

1: Exquisite Ligurian kitchen - Review of Ristorante Mare Blu, Sanremo, Italy - TripAdvisor

The fifth in Hippocrene's regional Italian series, A Ligurian Kitchen is a sophisticated love story between the author, her people, and their cuisine. The Ligurian kitchen is famous for fish, fresh produce and herbs.

Good value, excellent food, great service! When we finally found a parking spot and were able to check in to our hotel Best Western we were tired and hungry and wanted something close by to eat. The desk manager recommended two places. The Blu Mare was the closest one, so it won. I am so glad we went there! It is nice and it is classy, but certainly not pretentious. And of course, most importantly, the food is great! Our server, Paolo, was wonderful. He made our experience really special. He actually recommended the spaghetti. No one had ever recommended the spaghetti. So, we decided to try it. The homemade sauce was really good. But here they did. Not smothered like it is in the states, but enough that you could really enjoy it. The bread was made on site and was delicious. That is another thing I was disappointed in most places in Italy. Even at the local bakeries, the bread was just not that good. But here it was really nice. For desert we had tiramisu. We enjoyed the restaurant so much that we went back there for lunch the next day as well! Do yourself a favor, when in Sanremo, visit the Blu Mare! You will not be disappointed!
