Against the Drimlith is the first novel set in the richly detailed Azieran fantasy world, filled with innumerable dangers, political consequences, and magical intrigue. It is a grim world where civilization is on the wane, savage wastelands meet crumbling keeps, and men of virtue are a rarity.

Yuno has become a quiet boy with a strong affinity for wind magic, whereas Asta has become outgoing and competitive but has yet to show any magical ability and has relentlessly trained his body instead. They both desire to become the next Wizard King. Each Grimoire has a picture of a 3 leaf clover on the cover symbolising Integrity, Hope and Love but Yuno receives an extremely rare 4 leaf Grimoire which symbolises Luck, angering the nobles who all treat commoners with contempt. Asta is humiliated when he does not receive a Grimoire. Yuno is attacked by a disgraced ex magic knight intent on stealing the 4 leaf Grimoire. Asta is badly beaten by the thief who mocks his lack of magic. Asta spends most of his time trying to convince Sister Lily to marry him but is constantly rejected. They are both inspired by tales of the first Wizard King and Asta declares he will become Wizard King one day. Yuno is asked to deliver an important letter to the chief of the next village but is attacked and beaten by a thief on his way home who takes the necklace he was found holding as a baby. Yuno becomes too scared to fight back with his magic. Asta attacks the thief with his bare hands, receiving many injuries but ultimately getting the necklace back after the thief becomes bored. Asta and Yuno reaffirm their promise to remain friendly rivals until one of them becomes the Wizard King. Father Orgi and Sister Lily hold a going away party, congratulating Yuno on his likely future success and subtly reminding Asta that when he fails he can always return home. Asta and Yuno depart for the Capital City, a journey of several days on foot, continuing to train as they travel and both growing far stronger than they were, though Yuno still manages to outperform Asta using magic to accomplish tasks Asta must use strength and skill for. They arrive at the capital city and the magic knight exam, where success involves proving themselves more powerful than the other magic knight candidates. As commoners Asta and Yuno are automatically looked down on by the noble candidates. The exam hall is filled with Anti-birds that are more attracted to a person the less magic they have. Asta is harassed by an entire swarm of Anti-birds while Yuno is ignored by them altogether. Asta is approached by Sekke Bronzazza, an arrogant noble candidate who offers to help Asta with the exam. The final test is to be one on one duels and Sekke chooses Asta as his opponent, revealing to Asta his total contempt for his lack of magic and his own desire to become a Magic Knight purely for the easy lifestyle. As the duel begins Sekke summons a magic shield hoping Asta will embarrass himself trying to get past it, however Asta summons his sword and cuts the shield in half, knocking Sekke unconscious while repeating his promise to achieve his dream and become the Wizard King. Yuno is likewise approached by an arrogant noble candidate, Salim de Hapshass, who is confident that his skill and power will be far superior to a commoner. Salim uses his most powerful spell, intending to humiliate Yuno, only for Yuno to defeat him effortlessly. With the duels concluded the squad captains decide which candidates they want. Many candidates fail and are sent home. Yuno is selected by all nine squad captains, which is unheard of, and joins the Golden Dawn, which usually only accepts Royals and nobles. Asta is almost sent home until Yami Sukehiro, the intimidating captain of the Black Bulls, accepts him. Sekke, having only been accepted by a less famous squad, the Green Mantises, decides to get revenge and summons a lizard whose poisonous bite would cripple Asta for life. However, Yuno destroys the lizard and Sekke flees. Asta is taken to the Black Bulls Hideout and rushes inside to introduce himself, only to be struck by a magical explosion. As he is thrown backwards Yami welcomes him to the Black Bulls, the worst magic knight squad in the kingdom.

Virtuoso Complete Level 18 There are 18 levels of increasing difficulty for a total of lattices. Your highest completed level determines your DreamLight Verttice Rank. Photons Photons are generated by the Reactor Node and start moving in a random direction. As they glide along the beams of the Laser Lattice, they accumulate energy. They will explode unless docked into a Power Node where they may release their energy. Intersection Nodes Reactor Node: If a Photon crosses the Reactor Node, it travels straight through. InvisoVert Nodes work like basic Vert Nodes except that they hide the laser beam when released. AutoVert Nodes may be verted manually like normal Vert Nodes. However, they also vert automatically as a Photon passes through. InvisoAutoVert Nodes hide the laser beam when released and they also automatically vert as a Photon passes through. End Nodes Power Node: Power Nodes are located at the end of the corner laser beams. You must guide the Photons to empty Power Nodes. Warp Nodes are located at the ends of the center laser beams. Warp Nodes transport Photons to the opposite side of the Laser Lattice where they continue traveling in the same direction. When a Photon hits a Bumper Node, it bounces and reverses direction. Bumper Nodes are one-way gates. Strategy Plan Ahead Set up structures in the lattice that force the Photons to go where you want them to. Rather than waiting for the Photon, and reacting to it, think ahead. You must play offensively rather than defensively to win. Try to vert the second node ahead of the Photon rather than the one directly ahead. This gives you more time to think. You may also set up closed structures such as a figure eight to keep the Photon contained while you decide what to do next. This will prevent other newly generated Photons from following the same path and colliding into it. Once both Power Nodes in a corner are energized, close the Vert Node at that corner. This will prevent other Photons from colliding into the full Power Nodes in that corner. After a Photon explosion, open any corners that have two energized Power Nodes. Otherwise, the Photons in that corner will collide into each other when they are ejected back out onto the Lattice. You may also reverse the direction by changing the configuration of the Laser Lattice itself. Plan ahead and use this to your advantage.
