Libby Edgar Fun and intense! My teacher created dynamic and energetic classes that kept me smiling, even through the dreaded subjunctive. The wide range of activities and games played ensures that there is a never a dull moment, and learning seems to be so much more organic. Yet, when learning Spanish at LAE Madrid, rest assured you will find a fun and engaging classroom environment. At the same time, the material was challenging and stimulated my desire to learn and study. It was clear to me that the professors make sure students are in a class that suits their abilities. With everyone feeling comfortable and at ease, it is much easier to get your Spanish confidence up, which lets you really practice speaking during the class sessions. I took three months of intensive spanish course, and still wish could have continued longer which is 4 hours per day but always felt like 20 minutes. My professor was Gabriel Pistarini and I salute him for getting down to our level and taking the time to learn about the likes and dislikes of each student and preparing classes accordingly. One gets to also interact and learn from a variety of professors as you also get to mingle with other groups and perform activities together thus making you more competent. The teachers are super creative and make each moment fun. Still makes me LOL. And re-writing the Manu Chao song! Other than that, you also get to meet very cool people from different walks of life and everyday is a new interesting conversation. Madhu - India Environment, that will forever live in your heart. LAE Madrid has been vital to my journey in Spain, learning Spanish quickly is the most important thing when you want to integrate and enjoy your life in Madrid. The teachers at LAE are very efficient at doing just that, Within one year I have reached an intermediate level and can easily have conversations. Their methodology is very effective as they use a lot of games and audiovisuals to impart their knowledge and your mind learns a lot more while you are having fun. I would recommend LAE Madrid to anyone who wants to have a strong foundation in Spanish and learn while they enjoy the language. Rahul - India I would recommend LAE Madrid to anyone who wants to have a strong foundation in Spanish and learn while they enjoy the language.

Japanese Learning Software Rocket Japanese: I always suggest people to attend lessons at a language school to learn Japanese. However, many people may not be able to commit long term to attend regular classes due to many reasons. The alternative is to learn through software where you can learn to speak Japanese at your own pace and time. As this is an online course, you can plan your schedule to study anytime, anywhere, so long you have an internet connection. This is the biggest reason that I recommend this online software. Click here for a detailed review of Rocket Japanese. I still carry one wherever I go so that I can check unfamiliar words instantly. This is the first Japanese dictionary I bought after started learning Japanese for about half a year. At that time, I found that my vocabulary was too limited and I tend to repeat using same words every time I made a sentence. This dictionary lets you check the meanings of words from Japanese to English and English to Japanese. First Book of Basic Japanese Writing: It contains all the exercises that allow the student to master hiragana by the time the book has been finished. Second Book of Basic Japanese Writing: Similarly, this book will help you master katakana by the time you finished the book. An absolutely needed item for any serious Japanese learners learning kanji. It contains the most useful and unique dictionaries of Chinese characters compiled for non-€”native speakers of Japanese. An alternative to the above Kanji Dictionary. One of the unique features is the core meaning, a concise keyword that facilitates an instant grasp of the fundamental concept of each kanji. A compact, up-to-date, practical kanji dictionary suitable for full-time students, business people, or casual readers. It includes all of the 1, Joyo Kanji, the core kanji recommended by the Japanese Ministry of Education for use in Japanese newspapers and magazines. Essential Kanji Essential Kanji: This book is an integrated course for learning to read and write the 2, basic Japanese characters. It introduces the kanji that are now in everyday use, a mastery of which makes it possible to read most modern Japanese. Beginner 1, 2nd Edition: Minna No Nihongo series of textbooks has been the standard textbooks for Japanese language learning in many Japanese language schools. I have learned almost all the basic Japanese grammars from this series of textbooks. An Integrated Course in Elementary Japanese: Genki is one of the most highly regarded teaching textbook on the Japanese language. I consider it to be high standard in order to gain such popularity. Very comprehensive basic Japanese grammar dictionary that gives very detailed explanations on the key sentences, formation, examples, additional notes and related expressions for every grammar. Highly recommended especially for beginners. The structure is almost the same as the first book and is equally well written. If you are studying intermediate lessons, this book is for you. This book shows the tables and detailed explanation on how verbs are categorized and conjugated. It also gives the politeness levels, different forms such as transitive and intransitive forms. Adjectives in Japanese can conjugate just like verbs and you may find them difficult comparing to English adjectives. This book will help you understand all the different forms. The adverbs section is arranged in categories according to time, quantity, degree, circumstances, onomatopoeic words. Japanese Particles Japanese Particle Workbook: This "Japanese Particle" book includes 60 particles and their basic functions in order of frequency of usage. Each function is illustrated with example sentences, and exercises are presented in every few lessons to allow users to test their understanding. Highly recommended for students who are weak in particles. Although you may find it boring, using flashcards to drill and learn new vocabulary has proven to be an effective method. This is especially true for learning kanji. Kanji is always one of the weakest link for many Japanese learners, especially people from western countries. Through these kanji flashcards, you can memorize many complex kanji which you might find it to be difficult at first. This is the 3rd volume for this series of kanji flashcards.

Then you see a gaucho, an old man. You want to ask him for the next gas station, but the man only speaks Spanish. Luckily you learned the language before you went there. You have a little small talk with him and he invites you to his home to drink some yerba mate with him and his family. You go with him and become friends with him for the rest of your life. Exactly this happened to a good friend of us, and similar stories have happened to us too. We know your question right now, how can you learn a language? A lot of people think it takes years of learning to get to a conversational level in a new language. You can get to a very good level in 3 months if you follow the right strategy. Motivation Before we talk about specific strategies we need to talk about motivation because motivation is king. Without it you will never achieve a good level in any language. You need to have a crystal clear goal on why you want to learn the language. As you can see my goal is very specific and yours should be too. Focus on the important words, the ones which are relevant to you and the topics you talk about. For example, if you like football learn the words you need to talk about it. But how do we learn all that words? The more you get something right, the longer it is before you see it again, streamlining practice and making sure you are reminded of the word just before you were about to forget it when recall creates the strongest memory. I use and recommend Anki for this, but Memrise or Mosalinga are another popular solutions. This is the fastest way to drill lots of words and conjugations into your head. Make sure to put English on the front to train recall, not recognition. Make sure to actually use the words you learn in speech as much and soon as possible, as actually using them is still the way to create the strongest memory and stops you from having to think about what the word is, so the Spanish just comes out like English would. Active listening I made the mistake, and a lot of people do it too. Instead, try to do it actively. Be focused when you listen. Reading along while listening to the audio will help you a lot. My secret tip here is Netflix. I use it a lot, not just to watch series, but to really study with it. Then I watch the same 10 minutes but this time with Spanish subtitles. You will see it is really effective. Speak from day one We know here we have a controversial topic because the language learning scene splits in two. The one side thinks that you need to have a lot of input through meaningful content before you can start speaking. And we agree that you need a lot of meaningful content too. And the other side says that you should start speaking from day one to get more practice speaking. Well, honestly I think it depends on your personality. If you can get through the phase where you need 5 minutes for an easy sentence without getting discouraged you should speak from day one. We recommend to start speaking as soon as possible. I saw so many people who learned years and years and never got to the point of speaking. I can say that after 3 Months of studying Spanish my grammar is still not good. But I can tell you I understand most of what people want from me and I would be able to convince a gaucho to invite me for a yerba mate. Do we think that learning a language will enrich your travelling? Yes we do Do we think you should start learning a new language today? Yes we do So does speaking the language enrich my experience? We really believe it does. But we do believe that being able to communicate in their language gives you a different experience that you may not get otherwise. Mostly because people always feel more comfortable in their own language. And why would you invite someone over, or spend a lot of time with someone you are not able to talk with? Their faces just change and turn into a big smile. And we personally hate going to a place, and not being able to communicate with the people. You are missing out on so many things people have to tell you.
