3: A Cowboy's Heart (The Cowboy Series #2) by Brenda Minton

Maybe a small-town cowboy's life isn't his dream, but he owes the man who took him in as a kid. When he meets Tricia McCall, a newcomer to the small town, he discovers a kindred spirit who knows a thing or two of her own about living someone else's dreams.

Joyce Lamb August 21, Welcome to HEA, Sarah! My book follows my awesome heroine, CJ Cooper, as she competes in her first pro rodeo, pitting herself against a field of men. One of those men is Jesse Carmody, and the moment these two lay eyes on each other, it is ON! But what do you do when the perfect man comes along at the wrong time? What inspires your book ideas? For this series, I sat down and tried to come up with a scenario to give my family a journey. I toyed with some pretty dark ideas before remembering how much I loved Party of Five when I was younger. By then my brain was firing with a million ideas, and it was time to start typing. The thing I love the most about families is the way they tease each other with in-jokes etc. What do you do when you get stuck? Weirdly, my best thinking space seems to be the shower. Every time I go in there with a problem, I come out with a solution! But mostly when I get stuck I sit down with a big pad and pen and track the emotional story through the book until I get to the bit where things went wrong. That usually tells me where I need to go. I am not one of those writers who writes to music. When it was canceled and then picked up by a new network, there were a lot of people raving about it on Twitter, so I decided to give it a shot. I gobbled up all five seasons in about three weeks. Loves to snuggle and is jealous of the keyboard because it has my attention. At the end of the day, he comes up and paws at it to let me know I am done and need to come play. What do you do in your spare time? My husband and I run a stall at the local market once a month selling brioche-style donuts filled with homemade jams and cremes. A good break from sitting on my bum all day in front of the computer! All Cassidy Jane Cooper wants is to fulfill her dream to compete in pro rodeo. She needs to focus on the competition, not one of her competitors. Jesse quickly realizes he wants to know a whole lot more about this intriguing woman. When CJ faces ugly opposition from others on the circuit, Jesse is there to offer a friendly hand—and more, if she wants it. Between her trials in the arena and fighting to get the other riders to respect her, CJ knows getting involved with Jesse is the last thing she should do. Which leaves her with a choice—the man of her heart, or the career of her dreams? Or can she have them both? About Sarah Sarah Mayberry is the award-winning, bestselling author of more than 30 books. She lives by the bay in Melbourne with her husband and a small, furry Cavoodle called Max. She loves to cook, knows she should tend to her garden more and considers curling up with a good book the height of luxury. Find out more at www.

Pine and Sara Richardson talk cowboys, new releases and more A. Joyce Lamb August 2, In this case, I would have to say that I love how layered cowboy heroes are. Tough, hardworking, physically and mentally strong. What made you decide to mix these two up, and how much fun was it to write Mateo and Everly while doing so? I love both of these tropes, and when I first started plotting out the story, I knew Mateo and Everly would originally butt heads. Both of them are so stubborn! It was actually their characters that led me down the enemies-to-lovers path. The only way to do that was through the forced proximity. It was also the most fun way to do it! Everly gives up city life for country living. Are you a city girl or a country girl at heart? Give me wide-open spaces over the confines of skyscrapers any day. While I love visiting cities, I like a slower pace and extra room to wander. Nature inspires both me and my stories. While Mateo and Everly may butt heads, his heart is in the right place as far as why he wants to make a profit on the land and kick Everly off his property. When it comes to finances, Mateo has a one-track mind. Of course, love always has the power to overtake practicality. In five words or less for each, describe what drives Everly crazy about Mateo and what drives him crazy about her. Everly Brooks is finally living her dream. Renting a farm in Topaz Falls, Colorado, is the perfect antidote to her high-stress life back in San Francisco. Mateo Torres is a handsome-as-hell bronc rider who oozes charm, melts hearts-and plans to kick Everly off the farm â€¦ Mateo has dreams, too. Unfortunately for him, this former big-city girl is just as stubborn as the broncs he rides. Sure, living under the same roof might not be the best way to settle their dispute over the land. After a brief stint in the corporate writing world, she stopped ignoring the voices in her head and started writing fiction. Now she uses her experience as a mountain adventure guide to write stories that incorporate adventure with romance. Sara lives and plays in Colorado with her saint of a husband and two young sons. For more on Sara and her books, please visit sararichardson. About Tough Luck Cowboy: If so, Lily Green is due for something good. First, her divorce is finalizedâ€”on her birthday, no less. When can a girl catch a break? For years, Luke has kept his feelings for Lily safely hidden. But ever since an injury sidelined his rodeo riding, the two of them keep getting thrown together. When that happens, it will either be the biggest mistake of his life, or a sign that his luck is about to change. A librarian for teens by day and a romance writer by night, A. She hails from the far-off galaxy of the Chicago suburbs. For more in A.

Heart of a SEAL Aislinn Blalock is the lone survivor of the extraction team sent to rescue hostages in Cambodia from the vicious criminal gang holding them for ransom. After her helicopter crashes, she has to stay one step ahead of them to stay alive long enough for a rescue team to get to her. Aislinn Blalock lay in tall grass beside a withered rice paddy, staring up at a clear, starlit sky. A billion pinpricks of light scattered across a dark canvas. No moon, thank God. But the distant stars only deepened her sense of unreality. In the distance, she heard metallic creaks and groans, as well as the crackle of fire. She had, after all, just fallen from the sky. Just met the man who would drag her out of hell and show her love was still possible. That she had the right and the duty to survive and find happiness. Now, she had Sam. Sam! Ash drew a deeper, sharper breath. Two of the hostages were nuns not wealthy tourists like the rest. Her helicopter had been in the lead. Her subconscious prodding her to take that leap of faith. Her landing had been cushioned by deep, soft vegetation. Her bottom making contact a split-second later. She drew deep, ragged breaths. No hitch, so her ribs were likely fine. Inside her combat boots, she wiggled her toes and felt them scrape hard leather. But she was still afraid. After a few wasted moments, at last, she rolled to her right and came up on her knees. Gingerly, she dropped her pack and unlatched the cover, feeling inside for her headset. Her hands closed around thin bands. But his curses, so harsh in her ear, relaxed her. For the moment, she felt his reassuring presence. She swallowed hard to still the panic rising in her throat. Knew he was bracing for the worst. Coming from the West. She knew what she had to do. As quickly and as quietly as she could, she streaked toward the tree line.
