TRN includes an extensive selection of research libraries covering the full spectrum of tax law and regulatory information, explanations, analyses and treatises by in-house CCH attorneys and CPAs, as well as respected outside practitioners. The content and tools cover: CCHGroup, as well as a number of easy-to-use tools that quickly calculate savings bond values, tax rate phaseouts, loan amortization, federal income tax withholding and other personal finance related items. In addition, users can maintain their professional standing with continuing professional educations courses via the CCH Learning Center online or with more than 30 CCH and Aspen text and audio courses. Expanded Online Store Tax. In addition, the integrated Online Store will offer more than 50 Aspen titles that offer valuable guidance and expertise on accounting, practice management, tax, retirement planning, compensation and finance. In addition, CCH ClientRelate provides fast access to more in-depth research and aids in the development of valuable, plain-English customer communications. See accompanying press release for more information. Miller Guides Financial professionals have depended on the Miller accounting and auditing guides for more than 20 years. Aspen Miller titles are noted for their detailed examples and illustrations, in-depth disclosure indexes, observation paragraphs and extensive cross-referencing to original pronouncements. In addition, users can conduct a citation search, locate and access "Keep List" documents and forward documents to e-mail addresses. This is in addition to being able to receive CCH taxTracker News headlines and alerts via hand-held devices. Master Tax Guide on your personal digital assistant. Also, CCH has added a new feature to speed log-ins and quick access to the materials most important to the tax professional. The Login Express toolbar now includes a Keep List button that enables users to log in directly to their personalized Keep List folders. Tax Compliance on the Web Visitors to Tax. CCHGroup will have direct links to the ProSystem fx web site, where they can find product updates and news, order supplies, find training opportunities, participate in product demonstrations and download product evaluation software. Full integration of the current ProSystem fx web site into Tax. CCHGroup is planned for the future. Clients can complete the interview from their home, office or anywhere else with an Internet connection. In the very near future, ProSystem fx Tax users will find even greater convenience and lower practice costs via the Internet. Global fx will give users access to the power of ProSystem fx Tax from any computer with an Internet connection, providing greater flexibility to work wherever and whenever they want. CCHGroup Destination Site evolves, tax and accounting professionals will recognize new and valuable benefits that will rely on the power, flexibility and ease of the Internet. New features, for example, will allow the professional to provide his own web-based tax return applications that can help market his practice and identify new clients and revenue sources. A customizable "working" level will be developed on which individuals, firms or companies will be able to assemble those applications, tools and resources they use to meet compliance needs, communicate with clients and manage their practice or business. The user will be able to construct easily a flexible, collaborative intra-practice network to support this. CCHGroup evolves over the next couple of years, certain core factors remain and will continue to drive our vision," said Bush. Second, how the tax and accounting professionals work and serve their clients is changing and they need new tools and support. Launched in October, this new generation of Internet site is designed to support and facilitate the changing way that tax, legal and financial planning professionals are working, serving their clients, generating practice revenue and managing their businesses.
