As is true for most suburban areas in the Greater Toronto Area, Ajax has grown considerably since the s. What was once a small town mostly surrounded by agricultural areas has increasingly become a bedroom community to Toronto and its environs. Many residents commute to work in Toronto or other municipalities in Durham Region. The following is a summary of major changes in the past several decades: Recent rapid low density population growth. Only one greenfield area of the Town remains, located in the north western corner of the town. As the town becomes increasingly built-out, the town is attempting to increase intensity of development, particularly in the downtown area near Harwood Avenue north of Bayly. However, development in Ajax still principally consists of single-family detached houses on separate lots, and so the fundamental nature of the town seems fixed for the near future. Recently, these areas have expanded to north Ajax. Although these projects have been going on for many years, until recently these homes have been constructed and citizens have now been residing in these homes. This has ultimately contributed to the population increase in Ajax. There are long-term plans to widen regional roads and Highway , as well as extend Highway , but this essentially represents status quo development. Increases in Durham Region Transit service, ongoing efforts to improve cycling and walking conditions, and the above noted intensification initiatives may alleviate this to some degree. Increasing multiculturalism , with many young ethnic professionals moving into the newer northern parts of Ajax. Given the large number of homes being built in the area for the last few years, this newer complex is home to plazas and sports recreational facilities. Summer camps and soccer clubs often find these recreational areas worthwhile given the new field and its aesthetic majesty. Parks are also built on this area and are mostly located in or nearby recreational facilities. Downtown Ajax[ edit ] Ajax Council and a private developer entered into an agreement in for the purchase and sale of 9 acres 3. Called "Pat Bayly Square", it will provide residential, retail and office space, as well as a civic square and civic facility. In addition, two Regional Councillors each represent a pair of wards. The current council was elected in October The members of the council are: Shaun Collier Marilyn Crawford: Regional Councillor, Ward 1 Sterling Lee: Regional Councillor, Ward 2 Joanne Dies: Councillor, Ward 1 Ashmeed Khan: Councillor, Ward 2 Lisa Bower: Councillor, Ward 3 In the past, Council has sat for a three-year term, but the Ontario Legislature increased the length of municipal council terms in Ontario to four years, in The median age is The racial make up of Ajax is: Ajax has the highest Black population percentage of any major Canadian city population above ,
