Sarah and Jareth have been living their happily ever after, until Epifanio shows up again to exact his revenge. Will Sarah and Jareth get to forever? I am so sorry it took me this long to get the next chapter up. I will have to send myself to the nearest oubliette as punishment. If you are ever curious as to where I am in a story, please check out my profile. I do update that very regularly. Remember " reviews make me happy and happy people update faster. Nope"none of the Labyrinth stuff is mine. The next morning, Sarah awoke with a start. There was a feeling of weight on her and she struggled to figure out what it could be. Blinking her eyes in the light, she saw the culprit. Pistis was flung over her and clinging to her white nightdress. Looking over at her husband, she could see him smiling back at her. Sarah gave him a devilish grin and began a series of tickle torture on her little girl. Pistis awoke with a laugh. Jareth did the same to Erastos and soon both of their children were laughing and wiggling around in the bed. Jareth waved his hands and locked the door, stopping them from exiting. He called for the nanny to come and get them ready for the day. A moment later the older woman was at the door. He released the locks and she took the children to their bedroom to get dressed. Jareth collected his wife in his arms, rubbing his hand along her smooth abdomen. The miracle of life never ceased to amaze him. Sarah looked at him and smiled, placing her smaller hand over his. They stayed that way until Irini knocked on the door to begin dressing Sarah. She walked over to the window and threw open the draperies. Turning towards the bed, she gave a little squeak. We have visitors and they cannot be kept waiting. His Majesty was just leaving. He climbed out of bed and magically changed his clothes. Bending down, he gave her a sweet kiss and then planted another one on her stomach. She giggled and he took his leave. Looking at her mistress, Irini could tell something was different. She helped Sarah get out of bed and then set about making the room up again as she bathed. Just as she was looking over the schedule for the day, it came to her. Could there be another prince or princess on the way? Sarah stepped out of the bathroom and Irini looked at her with a knowing grin. She ran over to her mistress as fast as her legs could carry. Taking her into her embrace, she hugged her tight. Thumbing through it, she found the correct page. As if one of the goblin maids had a chance of bedding the King with such a beautiful Queen. He was much too devoted to Sarah to break his vows. Sarah sighed and finished drying off. Holding out her undergarments, Irini handed them to Sarah and went to get the dress Sarah would need for the day. After Sarah had slipped on her stockings and underwear, Irini helped her into her gown. Sarah sat at her vanity and gossiped with Irini as the older woman put her hair up for the day. When she was finished, Sarah gave Irini a kiss on the cheek and thanked her again for the congratulations she had bestowed. She left the confines of her chambers to find her mother. Walking along the corridors, Sarah thought about her life. A lot had changed since she had come to the Kingdom when she was fifteen. Finding out that she was a Fae Princess and betrothed to Jareth was just the tip of the iceberg. The more she got to know the man, though, the more she came to love him. She looked at the mark on the heart line of her hand. Across the castle, in the throne room, Jareth also looked at his mark. Through their connection, he could feel her thinking about him. He sent thoughts of his love back at her and smiled. He started to stand but Vasileos waved him down. When you were younger, I have to admit that I was somewhat worried about you. You were so self-centered and temperamental. Your family has made my final years in this realm the happiest in my long life. He had to admit, before he met Sarah, he could never have taken on the responsibility of the High Throne. She had turned his world upside down and made him the man he was born to be. As if summoned, the woman in question appeared before them. I was looking for Lyndora. Have you seen her? I believe your mother, Alcina, and Karen were all outside playing with the twins. Jareth beckoned Sarah towards him with his finger. She smiled and walked closer to him. He grabbed her around the waist and pulled her into his lap. She giggled and put her arms around his neck. Sarah giggled and he grinned against her skin. The sound of her laughter was like a symphonic masterpiece. He slid his hands down her sides and began wiggling his fingers. Her giggle turned into an all out laugh as he tickled her. She writhed under his touch. Apologize to your sister right this instant. I might need some help greeting guests later. You still need to have your final fitting with the tailor. She giggled and tried to move his hands. She smiled at him and leaned in to give him a quick kiss. He watched her leave. After she was gone, he got up to work on some paperwork before the guests started to arrive. With a wave, she soon joined them. Pistis and Erastos stayed with Hoggle, who promised to look after them so that Sarah could have some time with her mother alone. The two women chatted as they walked through the private gardens. There has been some talk in other Kingdoms about a shift of power. Some are thinking that this moment of weakness in the High family would be a perfect opportunity to usurp the Throne. I will say that, in the event of an illness, Jareth is completely ready to take the Throne. He was literally born to take this role. Everything is well in hand. It seems like just yesterday that I was holding them in my arms. I thought you were the most beautiful baby in the whole world. Robert had to talk me into letting him hold you. The worst day of my life was when I had to leave you to take the throne. I should have just taken you with me. Going down that road leads to nothing but trouble. Just hold onto that. You two make the most beautiful children. What time is it? I have to find Pistis and you know how much she loves to stand still.

November 14, 3: Our words are different, our ways are different and our world views are different. Today as a mother, I wondered and pondered on my wish list for what I dream and hope for my children and children around the globe. In this post, I share my wish list for a better tomorrow. Clean air to breathe for basic life creation, sustenance and growth. A Forbes article suggests that increasing levels of pollution in the air can have devastating long-term impact – both physically and mentally. We are living in a time of global water and sanitation crisis – Mn people are living without access to safe water and 2. A clean and green environment and ecosystem 4. Access to basic education to build and develop essential knowledge and skills. For sustainable, scalable, meaningful and relevant change, equipping our children with the gift of education is one of the most powerful life investments 5. A safe secure environment to operate on a day to day basis – in terms of safety within the four walls and beyond where the mind is without fear. Hence, it becomes an important priority to ensure the right focus, investments and priorities are given to create a safe secure environment to operate in. Access to affordable and reliable healthcare facilities, in times requiring medical intervention 8. Of increasing importance is the ability to handle negativity, feedback, judgment and failure in any form, and have the resilience to stand up and keep going 9. Freedom to make choices based on personal preferences, priorities and passion; and the fortitude to live with the choices Having the right knowledge to deal with such situations and timely intervention becomes critical to minimize adverse and long-lasting impact Pathways to realize powerful ideas and innovations for larger good. As I wrapped up this piece – out of curiosity, I asked my 8-year-old daughter, Naisha Kaushik on what she hopes for a better tomorrow. Here is her wish list. Children have clean and clear air to breathe, and there is lesser pollution 2. All kids have access to clean and edible food 3. There is better safety on the roads, at homes, in schools and all around for everyone 4. There is controlled water wastage, and it should be very minimal 5. Everyone should follow traffic rules 8. There should be no theft at homes and outside 9. Kids should listen to adults Adults should listen to kids Our words are different, our ways are different and our worldviews are different. And yet, the single unifying thread is shared dreams, hopes and wishes for a better tomorrow. What do you dream, hope and wish for children? Leave a comment to let us know! Thanks for always helping me to remember what is important in life! and today it is you! You are the best! Dear mother, you have shown me true love without a measure, in your arms I find my safest haven that shelters me whenever the storms rises beyond ability. A mom like you I could never replace. Your actions and words are full of such grace. I love you, Mom! You are the best friend and best mother ever. Mommy you are the serious gift to me. I love lots mommy. I love you now and forever. Your love is inexhaustible mother, nobody can give their hearts like you have. Every second that my heart beats, it reminds me that you gave me life and I should cherish you. Life has never been perfect. It probably never will. But I will never ever lose hope, because I know I always have you to stand by me even if the whole world falls apart. I love you mother, so much more than you even know. By the way, no one measures up. Nothing can be compared to the love a mother has for her children. Your love is incomparable, unconditional and inseparable. No matter where I go or what I do, at the end of the day I always find myself finding solace in your advice. I love you too Mommy. Thank you for always being there, Mom. Mom I love you for showing me the world and for all that you have done for me. Love you lots from my heart. Best friends and the best mother ever; you are seriously a gift to me Mommy. May I always feel your warm touch. Thank you lots for always being with me as friend, as guardian or even sometimes as advisor. Thank you my dear grandma for spoiling me rotten, watching my back and giving me proper advice. I always want to count in you. You always put others before yourself. I am so grateful to have grown up with your example of unselfish love and care! Grandma, your love has shaped me in lasting ways. Thank you for always supporting me in my good and bad times. Prey for your long life. I always pray to God, May you live long, May you always be with me. I hope I hand down as much love to my grandchildren as you have handed down to me. I just want you to know how special and fortunate I find myself to be blessed with a grandma as loving, caring and wonderful as you. I love you a lot and always will. Just know no matter what you do, no one will be able to replace you. Thanks for being there through the tears, laughter and dirty diapers. Thank you for all the ways you go above and beyond every day for our family. We are so lucky to have you. If there could be a day dedicated to everything you did for our family, it would be your day all year round. There is no one like a mother and, no mother quite like you. You are so very thoughtful and caring, and I just wanted to thank you, for making my life brighter. You really are an amazing wife and mother. I wish you a lifetime of happiness. I hope you feel every day how grateful I am for you and for all you do. Mother is an undying love, a love beyond compare, the one you take your troubles to, she is the one who really cares. You are all of this and more! I hope you have an awesome day. Celebrating the amazing mom you are to your own kids and the wonderful friend you are to mine! You are doing a wonderful job of being a mom! Thank you for always helping me with my own kids and giving me the right advice. I will always count on you. When you are a mother, you are never really alone in your thoughts. A mother always has to think twice, once for herself and once for her child. All love begins and ends there.

Fiction T - English - Elizabeth, Mr. I will post again on Wednesday and Friday to make up for it. Chapter 4 About a week after the arrival of the de Bourgh ladies to Perryton, Georgiana Darcy arrived in the company of her elder brother. Only lately had both sides resumed their previous levels of communication. Darcy did not stay long at Perryton. Anne had taken a strong liking to her youngest cousin. The time she spent at Pemberley after the death of her uncle Darcy had only strengthen her fondness for the girl. Having grown up without a father, Anne could understand some of the feelings of unsettled absence Georgiana suffered. Yet that was not what had drawn Anne, four years older, to Miss Darcy. Anne saw in Georgiana a young girl who could be painfully shy and desperate for female companionship. She sought to provide that companionship. Her reasons were not wholly selfless. With the need for a friend, she could sympathize. Like her cousin, Anne had no sisters in which to confide. Her wealth also contributed toward her feelings of isolation. Her mother would never stand for her to befriend the child of a servant or tenant. If Anne were pressed for the person she considered her closest confidant, she would truthfully reply that it was her housekeeper! Aunt Anne Darcy had once been that to her, and when that lady died, both she and Georgiana lost someone very dear. I spent much time as a girl wandering around the grounds at Rosings. It is a shame that you were not afforded the same opportunity. Living your whole life in Town must have been stifling. Did you ever long for a ride in the countryside? There are many amusements found in Town that are unknown in the country. My father saw to it that I wanted for nothing. You were determined to run the poor thing through its paces. Do you not agree, Georgiana? I have been pleading with him for a few years to let me learn. He finally relented and even accompanied me on some trips to the more remote parts of the park. Anne, sitting next to her, discreetly squeezed her hand. She felt a little guilty using Georgiana in her game of annoying her other cousin "but only just a little. Perhaps you might persuade your husband to give you lessons. I cannot imagine Martin saying no. Anne was quick to respond. Fortunately, my uncle and my cousin Darcy have found a very capable steward to run mine. Mama and I are very grateful for their assistance. It will make a fine inheritance for a second son, one day. He wanted to confirm his plan to travel to Rosings with Fitzwilliam at the beginning of April. Since the season should start almost immediately after Easter, I think we will seek a date for her ball in the middle of the month and her presentation in early May. They will be gone before you know it," Aunt Alice opined. I wish it could be sooner, but Mama insisted that I would not come out during the Little Season. Harold and I will be in London some of that time. We would be happy to accompany you and Anne, Catherine. Surely Martin will agree to do his duty to his cousin? Her aunt and her mother debated the merits of certain fashions with her cousin Matilda adding more to the conversation. Georgiana quickly became bored but tried desperately not to show it, afraid she would be sent from the company of the adults if she did. Anne took pity on her, and skillfully extracted herself from the conversation to speak with Georgiana. I think a little exercise will do them good. It would not do for you to become lost. Come Georgiana, we must change while the servants are preparing the horses. The groom needed only to stay a respectable distance away whilst the girls allowed their mounts to wander about the estate. This was not the first time the two had gone out riding together. The past few years they had explored both Rosings and Pemberley this way. Obviously, there was much more to see in Derbyshire than Kent, but that did not discourage the girls when they were together in the south. Georgiana and Anne had also been correspondents for several years. Georgiana had last written about the changes to take place come autumn. I so wish I did not have to go. I would prefer to remain at Pemberley. You never were sent away from Rosings. Mama may push me towards your brother, but I am just as capable of pushing back. I plan to enjoy my first season without any promises to anyone. Not that I always listen. Anne just laughed and urged her horse into a trot, calling on her cousin to catch up. She said goodbye to Georgiana "who would be leaving Perryton for her new school" and took leave of her other cousins and her aunt and uncle. The time in Lincolnshire had been well spent. Shopping trips to town had been arranged and a date for her ball had been set. Anne even came to an unspoken truce with Lady Newman. They still did not call each other by their Christian names, but Anne had ceased to bait the other woman. Anne was no fool, and a rather good judge of character; thus, she was able to sense how much Martin really did like his wife. Anne supposed she had better get used to meeting such people once she was out. As Miss de Bourgh, she did not want for wealth or connections. She could be discriminating in her eventual selection of a mate; women like Lady Newman were not so fortunate. What she had not lacked in fortune, she had lacked in family. That was the reason why her match to Cousin Martin was so well made. Anne silently thanked her mother and her dearly-departed father. She, at least, would never be forced to choose a husband by any reason other than the inclination of her heart. Your review has been posted.

Thank you for your never-ending love and support Mom! I hope your day is full of love and happiness. Mother, thank you for never letting me down! God has given me so many things to be grateful for and, Mom, you trump them all. I love you Mom! You an angel, you make everything more beautiful, and you are one of the most loving mothers I know. I am so glad to be your friend. Mum, You may be treated like the maid, You may be treated like the gardener, You may be treated like the daycare, You may be treated like the chauffeur, You may be treated like many things. But one thing is for sure, You will always be loved. For a fathers work may be from sun up till sundown, But a mothers work is never down. Read Our Special Quotes: It takes some one really brave to be a mother, someone strong to raise a child and someone special to love someone more than herself. She works from morning until dawn. You were always there for me if I was sick or had a bad dream, or needed help with my homework. Even now, you always make me feel loved and important Even when you have a million other things on your plate..! Nothing is as special to me as you, mom Nothing is as precious to me as you, mom Nothing is as beautiful as your eyes mom Nothing is as filled with love as your heart mom Love you always. Thank you for being patient and loving, Never being too busy or too tired And always being interested in what I have to say. Without mothers, our society would be doomed. You are a great example of what it takes to keep the chaos organized. I love you mom, and am glad that God blessed me with such a caring mother. You went above and beyond the call of duty many times. Mom, you must have been hand-picked to be the right mom for me. A mother is a person who seeing there are only four pieces of pie for five people, promptly announces she never did care for pie. Mom you are one of a kind, and I am glad I get to have you as my mom. I have learned much and felt loved by you. You have been the most supportive and generous person I have ever known. Thanks for having a huge heart and loving me. Mom, you have all the qualities that make a great mother, and your hard work makes you an even greater mom. Who fed me from her gentle breast, and hushed me in her arms to rest, and on my cheek sweet kisses pressed? The heart of a mother is a deep abyss at the bottom of which you will always find forgiveness. A mother is she who can take the place of all others, but whose place no one else can take. Dear mother, your intelligence and knowledge have shown us the way, and we are grateful for you as we live day by day. A mother loves right from the start, she holds her baby close to her heart. The bond that grows will never falter, her love is so strong it will never alter. A mother gives never-ending love, she never feels that she has given enough. A mother is there when things go wrong, a hug and a kiss to help us along. Always there when we need her there, gently wipes our eyes when we shed a tear. So on this day mother I want to shower you with love, gifts and presents are nice but that is not enough. I want to give you a day to have your peace of mind, I promise to be gentle, be good, be helpful and be kind. M is for the moments spent together, O is for the optimism you have, T is for your tenderness, H is for the happiness you bring, E is for your everlasting love, R is for the respect I have for you. Mother, to one who bears the sweetest name, and adds luster to the same. Long life to you, for there is no other, who can take your place, my dear mother. So here it is – I Love You Mom. I hope your day is perfect, I ask god to watch over you, keep you well and safe from harm, in everything you do. I love you ma. When I was young you helped me grow, and taught me all I had to know. Of love and trust and faith and hope, and everything it takes to cope. But all the things you taught to me, were heeded over carefully. And now I want to thank you for, your love, your care, and so much more. God made a wonderful mother, a mother who never grows old, he made her shine of the sunshine, and he molded her heart of pure gold. In her eyes he placed bright shining stars, in her cheeks fair roses you see. God made a wonderful mother, and he gave that dear mother to me. Dear mommy, thank you for tucking me in, picking me up, and showing me how. Thank you for teaching me to do things on my own, and believing in me when I try. Thank you for hugging me and loving me and doing special things to make me happy. Who ran to help me when I fell? And would some pretty story tell? Or the kiss the place to make it well? How could I ever cease to be, affectionate and kind to thee, who was so kind to me? The only better thing than having you for my mom is my children having you for their grandma. You will always be the best mom for me. I love you mom. Mother, I love you. Wishing you song birds to welcome each morning, wishing you flowers to brighten each spring, wishing you laughter and sharing and caring, and all of the joy that each new day can bring. Youth fades, love droops, the leaves of friendship fall. Mom, this bouquet is for the hundred little things you do for us every day, and for the reason that no one can do what you do for us. You are appreciated not just today, but every single day. The warmth and kindness of your heart makes you more beautiful year after year. Wishing you a very happy day today. Some kids are born lucky, they get to have the best kind of mom. And I am the luckiest of them all, coz you are my mom. I got all my good qualities from you mom. It knows no law, no pity, it dares all things and crushes down remorselessly all that stands in its path. No one else will ever know the strength of my love for you. After all, you are the only one who knows what my heart sounds like from the inside. You just smile and we live. Thank you so much mommy. The bond between mothers and their children is one defined by love. Your pretty smile, your kind eyes, your heart of gold and your healing touch; mother, you are no less than an angel to me. Mom, for every time I have let you down, for every time I made you frown, I know it is too late for an apology, but still I want to say sorry. Like a fool I never realized the value of having a loving mother like you, I know you wanted me to be my best, I realize you wanted me to outshine the rest. I promise to be the best person I can be, I promise to be the winner you saw in me. Mom, guess how much I love you. I love you more than marigolds love clean fresh cold water in a vase. More than blue furry blue socks love cold bare feet. More than a small library book loves the big library. Mom, let me just say that I love you. God sent me to the arms of an angel. An angel whose arms are always open when I need a hug, whose heart always understands when I need a friend. An angel whose eyes are stern when I need a lesson, whose strength and love guides me and give me wings that enable me to fly. I am most fortunate to call this angel my mother. If I had a flower for each time I thought of you mother, I could walk in my garden forever. Mom I just want to let u know that every day I thank God for blessing me with a mother like u and if I had one wish I would wish that everyone else would at least have a mom half as wonderful as u are.
