C Declaration by the Government of the Fed. Par la suite, M. The original mandate for the publication of the Yearbook was for a trial period of three years. This has been successfully completed, as was evidenced by many favourable reviews and a most gratifying reception in interested circles. The Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe, in consequence of this, authorised, in March, , the continuation of the European Yearbook indefinitely. Thus a venture has been, so to speak, put on a permanent basis, and this fact in itself is an indication of European progress. The year was indeed a most auspicious year in European integration, and while, on the whole, this Volume IV is designed to cover the developments of , attention has nevertheless been also given, in the articles as well as in the Documentary Section, to the new institutions, which are of outstanding importance. For this reason the Treaty instituting the European Economic Community is included among the Documentary texts in the present volume; owing to lack of space, however, the Euratom Treaty is held over for publication in Volume V. In view of the importance of these two new treaties for European integration, the Editorial Committee requested Ambassador Ophiils, Head of the delegation of the Federal Republic of Germany to the Brussels Conference, to give a historical sketch of the "relance europeenne" which inspired these treaties. George Nelson, Head of the Economic Division of the Research Department of the Council of Europe, has contributed an article about the different organisations concerned with the pacific utilisation of atomic energy. In this article specific stress is placed on the role of Europe with regard to this problem. For the same reason, M. Louis Armand, now Head of the Commission of Euratom the executive body , was asked to supply a contribution on the same theme. Another development in regard to the European Yearbook is a change in the composition of its Editorial Committee. Leon Marchal a la presidence du Comite de redaction, et que Mr. Robertson en titre de co-redacteur en chef. Benvenuti, the new Secretary-General of the Council of Europe, has assumed the chairmanship of the Editorial Committee previously held by the late M. Leon Marchal while Mr. Robertson who gave much time and energy to the Yearbook has many other demanding activities, but fortunately, he remains a member of the Editorial Committee.
