

1: Newfoundland and Labrador Trip Planner

Every trip you take leaves you with at least one story. Some are funny, some touching, and some are full of practical advice. We've curated travel stories written by, and about, Newfoundland and Labrador including lists, how-tos, and tips to take you behind the scenes, or give you a little nudge in the right direction.

This summer, they are taking an RV road trip through Atlantic Canada – including a month in Newfoundland. They share their stories and photos on their blog, www. Impressed with how organized the check-in process was, we waited anxiously in our RV to board. So many adventures were awaiting us across the water! And it was even better that we could bring our cat along for the ride with no hassle – we just cracked a few windows and she napped safely in the RV. Once on board, we were excited to explore the ferry. The cozy sitting areas overlooking the vast ocean, restaurant and snack area, made us much more relaxed about the 7-hour crossing. But having a cabin of our own made the voyage even more enjoyable! After taking some photos, we were able to lock all of our heavy camera gear safely in our room while we got some food. And we loved the room even more when it was nap time! We even had a tv with multiple channel options, our own washroom with a shower, and a small window to look for whales. This added comfort was well worth the additional cost. Once docked at the colorful town of Port aux Basques, we set off to our first stop in Newfoundland. We are so thankful to Marine Atlantic for providing such a comfortable and easy way to continue our RV road trip to this area of Atlantic Canada. What a shame it would have been to miss it! Tips for a great RV trip to Newfoundland: Fill up your propane tank before you go – it is difficult to find this service on the island. But, the Canadian Tire next to the North Sydney ferry terminal offers it. Give yourself plenty of time to get to the terminal, since you must be there at least two hours before departure. Remember that you will have to turn off your propane tank before boarding the ship, so plan accordingly if your fridge runs on propane. Before leaving any pets inside, make sure they have plenty of food and water. If you are planning to eat at the on-board restaurant, check the hours first. It may not be open during your entire crossing, so you may need to plan around that. Schedule plenty of time to enjoy Newfoundland – there is so much to see! We recommend at least two weeks, but you could spend months exploring. Getting ready to take our home on a boat for the first time! View of North Sydney as we left the ferry terminal. Our two-berth cabin, which also included a tv and washroom with a shower. Arriving at Port aux Basques just before sunset.

2: Planning a Trip in Newfoundland and Labrador | Frommer's

Newfoundland is in Newfoundland and Labrador. In the build up to your vacation in Newfoundland, plan trip itinerary minutiae using the visitor reviews, staff write-ups, and custom search fields on our Canada trip itinerary planning site.

Traveling Fasten your seatbelts! And, our daughter, Lillie 13 , said that every teen should have an epic road trip. I love it here, so much. For coffee, head to The Jumping Bean or Fixed. But the foodie scene is pouring over into the rural parts as well. NFLD has long been considered a kind of "poor" island, but we have our own traditional foods with some quirky counterparts like fried cod tongues. But many chefs have taken these traditions and revamped them, often into gourmet. My favourites are listed here: My favourite places in Newfoundland: My all-time favourite author is Wayne Johnston. I think if you need a good understanding of Newfoundland, you should read The Colony of Unrequited Dreams. If you want to travel Newfoundland on a budget, read my blog post! Candice Walsh The best tip I can offer: People constantly underestimate how big Newfoundland is. All the best sights are sprawled out, and driving times can be long and frustrating. Tim Marks, PhotoWanderer All of the Newfoundland lighthouses are well worth seeing and, like a lot of the small fishing towns out there, they are very photogenic. Tim Marks Cape Spear is a beautiful lighthouse At both of them you may also get a range of food including Newfoundland seafood dishes and, in season, dishes made with local game including moose and caribou. There are archaeological excavations, reconstructions, and living history with costumed interpreters. Archaeological excavation over the last thirty years or so has revealed a good bit about what went on and how the fishers worked and lived, as well as ships in which they traveled the oceans; you can see the results at the visitors center on site. Red Bay is north of there and part of the journey is usually done by ferry. Musicians to inspire you: Ron Hynes -- songwriter whose music has been widely recorded by Canadian and international artists. His album Stealing Genius includes lyrics written or inspired by Newfoundland poets and prose writers. Most recent album is Departures. A fun day trip from the city includes a boat tour of Witless Bay Ecological Reserve to see puffins followed by a picnic at the picturesque Ferryland Lighthouse be sure to reserve the picnic lunch ahead of time. While in Newfoundland, be sure to try a local delicacy like cod tongues - they are surprisingly tasty! Lisa Goodmurphy Favourite Place to Eat: Rocket Bakery in St. Best Books set in Newfoundland and Labrador: Photos above and below: The place deserves a little bit of leisure time.

3: The Blog of Marine Atlantic – The Journey

Newfoundland and Labrador is a vast and diverse province covering , square kilometres of land. It's the kind of place where unique and memorable experiences often crop up to surprise you, despite your best-laid plans.

Newfoundland and sometimes Labrador is commonly published as an inset map alongside Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, and New Brunswick, making it look much smaller than those other provinces. This is a big place, so significant time is required to travel from anywhere to anywhere else on Newfoundland island. Already big, distances get bigger when a landscape is twisted up and pulled like taffy like this one. The peninsula that extends northward along the west coast takes 8 to 9 hours to drive from Port aux Basques where the ferry from Nova Scotia docks to the tip at St. Anthony -- no Sunday drive, and one that requires planning and decision-making beforehand. So you need to plan accordingly. Select one or two regions you really want to see, narrow down on those, and save the rest of the province for another time in life -- hey, you can dream, right? For those arriving by air, St. But if you have your heart set on venturing to Gros Morne or beyond, think again. If you have rain gear and golf umbrellas, bring them; when the rain pairs up with high winds, the results are not fun. If you have thick sweaters, bring a few of those too. Note that Newfoundland has its own special time zone. Note that tourist information centers on this island are open from mid-May through the first week of October; some close sooner than that. Request a free copy before arriving by calling tel. The guide is also available on the ferries and at provincial information centers. Newfoundland is also better wired than you might expect when it comes to the Internet, and many residents and businesses maintain websites -- a big help when trying to cobble together your travel plans. The year-round ferry runs to Port aux Basques, with as many as four sailings each way daily during the peak summer season. This crossing is offered three times per week, in summer only, and takes 14 to 15 hours. For all ferries, advance reservations -- a few weeks ahead at least -- are strongly advised during the peak travel season, especially if you want to sleep in a cabin during an overnight sailing. The terminals on both ends all have snack bars, restrooms with showers, television lounges, and up-to-date facilities. Air transportation to Newfoundland is typically through St. And Porter Airlines tel. Major rental companies with fleets in St. For a concise look at your available options from St. Many of these car-rental chains, as well as some independent outfits, also rent cars in smaller communities around the province such as Corner Brook, Deer Lake, Happy Valley-Goose Bay, and Port aux Basques. Remember to sock away some extra cash for gasoline when traveling on this island, however: The price of fuel on Newfoundland tends to be a bit higher than in other Atlantic Provinces, and the distances are greater. The trip normally takes about 90 minutes, though it can take hours if as happens in late spring icebergs are jamming up the strait. It departs one to three times per day. There also seem to be a number of spots where you can park overnight for free without services, obviously. Instead, camp in lovely Pippy Park a few miles northwest of town, then call a taxi, catch a ride with a friend, or deploy your "toad": This information was accurate when it was published, but can change without notice. Please be sure to confirm all rates and details directly with the companies in question before planning your trip.

4: Travel Writersâ€™™ Secrets: Top Newfoundland Travel Tips | Wandering Educators

Newfoundland and Labrador Tourism: TripAdvisor has , reviews of Newfoundland and Labrador Hotels, Attractions, and Restaurants making it your best Newfoundland and Labrador resource.

5: Newfoundland and Labrador Best of Newfoundland and Labrador Tourism - TripAdvisor

Getting there. Actually there are only two ways of getting to Newfoundland: by air or by water. This map shows you the major travel routes. By air.

6: Newfoundland and Labrador Travel & Trip Planning Information

A TRIP TO NEWFOUNDLAND pdf

Maps of the Atlantic Provinces can fool you. Newfoundland (and sometimes Labrador) is commonly published as an inset map alongside Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, and New Brunswick, making it look much smaller than those other provinces. That couldn't be farther from the truth. This is a big.

7: Newfoundland Forum, Travel Discussion for Newfoundland, Newfoundland and Labrador - TripAdvisor

Newfoundland is quickly growing as a popular vacation destination, and celebrities like Gwyneth Paltrow, Jason Momoa, Harrison Ford, and Russell Crowe sing praises of this beautiful little island.

8: Welcome to Newfoundland :: Getting there

Pack your bags, book your Newfoundland and Labrador flights, and get ready for an adventure. Whether you're looking for a thrill-filled getaway or a blissful retreat from your home life, you'll find innumerable ways to tailor your trip perfectly to your liking.

9: THE 10 BEST Newfoundland and Labrador Hotel Deals (Nov) - TripAdvisor

Newfoundland and Labrador is a vast region with plenty of remote areas waiting to be explored. Plan your own transportation in advance to cover as much ground as possible. Fly into the international airports in either St. John's or Gander.

The old commandment Selected Works (Oxford Worlds Classics) Z. Being in Between: Iain Crichton Smith and Scottish Africa in world history Gilbert 3rd edition Technical Traders Guide to Computer Analysis of the Futures Markets Exchange 2010 administration guide Network security essentials William Stallings 3rd edition Prerequisites for classroom discipline National Parks and Wildlife Sanctuaries of India Gift of Motherhood Ka Oihana Lawaia = Elementary mathematics; a logical approach Intro to finance book The Captain America complex Know your alpha beta Piano Ensembles Level 5 Tumors of the Heart and Great Vessels (Atlas of Tumor Pathology 3rd Series) David Hartley and James Mill Letters of John Wesley Hardin The insight of Phaleas Handbook of solid waste management Tchobanoglous Selections from the specimen book of the Fann Street Foundry. Woolf at the door The Superior Persons Guide to Everyday Irritations Reflecting God Study Bible Mesmerism and hypnosis To Raise Up the South The Gospel of the Holy Ashlars Blood of the Czars Majesty: This we have now Books by Kenneth Copeland Introduction to distributed-parameter networks Iso 20000 1 Gasland worksheet answer key Taking liberties ; Into Seafood twice a week End of semester research report x-ray tomosynthesis Iso 10816 6 Iredell County, North Carolina, earliest extant tax lists 1800, 1815, 1837 Generals January and February