We did the best You knew how to. I say that on behalf of 30, people at Royal Caribbean, that we were not able to render you as much assistance and comfort as you would like to have had on that terrible day. On the next "A Current Affair. A man passes another man on the cruise. He picks him up and throws him overboard in the middle of the Atlantic or wherever. A new photo of the likely death scene of George Smith. I think you need to keep this in perspective. Ten to 12 people out of maybe 15 million who cruised in that same time frame, is something less than one person goes missing for every million people. Still, this one missing person continues to draw wide- spread attention. But as everyone focuses on what may have happened, his wife wants everyone to remember who George Smith was. What do you want to say about George? The George Smith story is such a fascinating and really such a sad mystery to watch sort of unfold. Well, the new season ever "American Idol" started off with quite a bang. And that means millions of people got to see the likes of this. As season five gets underway, it looks like a controversy with Kelly Clarkson is actually being ironed out at this very moment. She intended all along to license additional material to the show and will do so when asked and within reason. That announcement aired during the show today. Ben, Lindze, welcome to both of you. Prejudice and discrimination of any kind is wrong. Be an ally and friend. This could be seen as a brave step that "General Hospital" is taking, even a risky one, because this is still a controversial issue. Ben and Lindze, what made you guys decide to want to work with "General Hospital" and raise awareness? Well, I believe in the issue, personally. And I think that, especially with the hate crime story line coming up, that a PSA was definitely necessary. So it -- I was glad I had an opportunity to be a part of that. Your character, Lucas, is a victim of gay bashing. Now some people may not be used to this on "General Hospital," some long time fans of the show. Lindze, what do you think? Is it a risk to have plot lines like this? At first I thought it was a little risky, and I was like, "Oh, man. This ought to be interesting to see how it plays out. So I felt as if it was very realistic in that fact. And then his biggest conflict is not only the gay bashing but, you know, how to come out to a very conservative mother and, you know, a family full of straight strapping men. So I thought that they did it really well. Let me ask you this. And as you can tell, I mean, with all of the acclaim that these films have been getting which they definitely deserve, and the performances that were given. I mean, when you have a story that backs up, you know, these type of images on the screen, you believe it. A substantial story line. It really is, yes. And I think that if you can manage to draw the audience in, then, you know, sometimes they will tend to forget about, you know, certain viewpoints that they think that they feel very strongly about, either for or against something. Ben, Lindze, I appreciate you both being here and opening up about this subject. And also, thanks for sharing the PSA. Thank you very much. And ABC will air the public service announcement again next Tuesday. One of the stars from "Dancing with the Stars" has her own reality show to tango with these days. Rachel Hunter joins us live to tell us all about it, coming up. Got to say the lovely Rachel Hunter. They had to pull the ads from some cities. And all that buzz is causing a lot of media attention. The controversy centers around this ad, showing what looks like Diddy in bed with two stunning and naked women, apparently, after just having sex. Can you say menage a trois? That clearly was what was intended. Because of all the apparent ruckus, Estee Lauder had to change the ad from this to this, a much tamer version of the ad. Still two stunners, clothed this time, with one serious looking hip-hop mogul. Downgraded from a menage a trois to more like a tete a tete. Diddy and the ads. He said in a statement, quote, "This fragrance is about a man who lives his life with passion and unapologetically. Countless other celebrities have used it big time to sell their fragrances, like Paris Hilton, Jennifer Lopez and Jessica Simpson. Nicki Gostin says this is exactly what Estee Lauder wants. They must be just jumping up and down. And it just creates controversy. Makes it look cool and hip and edgy. And the media then picks up on the story and creates it and talk about it and gives it lots of press. Way to go, Diddy. But right now we want to hear from you on the subject.

These two will compete against each other for 2 minutes before the next competitor enters, until all 10 men have joined the match. Elimination is over the top rope and feet hitting the floor. Bobby Rude Roode and Storm work together against Gunner. These two former partners are totally focused on putting Gunner out of the ring when we hear the next intro music. Bully Ray Storm and Roode continue to work together on Bully Ray until Bully nails them both with a huge double clothesline. Still no one has been eliminated. Bobby Lashley Lashley focuses at first on Bobby Roode. Abyss As Bully and Lashley are about to eliminate Abyss, Magnus makes an appearance and heads to the announce table as we go to our first break. Entered during the break: Sanada Magnus at the announce table and “.. Rockstar Spud is out in a wheelchair. As Willow is about to suplex EC3 out of the ring, Spud gets out of the chair and pulls Willow to the floor. Willow 2nd Elimination is: Storm takes out Gunner after a super kick. EY is nearly eliminated but holds on flips EC3 out of the ring. Down to 3 “” Storm, EY and Abyss. Young takes control of both Storm and Abyss until Storm takes control back. Eric Young in the final two. The two go at a for a couple of minutes until they both nearly hit the floor. EY then eliminates the monster Abyss with a clothesline over the top rope. EY then calls out MVP for a special request. MVP says to Magnus, who is still at the announce table, that Magnus needs to go to his private locker room and suit up because Magnus will be facing Eric Young. Anyone else who interferes in the match will be fired. Willow comes in the room and trashes the place. Knockouts match in up next. They are certainly showing that each is out only for themselves. As Brittany is about to be pinned ODB comes back to the ring to break it up and she takes control of Love and Kim as Brittany is on the outside. All 4 competitors take their turn in control of the match. After saying that TNA travel confirmed the travel issue, MVP notices both belts there and says there will be a match for the tag team belts. Robbie has until bell time to get there or Zema takes his place. Dixie is on her way to the ring and wastes no time calling out Bully Ray. She interrupts and says it was Bobby Roode who suckered in Bully and then put Bully through not 1, not 2, but 3 tables last week. Dixie wants to know why Bully double crossed her and caused her to lose control of her company. Dixie keeps up about her company and Bully says that whether the fans and the people in the back like him or hate him they respect him. Bully is about to say, Do you know“!. Bully backs her up when Bobby Roode attacks Bully from behind. Dixie tells Roode to get a table which he does. Bully comes back and is about to put Roode through the table with a Bully bomb but Roode escapes, leaving Bully in the ring with Dixie and a table. Taz reminds us that Bully has put a woman through a table in the past as we go to break. World Tag Team Title Match: Davey Richards and Eddie Edwards work well together to start the match but Zema and Goddard come back. The Wolves show excellent teamwork but DJ Z shows a surprising lack of ring rust and holds his own. Richards nails Jesse with a missile drop kick and then moves when Zema tries to hit Richards and actually hits Goddard. It looks like The Wolves are going to get the win when Robbie comes out from the back in full wrestling gear and gets The Bro Mans disqualified. Winners of the match by DQ: Christy Hemme calls out Samuel Shaw to talk about her Tweet about commitment. Christy tells the crowd that he is not a creepy bastard. She says things are complicated and that Samuel is just misunderstood. Shaw says he is glad that she has seen the light. Christy asks if he will do anything for her or go anywhere he asks in a very seductive manner. Shaw closes his eyes as we see a psychiatric services van arrive and Mr Anderson gets out comes to the ring and lays the Creepy Bastard out. Anderson grabs Shaw and the mic and says the commitment that Christy was talking about was a commitment to the funny farm. Anderson throws Shaw out of the ring and the crowd sings “” goodbye. Anderson throws

Shaw in the back of the van, but the Creepy Bastard escapes. World Heavyweight Title match is next. Back from the break, Willow challenges Spud and EC3 to a handicapped match next week. Out first the championship match is Eric Young. They show video of how EY tweaked his right arm eliminating Abyss during the 10 man elimination match earlier tonight. The champ, Magnus is out next and Tenay reminds us that no one can help Magnus. World Heavyweight Title Match: Both Tenay and Taz question whether or not it was a good idea for EY to do what he did, especially with the injured arm. Magnus continues to take advantage of the impact of the visit EY took with the steel steps, and the obviously injured and weakened EY is in serious trouble especially after a draining camel clutch. EY seems to get a 2nd wind and goes high risk with a flying elbow of the top rope. Magnus barely kicks out and then Magnus gets a near fall on EY with a driver. Magnus brings the belt in the ring but uses it to distract the referee and hits EY with a low blow. EY kicks out at the last second. After several near falls from each superstar, EY hits Magnus with a devastating pile driver and gets the , and we have a new World Heavyweight Champion. The crowd goes nuts as Jeremy Borash announces the new World Champion.

Carr was a wealthy business owner in Atlanta. His wife died in a fire at their home. Nancy Grace was assigned to prosecute him for the murder. Grace obtained a conviction. That conviction was overturned by the Georgia Supreme Court. The opinion does not seem to appear for free on the web. The citation is Carr v. The Georgia Supreme Court described the basic facts of the case: He recounted to authorities that he awoke and realized there was a fire downstairs in their home; that he tried to get his wife to escape with him through a bedroom window, but she resisted and tried to go toward the fire; and that he lost her in the smoke and confusion after a struggle, but finally saved himself by jumping out of a second-story window. Prior to the fire, the couple had been experiencing marital difficulty and had been seeing a marriage counselor. Carr was having an affair, of which Carr had learned, and she had told several persons that she intended to divorce Carr and marry her lover. In a short period before the fire, Carr engaged in conduct which appeared suspicious after the fire: The unanimous opinion of the Georgia Supreme Court included a sharp rebuke of her conduct as prosecutor: We conclude that the conduct of the prosecuting attorney in this case demonstrated her disregard of the notions of due process and fairness, and was inexcusable We trust, however, that if this case is to be retried, the prosecuting attorney and the trial court will bear in mind the special responsibility of a prosecuting attorney: It has often been stated that it is the duty of a prosecuting attorney to see that justice is done and nothing more. That duty should not be forgotten in an excess of zeal or the eager quest for victory in his case. The people of the state desire merely to ascertain beyond a reasonable doubt that the accused is guilty of the crime charged, and do not countenance any unfairness upon the part of their representatives in court. Grace did a number of improper things in the case. Just before the trial started, Grace submitted a witness list that contained a number of people who had not been previously disclosed to the defense. Those acts and omissions were part of what earned Grace another rebuke from the Court: We wish to register our stern disapproval of tactics which give rise to the appearance that the prosecution, by act or omission, has attempted to subvert or circumvent the right of an accused to have reasonable pretrial "access to evidence," , as that right is protected by the Georgia and U. The pattern continued at trial. As early as opening statements, Grace made reference to the defendant having abused his wife when Grace knew she had no admissible evidence of such abuse. Citations Omitted Grace also engaged in flat out deception. The first involved an expert witness viewing the house: During the trial, the State brought in an expert witness from out-of-state to testify about the cause of the fire. The Supreme Court found it error to permit the witness to break into the Carr house and to testify but, for our purposes, the more interesting aspect is how Grace got the trial judge to issue the order permitting the entry:

So is this the best date ever? I wanted to show her a little bit of vulnerability to, you know, maybe make her a little more comfortable with me. Eleanor Dixon, felony prosecutor, specializes in crimes on women and children, Peter Odom, defense attorney, Atlanta jurisdiction, and of course we now have attorney Joe Lawless out of the Philadelphia jurisdiction, author of "Prosecutorial Misconduct. How does this guy rope in one woman after the next? It seems like he has somebody to help aid and abet him. Does this woman know where it is? It could be, Nancy, and that could be the crime scene. Jenkins was accused of killing and mutilating his wife, Jasmine Fiore, and dumping her body here in Buena Park. Then he took off for Canada. We know his route was up to Washington, Blaine, Washington, before he went into Canada. And that vehicle could be anywhere between here and there. Out to the lines. Thank you for taking my call and being a voice for people who cannot speak. One is, do you think -- yes -- do you OK, you know what? Can you give me your question, dear, quickly? Do you think that he wanted to destroy her, to make her look ugly to finish her off? I mean, I think he -- he, you know, flew into a rage, killed her. He dismembered her so that he could hide the evidence. It had nothing to do with how he felt about her but had everything to do with him protecting himself. But I disagree because before he dismembered her to conceal her identity, Eleanor Dixon, he also beat her brutally, beat her to a pulp. And this is different from a death such as shooting by gun. And I think it certainly shows how he felt about her, the hatred almost. To Sergeant Bill Kohanek. He is joining from us the Buena Park Police Department. Sergeant, do you believe he had help eluding the authorities? Nothing has led us to point us to an exact example of that as of yet but we certainly are keeping the case open for that possibility. Thank you, Sergeant Kohanek! It was a man hanging from a belt, from a coat rack. Death is not a pretty scene. A reality show contestant accused of killing his wife in California has been found dead. Police say it appears he hanged himself. Officers had wanted to question him in the killing of Jasmine Fiore whose mutilated remains were found stuffed in a suitcase in a trash can just south of Los Angeles. She was identified through the serial numbers on her breast implants. A mystery woman and Ryan Jenkins showed up to this motel. The mystery woman went inside alone to book the room for a few nights. She paid in cash and then she took off. We do believe that they knew each other. There was a past history. Out to the lines, Holly in British, Columbia. I love your show. Your twins are beautiful and. And I have a twin brother. Just a couple of things. It was kind of hit close to home because Blaine is about 15 minutes away from Bellingham. I moved up to Abbotsford, British Columbia near the Canadian 23 years ago. Hope is about 45 minutes east of where I am. Actually, I think the guy just kind of did everybody a favor by doing what he did. I hate to say that. Well, you know, he probably would have killed somebody else. I know somewhere in there, Holly, a question is buried. Or did she give any Visa, Mastercard, any ID or a fake name? Carolyn, do we know if the hotel has surveillance? And before you get away, Carolyn Jarvis, has this spurred any action whatsoever about the U. Why do we even have a border if nobody is guarding it? You can just walk across. We were talking about that on Friday. You can walk across the border in many spots especially where he may have accessed Canada through Point Roberts, Washington. We believe that this woman, this mystery woman whoever she is did pay in cash at the hotel and then took off shortly thereafter. That she paid for three nights. So do the math. She checked in Thursday, stayed Friday night and Saturday night, and then the manager and his nephew came to check on the room sometime Sunday afternoon. His fist clenched hanging from his belt. But your caller raised an interesting point. And that is, he could have been anywhere. They find the body not longer than an hour afterwards. So they had credible information. They believe that he was in Canada. And then a body is found soon after. And tonight all points bulletin for a mystery blonde that may be his accomplice. of the drug propofol in his blood. Conrad Murray was one of the last people to see Michael Jackson alive. A source with knowledge of the investigation tells CNN Murray gave Jackson the anesthetic propofol within 24 hours. The coroner is giving no comment. But according to AP sources within law enforcement say it has been ruled a homicide. To Ken Baker, E! The latest is in addition to that coming out that the coroners are reportedly ruling this a homicide which, obviously, like you said, is very significant, in fact, because Conrad Murray has been pretty much the primary focus of this investigation. Sources are saying that he could be charged with involuntary manslaughter at the very least. Now what was unsealed today was the search warrant affidavit that they got permission from the court to do -- to execute that search warrant and in it we found out some interesting details. Among them, that he was not only giving Michael Jackson propofol but the day he died within 24 hours he had given him three other sedatives. Alan, with entertainment editor -- the entertainment editor with the CNN Wire. Allen, his own confession has clearly been corroborated. Is it safe to say bye-bye, Dr. Panchali Dhar, board certified anesthesiologist, author of "Before the Scalpel: What Everyone Needs to Know about Anesthesia. Dhar, thank you for being with us. What do you make of this being ruled a homicide? Conrad Murray be a scapegoat? I mean who was giving him the propofol? Where was it coming from? What about all of these pharmacies that were -- clearly knew it was Michael Jackson under a pseudonym, a fake name? So let me just demonstrate what the propofol is. It is an anesthetic. Now in the affidavit search warrant, Conrad Murray is claiming to give doses like 50 milligrams, 25 milligrams to help Michael Jackson sleep. Those doses just wear off in 5 to 10 minutes. So let me just show what 50 milligrams would be.
