Public authorities resorted to all means to lay the bases for a serious and responsible dialogue and had to carry out this operation, which lasted less than an hour and enabled to completely dismantle the camp, to preserve public order and ensure citizens' safety against these individuals who broke the law, the statement added.

Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union Citizens of the European Union enjoy freedom of speech, of the press, of assembly, of association, of procession and of demonstration. Currently, all members of the European Union are signatories of the European Convention on Human Rights in addition to having various constitutional and legal rights to freedom of expression at the national level. The Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union has been legally binding since December 1, when the Treaty of Lisbon became fully ratified and effective. Everyone has the right to freedom of expression. This right shall include freedom to hold opinions and to receive and impart information and ideas without interference by public authority and regardless of frontiers. The freedom and pluralism of the media shall be respected. The European Court of Justice takes into account both the Charter and the Convention when making its rulings. According to the Treaty of Lisbon, the European Union accedes to the European Convention as an entity in its own right, making the Convention binding not only on the governments of the member states but also on the supranational institutions of the EU. Austria[edit] In Austria the right of free speech does not include the right call the prophet Muhammad "a pedophile", [80] a court ruled in The European Court of Human Rights upheld the verdict in It reads as follows: Conditions therefore and the implementation thereof shall be provided for by law. Specific limitations of the freedom of speech within the meaning of Article 17 4 may be found in the Criminal Code as well in other enactments. These include the prohibition of: Auschwitz lie , incitement of an offensive war Article of the Criminal Code. Unlike in some other European countries there are no limits on speech criticizing or denigrating government, public officials or state symbols. Censorship and other preventive measures shall never again be introduced. Censorship in Finland Finland has been ranked in the Press Freedom Index as the country with the best press freedom in "€", "€", and "€" According to the Constitution, everyone has freedom of expression, entailing the right to express, disseminate and receive information, opinions and other communications without prior prevention by anyone. A demonstration or other public assembly requires no permission from the police or other authorities. If a public meeting is held outdoors, the police must be notified of the event no later than six hours before the assembly is scheduled to begin, but the police have no authority to prohibit the event. Sentences have never been given for publishing pro-drug propaganda. There are no restrictions regarding obscenity.
