

1: A Testimony of Jesus Christ : - Revelation 9

Focusing on our modern times, we read in Ezekiel that Arabia and all the end-time princes of Ishmael's second-born son Kedar would be the regular merchants of, and have regular bilateral economic trade relationships with mystical Tyre (symbolizing the end-time Babylonian system, as described in the book of Revelation).

Shalom Partner and Friend of Israel, Does the "pale green horse rider" of Revelation 6 intrigue and send a mysterious sense of wonder for you? We have always been intrigued by the colours used for the four horses as it appears that they are the key. With the first three riders their colours depicts their "war tactics. The rider of the red horse will take peace from the world he will make war! The rider of the pale-green horse has the same terrible effects to his colour but will destroy one-fourth of the population of the world. Twice in the Bible, a significant prophecy is written concerning the four horsemen in Zechariah 6: They are four spirits that travel across the earth. And he said, "Go, patrol the earth. And, are these prevailing end-time spirits historically arch rivals, both in beliefs and politics? Catholicism fits the description of the white horse rider perfectly in Revelations 6: It is Roman Catholic custom that the Pope dresses in white; his helicopter is white; his jet-plane is white and his pope mobile is white. White is used as a symbol of peace. The predominant message of Roman Catholicism is the message of peace. The Vatican has become a diplomatic peace centre for the world. When peace is being negotiated between rulers of our world, the Pope and other high officials of the Roman Catholic Church are often consulted. The verse states that "a crown was given to the one sitting on the white horse. The verse also states that the rider of the white horse went forth conquering and to conquer. Although Catholicism at present has no standing army this has not always been the case the first Crusades were initiated by Pope Urban II and the Crusaders under the blessing of the pope fought on for many years. When the majority of the people of a nation becomes Catholic that nation is referred to as a Catholic nation. Conquering and to conquer is the spirit of the white horse. The prophecy says that those controlled by this "red spirit" would kill one another. It has been estimated that 80,, Chinese have been violently killed and removed since the Communists took over China in Everywhere communist revolution has gone there has been bloodshed and death! Finally; in the same verse, there was given to the rider of this red horse a great sword. What greater military might exist in the world today, than the combined power of Russia and China? Is there a nation that would like to go to war against these two giants? The red spirit which takes peace from the earth is Communism. The most intriguing characteristic of the rider on the red horse is the "mighty sword" he possesses. What is this mighty sword? Scales are a symbol of trade and commerce. What International spirit in the world embodies the message of commerce? This is reinforced in the next portion of this prophecy. This passage is a prophetic Stock Market Exchange report! Finally; in the same passage the Bible says, " and do not hurt the oil and wine. Is the black horse the spirit of capitalism foreseen by God 2, years ago? It seems this famine, as all others, falls most severely on the poor, who spend their entire wages on dwindling quantities of food, without spare funds for olive oil and wine, the delicacies of the rich. Could the green horse be a prophetic symbol of Islam? Islam certainly fits into the pattern of the previous three world movements symbolized by Communism, Catholicism and Capitalism. These are all powerful international movements that affected the course of the nations that embrace them and they each have symbolic colours that match one of the four horsemen. And authority was given to them to kill over the fourth of the earth with sword, and with famine, and with death, and the wild beasts of the earth. The colour "green" has a special place in Islam Green has been associated with Islam for many centuries. In the Koran Surah The colour green has been considered especially Islamic for centuries. The Crusaders avoided using any green in their Coats of Arms, so that they could not possibly be mistaken for their Muslim opponents in the heat of battle. Remember that they are already at war with the Jews! In the interest of humanity, however, we may hope that "the commander of the faithful" will never utter the dreadful word; for then indeed would the whole soul and strength of Christendom turn against the enemy of all civilized laws, human and divine! This figure is nearly the exact amount for one quarter of the world population. It is clear that from many events that we are very near the beginning of the great tribulation right now. If the fourth pale-green horse rider is the presence resurgence of Islam, the timing is absolutely perfect! The Sword of Death! Death is the trade mark of the pale-green horse, just as death is the trade mark of Islam. Almost daily we read reports of deadly suicide attacks in Israel, France, Kenya, Iraq, and many other countries. Many of the nations in Europe today are being overrun by an Islamic presence such as France, Germany, the Netherlands and England and many have more mosques than they do churches. In fact over churches in the UK have been converted into mosques! While none of the European nations have become Islamic nations as of yet, the influence of Islam and the push for Shariah Law is fierce. If Turkey gets its way and becomes an EU member things could change in Europe drastically and quickly. Revelation 6 says that "hell" follows the rider of death. Islam teaches their suicide bombers that paradise with 72 virgins follows their act of "martyrdom. The pale-green death horse rider was to "kill with a sword, hunger and death. Islamic countries are known for the spreading and increasing violence, poverty and disease. Beheading was practiced by the founder of Islam, the prophet Muhammad himself during the 7th century period of Islam and by most Islamic rulers thereafter. The Koran not only commands this as a specific method of killing ones enemies but it was also a favoured method of killing by Muhammad and his followers: It is quite undeniable that beheading is a tradition that stretches throughout Islamic history. Islam itself has thoroughly documented the fact that Muhammad and his immediate successors practiced beheading as the specific means to kill "the enemies of Islam. The Koran itself actually encourages beheading, or at a bare minimum, "smiting the necks" of "idolaters" and any "prisoners of war. As such it is actually very fair to assume that in the Islamic vision of the last-days, if a Caliph, specifically the Mahdi comes forward and accepts the notion that all Christians, Jews, Israelis, and any who support them are considered "enemies of Islam," then it would be considered universally lawful and indeed even obligatory for all Muslims to "make war" and "smite the necks" of all Christians, Jews, or Westerners etc, as well as any who dispute the authority of the Caliph. The Green Horse is also going to initiate the global ecological movement in the wake of World War III - a series of regional nuclear confrontations that are largely brought about in various areas through religious conflict initiated by the Islamic strongholds of planet earth. The Green Crescent is the recognized symbol of Islam and marks that hideous spirit of death that has historically animated the Moslem faith. That ancient evil is now riding at full gallop. Almost every single terrorist act that we read or hear about was done in the name of Allah For years they have been all about world domination. They will not be satisfied until the entire world is bowing down to Allah. This will never change. That is why they will be a force to reckon with as we edge further and further into the last days. It seems to be of no coincidence that as we get closer to the Tribulation hour that Islam has been on the rise more and more As we examine current events we see that the things going on in the Islamic nations and around Israel are lining up with the Scriptures. There is the burden against Egypt Isaiah 19 ; the burden against Babylon Isaiah 13 ; the burden against Edom Isaiah The word "burden" means "a duty or misfortune that causes hardship, anxiety or grief. Sure other nations are going through troubles too but they are NOT listed in the Bible and that is for a reason. The reason being is that the Bible is outlining the nations that are specifically against God or shall we say "anti" against Christ. One of the reasons is that it is the quiet way that Muslims are attempting to make new converts to Islam especially in the West. During the day the heat can be scorching, but at night it can get bitter cold. On one especially cold night, the Arab was in his nice warm tent where fire kept the environment warm. As the man began to go to sleep, he noticed a large camel nose sticking in under the tent! A little later the man awoke and saw that the camel now had his whole head in the tent. You said you only wanted your nose in the tent! I can sleep the whole night through. The results could be rather dangerous for us in the West and especially for Israel! This rewriting has two central goals: To erase the Jewish 3, year history in the land of Israel. Invent ancient Palestinian, Muslim and Arab histories in the land of Israel. The Holocaust and other aspects of Jewish history are alternately denied, downplayed or distorted. PA leaders repeatedly define Yeshua Jesus as a Palestinian and to hitch a ride into the past saying that He preached Islam, thus denying not only Jewish history, but also the history and legitimacy of Christianity. We hope that you enjoy and become more informed by our work. We serve an awesome God and we are humbled by this opportunity to bring you this information.

2: Book of Revelation - Wikipedia

Saudi Arabia is facing perhaps its greatest international crisis since the revelation that its citizens planned and carried out the attacks on Sept. 11, White Saudi Arabia is the odd man out in the Muslim world. Saudi Arabia is ruled by the Saudi Royal family and Sunni Al-Qaeda terrorists fight against them inside of their own country. Saudi Arabia is hated by Iran and also by Turkey. Saudi Arabia is the arch enemy of the Shia Islam dominated nation of Iran. It is unusual that the Shia and Sunni factions fight for the same side. Al-Qaeda is fighting in Yemen in order to expand its Caliphate. I am certain that Yemen will fall to Iranian control but then it will no doubt break out into a Shia vs Sunni battleground. The war between Iran and Saudi Arabia in Yemen is not specifically mentioned in the Bible but it is a preview of the wars to come during the Tribulation period. Four nations located along the Euphrates River will march to war. The Shia population as of is estimated to be million. I think that you may be able to add the Kurds to this fight because historically they have sided with Iran. Iran is the aggressor in Yemen. Iran will also be the aggressor in a full scale Shia vs Sunni Islamic war. So the Shia minority will rise up against the Sunni majority. This happens during the Tribulation. Iran along with Iraq and others will go to war with Saudi Arabia, India, Pakistan, Afghanistan, Turkmenistan and perhaps a few other nations. I am certain that Mystery Babylon is a city in Arabia. Mecca is the number one suspect since it is the seat of Islam. Go up, O Elam: Elam is ancient Persia or modern Iran. Today the Kurds represent the ancient Medes. Just as they destroyed Babylon in the past, they may destroy Mystery Babylon in the future. I think that Turkey and Iran will be united together under a new Islamic Empire. We can see how horrific conditions have become in Yemen. This is certain to spread throughout the old world during the Tribulation period. That is why Jesus Christ will compassionately remove Christians from the earth before the Tribulation begins in earnest. The verses above are written to the Jews living in Israel during the first half of the Tribulation. When Israel sees Iran attack Saudi Arabia then they will know that the worst part of their suffering is about to begin.

3: The Chronology of Revelation--Part 3

Islam spread in Arabia after being rejected at first. Muhammad, a merchant from Mecca, introduced a major world religion called Islam. The idea that people should help the poor is one important teaching of a religion called Islam.

As we are about to see, indeed it does. The Harlot is intimately related and connected to the last-days Islamic Empire. She represents the greatest and most influential anti-Yahweh religion that has ever existed. She exists geographically in a desert region. She is likely of royal stock. She is fabulously wealthy. On two occasions, she is highlighted as being a persecutor of the saints. Specifically, it is said that in her is found the blood of prophets and saints. She will be hated and ultimately destroyed by the same Islamic coalition of nations that she is so closely connected to. She is a politically and geographically definable entity that exerts a great measure of influence over and corrupts many kings, leaders, nations, nationalities, and people groups through her religion, money and products. The kings of the earth share in her luxury. She is an importer and an exporter. The merchants of the earth have grown rich from all of the goods that she purchases. She imports vast amounts of goods. Likewise, she also provides the merchants of the world with her "delicacies" whereby they grow rich. Beyond this, we see that she also imports various forms of produce, livestock and she even literally imports human beings. She has a large body of foreign nationals living in her midst who are warned by God to leave Babylon and return to their own respective countries. The first two descriptions help to identify the Harlot by identifying her close relationship with the greater Islamic world and the nature of her anti-Yahweh and anti-Christ religion. The Harlot will be intimately related and connected to the last days Islamic Empire. Every significant event in the early development of Islam under Muhammad took place on the Arabian Peninsula. It was in Arabia that Muhammad was born, where he grew up, where he carried out his "prophetic" career, and where he died. Not a single non-Muslim is allowed in these cities. Mecca is perhaps more worthy of the title of "spiritual capitol" than any other city in the world. Whenever someone wishes to describe the archetypal epicenter of anything, they call it the "Mecca" of whatever it might happen to be. This is due to the fact that five times daily, multiplied millions of Muslims from every nation in the world "turn their face" in prayer toward Mecca. Saudi Arabia, to this day, does not allow any church or synagogue to exist on the entire Saudi peninsula. The only recognized religion in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is Islam. In short, Saudi Arabia is Islam. The two are so intertwined that, in fact, they cannot be separated. In the 19th Century, when Ibn Saud, the patriarch of the Al Saud tribe was fighting for the consolidation of his tribal power, he forged an alliance with the patriarch of modern radical Sunni Islam, Muhammad ibn Abd-al-Wahhab. Since those days, the House of Saud and the House of Wahhab have been inseparable. The tendency of Wahhabism is thus toward the most extreme expressions of Islam and is the primary ideological source of so many radical Sunni Muslims worldwide. We should not be surprised, then, to find out that Osama bin Laden and the majority of the ground soldiers of al Qaeda consist of those who identify with Wahhabi thought. But beyond being the ideological source of radical Wahhabi Islam, Saudi Arabia is also undoubtedly the primary source of funding for Wahhabism worldwide. The point here is that beyond recognizing, as we said above, that Saudi Arabia itself is Islam, we may also quite rightly say that Saudi Arabia is radical Islam. Nor will we redress the harsh anti-Semitic nature of Islam in this section. The second and third descriptions speak of her extraordinary wealth and of her royalty. His timing was impeccable. In , only one year after the tribe of Al-Saud had come to power, Ibn Saud "granted broad exploration rights to Standard Oil of California. This quickly led to the formation of a mega oil consortium named Aramco Arabian American Oil Company. A series of governmental and corporate alliances were forged between the U. There has never been a speedier rise to the top of the global food chain of wealth and influence. As if overnight, an obscure Middle Eastern desert was transformed into a growing industrialized network of oil wells, refineries and pipelines. Likewise, the long-divided berg of desert tribes was transformed into a unified and formidable international presence: The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. Lastly, the Royal Family itself was transformed. Incomparable Saudi Wealth With regard to the wealth of the Saudi Royal Family, it would be extremely difficult to overstate the degree to which they lavish themselves with luxury. To a measure this is understandable. It is reasoned that America is the most affluent and materialistic society imaginable. Certainly, there are many aspects of American society that could quite justifiably be criticized, and materialism is certainly one of them. In fact, it is an outright over-the-top excessiveness that has come to define the Saudi elite. Examples, facts, figures and anecdotes could fill a book, but only a few examples are required to convey the reality of life for the Saudi Royals. Take the recently deceased King Fahd. As far back as , Fahd spent an evening gambling in Monte Carlo. Has Bill Gates ever been known to do such a thing? Do American Presidents ever act like this? It is here that we begin to understand the broad chasm between American wealth and Saudi wealth: It was essentially a tiny Vatican City, with opulent furnishings and walls that ran several miles around the perimeter. There are many more, including: He flew between cities in a private SP fitted with an enormous pink master bedroom, gold bathroom fixtures, a mahogany elevator, a sauna, and Baccarat crystal chandeliers. Posner also amusingly points out that Fahd actually had a British firm custom modify a Rolls Royce Camargue into a one-of-a-kind dune buggy. A Rolls Royce Camargue dune buggy! But if that is not enough, consider the following: And again, this is only one of his homes. Consider the amount of money that this is: But Prince Aziz is far from alone among the Saudi princes in surrounding himself with luxury beyond imagination. This particular palace has, among other things, rooms. The point however is that of the three descriptions regarding the Harlot; her royal status, her fabulous wealth and her location in a desert region, there simply could not be a better fit than the Saudi Royal Family. She is a persecutor of the saints. Not Rome Before we begin to discuss whether or not Islam and Saudi Arabia rightly fulfills these descriptions, it is important that we first review a few facts about the Roman Catholic Church. As we have already discussed, one of the more commonly held interpretations among Protestants for centuries is that the Roman Catholic Church, headquartered in Rome, is the fulfillment of the Harlot prophecies. While the Roman Catholic Church did, indeed, at times persecute Christians that were not Roman Catholic, it is important that we remember the full picture and consider all of the facts. But even more importantly, it is rarely discussed that the Roman Catholic Church has issued several public apologies and admissions of guilt with regard to many of its past sins. Thus the repentance is to both Jews and non-Roman Catholic Christians. On March 1, , with a press conference in Paris, representatives of the Roman Catholic Church released a new church document entitled: The Church and the Faults of the Past. Hence it is appropriate that as the second millennium of Christianity draws to a close, the Church should become ever more fully conscious of the sinfulness of her children, recalling all those times in history when they departed from the spirit of Christ and His Gospel and, instead of offering to the world the witness of a life inspired by the values of her faith, indulged in ways of thinking and acting which were truly forms of counter-witness and scandal. Although she is holy because of her incorporation into Christ, the Church does not tire of doing penance. Before God and man, she always acknowledges as her own her sinful sons and daughters. Confession of sins and asking for forgiveness. In the homily, the Pope expressed regret and repentance over the historical sins of those Catholics who persecuted or sinned against "women, Jews, Gypsies, other Christians, and Catholics. While the Catholic Church has admitted to sinning against "other Christians," the fact is that much of the violence and bloodshed that occurred in the days of the Protestant Reformation was most certainly reciprocated whenever Protestants had the power and the opportunity. If such were not the case, then surely as children of the Reformation, would not Protestants today be guilty as well? When one looks to Rome today, is there Christian or Jewish blood being shed? Instead of persecution, we see apologies and public repentance. This is a far cry from what is described in the Book of Revelation, where we read: The simple facts remain; any killing or violence committed in centuries past by Catholics undeniably pale in comparison to the torrents of abuse and blood that have been released by Muslims since the earliest years of Islam. Certainly exceptions can be found, but they remain just that: Instead, we will only briefly discuss the form and the extent of the bloodguilt of the House of Al Saud. The Bloodguilt of the House of Al Saud While we will unpack this subject in greater detail later in this chapter, for now we will simply remind the reader of what should be obvious to the world: Saudi Arabia has a very clear and specific program of exporting and funding radical Wahhabi Islam and Islamic jihad throughout the Middle East and abroad. On this front, the Saudis barely attempt to hide their support for the Islamic terrorists. Kenneth Timmerman, noted author and activist, on Insight on the News: My hatred of America, if part of it was contained in the universe, it would collapse. Their women are yours to take, legitimately. God made them yours. There was, for example, the year-old Abdullah Quran or the partially retarded 16 year old Husam Abo, both of whom by the grace of God failed to detonate their bombs, each claiming that they were pressured or conned by older terrorists to carry bombs into an Israeli check post. More successful was Saeed Hotari, who died in a suicide bombing outside a Tel Aviv disco, killing 21 Israelis and injuring over a hundred. The report states that:

4: Tony Blair Confirms Receiving $12 Million Dollars From Saudi Arabia

Saudi Arabia is America's largest arms customer, $39 billion since the Gulf War, and the Russians would be only too happy to step in and assume any unfulfilled defense contracts. On the other hand, America imported million barrels of Saudi oil per day last year.

Pre-Islamic Arabia There is evidence that human habitation in the Arabian Peninsula dates back to about 100,000 years ago. Arabia underwent an extreme environmental fluctuation in the Quaternary that led to profound evolutionary and demographic changes. Arabia has a rich Lower Paleolithic record, and the quantity of Oldwan-like sites in the region indicates a significant role that Arabia had played in the early hominin colonization of Eurasia [43] The Worshipping Servant statue BC, above one metre in height, the statue is much taller than any possible Mesopotamian or Harappan models [44] Religion in pre-Islamic Arabia The religions that were followed by the people of the Arabian Peninsula before Islam consisted of indigenous polytheistic beliefs, Arabian Christianity, Nestorian Christianity, Judaism and Zoroastrianism. Al-Magar Al-Magar was a prehistoric culture whose epicenter lay in modern-day southwestern Najd. Al-Magar is characterized as being one of the first civilizations in the world where widespread domestication of animals occurred, particularly the horse, during the Neolithic period. Radiocarbon dating of these and other objects discovered indicate an age of about 9,000 years. The various discoveries reflect the significance of the site as an important ancient civilization and gives it significant pre-historic importance with enough proof and detailed data for re-writing the Neolithic history of the Arabian Peninsula and Saudi Arabia in particular. Al-Magar also reveals additional information about the relationship between human economic activities and inherent climate change, how hunter-gatherer societies became sedentary, how they made use of natural resources available to them, and how they set into motion the domestication of plants and animals. These rock engravings date back more than 10,000 years, making them the earliest depictions of dogs in the world. It is one of the oldest churches in the world. Thamud Thamud is the name of an ancient civilization in the Hejaz known from the 1st millennium BC to near the time of Muhammad. More than 9,000 Thamudic inscriptions were recorded in south-west Saudi Arabia. Their loosely controlled trading network, which centered on strings of oases that they controlled, where agriculture was intensively practiced in limited areas, and on the routes that linked them, had no securely defined boundaries in the surrounding desert. Trajan conquered the Nabataean kingdom, annexing it to the Roman Empire, where their individual culture, easily identified by their characteristic finely potted painted ceramics, was adopted into the larger Greco-Roman culture. They were later converted to Christianity. Jane Taylor, a writer, describes them as "one of the most gifted peoples of the ancient world". Lihyan The kingdom of Lihyan Arabic: It was located in northwestern of the now-day Saudi Arabia, and is known for its Ancient North Arabian inscriptions dating to ca. 1000 BC Kindah Fragment of a wall painting showing a Kindite king, 1st century CE Kindah was a tribal kingdom that was established in the Najd in central Arabia. Its kings exercised an influence over a number of associated tribes more by personal prestige than by coercive settled authority. Caliphate Shortly before the advent of Islam, apart from urban trading settlements such as Mecca and Medina, much of what was to become Saudi Arabia was populated by nomadic pastoral tribal societies. In the early 7th century, Muhammad united the various tribes of the peninsula and created a single Islamic religious polity. Arabia soon became a more politically peripheral region of the Muslim world as the focus shifted to the vast and newly conquered lands. It was also larger than any previous empire in history. The Battle of Badr, 13 March CE From the 10th century to the early 20th century Mecca and Medina were under the control of a local Arab ruler known as the Sharif of Mecca, but at most times the Sharif owed allegiance to the ruler of one of the major Islamic empires based in Baghdad, Cairo or Istanbul. Most of the remainder of what became Saudi Arabia reverted to traditional tribal rule. In 1075, the Qarmatians pillaged Mecca, outraging the Muslim world, particularly with their theft of the Black Stone. The Bani Khalid tribe later revolted against them in 17th century and took control. Unification of Saudi Arabia The Arabian Peninsula in The emergence of what was to become the Saudi royal family, known as the Al Saud, began in Nejd in central Arabia in 1744, when Muhammad bin Saud, founder of the dynasty, joined forces with the religious leader Muhammad ibn Abd al-Wahhab , [81] founder of the Wahhabi movement, a strict puritanical form of Sunni Islam. Throughout the rest of the 19th century, the Al Saud contested control of the interior of what was to become Saudi Arabia with another Arabian ruling family, the Al Rashid. At the beginning of the 20th century, the Ottoman Empire continued to control or have a suzerainty over most of the peninsula. Subject to this suzerainty, Arabia was ruled by a patchwork of tribal rulers, [86] [87] with the Sharif of Mecca having pre-eminence and ruling the Hejaz. For the next five years, he administered the two parts of his dual kingdom as separate units. As a result, they turned against Ibn Saud and, after a two-year struggle, were defeated in at the Battle of Sabilla , where their leaders were massacred. Modern history of Saudi Arabia Saudi Arabia political map The new kingdom was reliant on limited agriculture and pilgrimage revenues. Oil provided Saudi Arabia with economic prosperity and substantial political leverage internationally. However, the large influx of foreign workers in Saudi Arabia in the oil industry increased the pre-existing propensity for xenophobia. At the same time, the government became increasingly wasteful and extravagant. By the s this had led to large governmental deficits and excessive foreign borrowing. The first was the Iranian Islamic Revolution. There were several anti-government uprisings in the region such as the Qatif Uprising. The militants involved were in part angered by what they considered to be the corruption and un-Islamic nature of the Saudi government. Part of the response of the royal family was to enforce a much stricter observance of traditional religious and social norms in the country for example, the closure of cinemas and to give the Ulema a greater role in government. He was succeeded by his brother, King Fahd , who added the title "Custodian of the Two Holy Mosques" to his name in in response to considerable fundamentalist pressure to avoid use of "majesty" in association with anything except God. Fahd continued to develop close relations with the United States and increased the purchase of American and British military equipment. It led to rapid technological but not cultural modernisation, urbanization, mass public education and the creation of new media. This and the presence of increasingly large numbers of foreign workers greatly affected traditional Saudi norms and values. Although there was dramatic change in the social and economic life of the country, political power continued to be monopolized by the royal family [65] leading to discontent among many Saudis who began to look for wider participation in government. In , Saudi Arabian forces were involved both in bombing raids on Iraq and in the land invasion that helped to liberate Kuwait. Osama bin Laden was a Saudi national until stripped of his nationality in and was responsible for the U. High taxes and a growth in unemployment have contributed to discontent, and has been reflected in a rise in civil unrest, and discontent with the royal family. In response, a number of limited "reforms" were initiated by King Fahd. In March , he introduced the " Basic Law ", which emphasised the duties and responsibilities of a ruler. In December , the Consultative Council was inaugurated. It is composed of a chairman and 60 membersâ€”all chosen by the King. Women were not allowed to take part in the poll.

after the death of the apostles, possibly long after, since the book of Revelation wrote about future events reaching down to our time. Revelation (NIV) Then war broke out in heaven.

Print What does the Bible say about Saudi Arabia? Ishmael was born when Abraham was eighty-six years old. He was circumcised at the age of 13—a custom still followed today by the Arabs. Ishmael and his half-brother Isaac buried Abraham together. Ishmael died aged Under David, an Ishmaelite officer was put in charge over camels 1 Chronicles Previously, at the time of Gideon, Ishmaelites had the unusual custom of wearing golden earrings Judges 8: At the time of Solomon, the kings of Arabia were famous for their riches in gold which they shared, in part, with Solomon 1 Kings We read about the nomadic nature of Ishmael and his sons, when the Bible refers to the tents of Kedar Psalm Even though such nomadic nature would somewhat change in time, the Bible still uses those terms in respect to Ishmael and his descendants, when addressing prophetic events of the future. The Bible describes the relationship between Israel or Judah and Ishmael and his descendants mostly as a hostile one. We read in 1 Chronicles 5: Since raiders who came with the Arabians killed all the older sons of King Jehoram, his youngest son Ahaziah was made king over Judah, but he did not behave any better than his evil father 2 Chronicles However, when later a righteous king came to the throne of Judah, namely King Uzziah, God helped him against hostile Arabians 2 Chronicles It is not certain whether this prophecy has any dual application for us today. At the time of the prophet Jeremiah, we read in chapters 40 and 41 of the book Jeremiah, that an Ishmaelite slayed the governor of Babylon and all the Jews and Chaldeans who were with him compare Jeremiah On the other hand, we have seen that there were at times friendly relationships between Israel and Judah and the Arabs; for instance, when the kings of Arabia brought presents to Solomon and Jehoshaphat. On the other hand, Paul states in Galatians 4: This is true, of course, for the whole world today, which is cut off from God. Focusing on our modern times, we read in Ezekiel Focusing more on end-time prophecies, we also find the remarkable statement that Kedar would not have changed their god in recent times—“unlike the modern house of Israel which did compare Jeremiah 2: Ever since the Arabs accepted Islam as their religion and began to worship Allah, they have over all stuck to that form of religious worship. The modern house of Israel, on the other hand, has totally abandoned the God of the Bible Jeremiah 2: When God intervenes in world affairs, He will begin to pour out His wrath and fury over all nations, by bringing the sword over them Jeremiah We find a remarkable and somewhat detailed prophecy about the future of Saudi Arabia in Isaiah In the forest in Arabia you will lodge, O you traveling companies of the Dedanites [apparently descendants of Jokshan, the son of Abraham by Keturah, Genesis O inhabitants of the land of Tema [see above], Bring water to him who is thirsty; With their bread they met him who fled. For they fled from the swords, from the drawn sword, From the bent bow, and from distress of war. We are not specifically told who exactly will defeat the Arabs in war, but we note that in Old Testament times, the Assyrians did so, and most commentaries apply the prophecy of Isaiah to that occurrence. They overlook, however, that the prophecy is primarily for our times today see below , but the question is whether the prophecy is dual, in that Assyria will again be the enemy defeating the Arabs in war, after they first had entered into an alliance with Assyria against Israel. In that context, we note that the immediate context of this prophecy is the fall of the modern Babylonian system which is currently rising one more time in Europe compare Isaiah What a time it will be when all nations, including the Arabs, will embrace the one and only true religion of the Bible, as taught in the Old and New Testament, and accept God the Father—the highest in the Godhead—and Jesus Christ, the Son of God, as their one and only true personal Savior, without whom there is no salvation Acts 4: Norbert Link Select categories to search within Booklets.

6: Is ISLAM the Green Horse of Revelation?

CNN also reported that most of the news outlets that agreed to cover a high-profile business conference in Saudi Arabia have pulled out following the revelation, but reports have since emerged.

Comment The disappearance of journalist Jamal Khashoggi has many scrutinizing Saudi Arabia this week. Given the recent disappearance and increasingly likely death of journalist Jamal Khashoggi, this is certainly the time to investigate ties between Saudi and United States politics. Khashoggi, a prominent critic of the powerful Saudi royal family, disappeared earlier this week. He had been visiting the Saudi consulate in Istanbul. Security camera footage shows him entering the building, but there is currently no evidence showing that he left. Turkish officials now believe that a team of 15 Saudis arrived in Istanbul to kill Khashoggi and dispose of his remains. Naturally, Saudi officials deny everything. Still, it all looks incredibly suspicious, from the 3: Certainly, he did not make friends with the Royal House of Saud, the incredibly rich and powerful family that governs Saudi Arabia under an absolute monarchy. How did we get here? Those ties are becoming more and more obvious under the Trump presidency. They are also likely to make you feel very uncomfortable, indeed. That film rule, by the way, was pushed aside in favor of none other than The Emoji Movie. Perhaps that was not the best way to introduce Saudi audiences to foreign cinema after 35 years. At least everyone got a second chance with Black Panther earlier this year. MBS has also been at the forefront of other changes in his nation, including Vision To attract more people and companies from across the globe, you need to present yourself as a progressive nation. To that end, we have not just the spectacle of women driving in , but increased tourism campaigns and even large wrestling spectacles headed by the WWE. All of this has earned MBS some serious progressive cred. Yet, is that truly earned? For all that Saudi Arabia has welcomed John Cena and women behind the steering wheel, there is a dark undercurrent to the Saudi royal family. The truth is much more complex. For example, remember those women who were finally allowed the basic right to drive around their communities? That news story was preceded by a series of arrests of women who were protesting the old no-driving rule. Trump has worked to establish strong ties between the United States and the Saudis. After all, Saudi Arabia, was the first nation he visited after becoming President. Instead, he relies on the somewhat more personal touch of sending his son-in-law, advisor Jared Kushner. Why does Trump like Saudi Arabia so much? Members of the royal House of Saud have bought a ton of things from him. After all, how is he supposed to ignore absolute monarchs when they throw money at his real estate ventures? What makes this different? Obama and his administration happily sold weapons to the Saudis, even as Saudi Arabia got involved with Yemen. Rather, we should focus more on the extent of the involvement between the two countries, which has accelerated in recent months. Yet, does anyone seriously believe that Trump or anyone else in his administration will find fault with MBS or anyone else associated with him? When the full force of Saudi money comes up against the current White House and their investment in Trump properties, it is hard to imagine that anything of merit will come out of it. John Oliver talks Brazil and its elections on Last Week Tonight So, while other American presidents have certainly taken part in the murky politics of the House of Saud and their absolute monarchy, Trump may be the first one to completely ignore human rights violations in the face of financial gain.

Unlike the previous four trumpet judgments, these target men rather than natural systems. Then the fifth angel sounded This is the fifth angel of the seven which were given trumpets Rev. When he sounds, it brings forth the first of the remaining three woes. See commentary on Revelation 8: And the more unusual the description of the plague, as here, the more fanciful this speculation becomes. Although we describe the problems associated with the Historicist Interpretation elsewhere, we offer a small example of its fruits in interpreting this fifth trumpet—a demonstration of its inadequacies: By this [the fifth trumpet] is predicted an event, from which the world still trembles,“the French Revolution. A sketch [of the French Revolution], divested of the prejudices of both sides, shall now be given. This sketch unquestionably contains the substance of the French Revolution. Yet it is the work of no living pen. It is seventeen hundred years old,“The Ninth Chapter of the Apocalypse. The key to understanding the nature of the judgment associated with the fifth trumpet is found in a study of the source from whence the locust army, loosed by the fifth trumpet, comes and how they got there. Suffice it to say, it is not Frenchmen being held locked away in the bottomless pit! This entire passage describes something yet future to the experience of the earth: None of the interpretations which regard them as past, are satisfactory. That this star is not an astronomical body, but a person, can be seen by the reference to him, he Rev. John did not see the actual fall. At the time John saw the star, it had already fallen. Since the star had previously fallen, some suggest from the immediate context that it refers to the star of the third trumpet which fell from heaven and is called Wormwood Rev. In the last chapter we saw it in the course of its falling. The result was the bitterness of wormwood. We now see it fallen to the earth. May it not be merely that the great star has lost much of his power and is now a fallen star? It is none other than Satan himself and we shall see the details of this coming to earth in the twelfth chapter [Rev. If so, then the demonic locusts which he unleashes from the pit may be what is referred to, in part, when John records: The reference, we think, is not to his original fall, but to what is described in Rev. The fact that the key of the abyss is given to him is in keeping with the fact that during the tribulation period God allows him free rein and suffers him to do his worst. See commentary on Revelation 9: As we see in this book, God has a wry wit about His judgments, for example: Here he unleashes upon the world the very beings they worship in order that they may get a fill of their ways. Incredibly, they will still refuse to repent! The horror which this fallen star is about to unleash is entirely subject to the sovereign permission of God. See commentary on Revelation 6: Now the star which had previously fallen is given the key to unlock whomever or whatever is held there! Later, an angel will be given the same key with which to lock Satan within the same compartment for the duration of the Millennial Kingdom Rev. Paul associated the bottomless pit abyss with the location of the dead Rom. See commentary on Revelation 1: The word is also translated pit Luke The abyss is discernible only by God. How did they get in? The abyss appears to be a prison of sorts for demons, as evidenced by the request of the demons which Jesus cast out of Legion. And the angels who did not keep their proper domain, but left their own abode, He has reserved in everlasting chains under darkness for the judgment of the great day; as Sodom and Gomorrah, and the cities around them in a similar manner to these, having given themselves over to sexual immorality and gone after strange flesh, are set forth as an example, suffering the vengeance of eternal fire. This is The Day of the Lord. The flesh was not allos similar , but heteros different. This seems to point to the event prior to the flood when certain angels went after flesh of a different kind: But the grammar indicates that these masculine plural refers back to the angels masculine plural. Sodom and Gomorrah and the cities around them gave themselves over to sexual immorality and went after strange flesh in a similar manner to the angels. The actions of the inhabitants of the cities is compared to that of the angels which preceded. These angels are guilty of the specific sin involving flesh of a different kind Gen. Other demons imprisoned in the abyss may be the ones released. So the pit is the preliminary place of incarceration for demons from which some are to be released under this judgment. Perhaps the angels, some of which are in the abyss for having gone after strange flesh, will be involved in the origination of the beast. Or perhaps his ascent from the abyss merely indicates his empowerment by Satan 2Th. See commentary on Revelation The demons which inhabit the abyss have a king, Abaddon or Apollyon: Jehovah once said to Job: There are worlds of being and of darkness upon which man has never looked. There is a tenanted abyss of which the demons know, and concerning which they besought the Saviour that He would not send them into it [Luke 8: It is a dark and horrible prison, in which many, many strange and evil things are shut up. Satan knows of that world, and would fain bring forth its malignant inhabitants into the earth if he only dared. At last, however, he receives permission to bring them, and the fifth trumpet gives the result. A similar plume of smoke attended the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah by fire Gen. There will be numerous situations which result in the reduction of light from the sun during the Tribulation period. They are said to be locusts. We encounter another similarity between the judgments sent upon the earth dwellers in the Tribulation and the plagues of Egypt Ex. Since the bottomless pit was previously locked and is evidently of a great temperature, natural locusts would neither find entry nor be able to survive in the pit. But these are not normal locusts, as other factors in this passage make plain. Isaiah describes a noise of tumult at which the people shall fleeâ€”in response to the Lord rousing Himself. Notice that the judgment of the people, compared to the ravaging of locusts, is said to be the work of God. Joel also saw this end-time locust-like army of the Lord. For the day of the LORD is great and very terrible; who can endure it? Of course the liberal theologian would say this refers simply to the locust plague and the local situation. He would like to dismiss a great deal of meaning from the Word of God. The other extreme view is to say this refers only to the Great Tribulation Period. I think we need to see that in Joel there is a marvelous blending. He moves right out of the locust plague to the Day of the Lord which is way out yonder in the future. Not literal, but figurative locusts. The fifth trumpet, or first woe, in the parallel passage [to Joel] Rev. Then the blessings of the Messianic Kingdom Joel 3: This matches the order of events in the book of Revelation. The demonic plagues of this chapter are the first of these three stages. It is therefore with diffidence that we suggest, without being dogmatic, that they are, most likely, fallen angels now imprisoned in Tartarus. So also the term Tartarus is found nowhere but in 2Pe. It seems likely, then, that the well of the Pit may be only another name for Tartarus with which only fallen angels are connected , just as the Lake of Fire is only another name for Gehenna. The time when God will thus use them is stated in Jude 1: Confirmatory of this, observe that in Joel 2: This phrase implies not only that these are not scorpions being locusts , but that neither are they of the earth. Their origin is not of the earth. Originally, they were angels of heaven, but chose to follow Satan in his rebellion, and eventually committed the serious offense which led to their confinement. Now, they are of the abyss Rev. Their similarity with earthly scorpions is found in their ability to inflict a painful sting Rev. The first four trumpets involve judgments on natural systems, including vegetation, whereas the judgments of the final three trumpets target people. In contrast to the previous trumpet judgments Rev. These are not natural locusts: They did not attack human beings. For they covered the face of the whole earth, so that the land was darkened; and they ate every herb of the land and all the fruit of the trees which the hail had left. So there remained nothing green on the trees or on the plants of the field throughout all the land of Egypt. We witnessed them twice. It is difficult to express the effect produced on us by the sight of the whole atmosphere filled on all sides and to a great height by an innumerable quantity of these insects, whose flight was slow and uniform, and whose noise resembled that of rain:

If that's true, then the revelation that Saudi Arabia abruptly and violently silenced one of its most prominent critics puts the United States in a particularly tough spot. How did we get here? What is America's role in the story, and how has its relationship with Saudi Arabia influenced the course of Khashoggi's almost-certain death?

Saturday, November 18, Biblical Egypt might not be Egypt Egypt is the name of a modern nation on the north eastern coast of Africa, where the Nile river enters enters the Mediterranean Sea. We also commonly use that name for the Ancient civilization that existed in various forms on that same location for over years ending around 30 BC. Resulting in an assumption that those Biblical names refer to that same ancient civilization. A number of theories have been proposed that say that translation is wrong. My first instinct was naturally to oppose that idea. I had specifically opposed it in my The Nile in The Bible post, but admittedly my logic behind seeing that alternate Hebrew word for river or some kind of body of water as an Egyptian name for The Nile was pretty flawed. Now lots of people tie this into other weird theories, like saying Israel was actually in Arabia, or pre-exile Israel at least. I definitely reject that. Jesus was born in the same Bethlehem as David, and probably Crucified on the same mountain Isaac was offered. And 12th Dynasty Kemet records place the Anakim in Hebron. Where in Arabia to look seems to vary, its been placed in Yemen, or north-east of Yemen, others I think place it as a closer neighbor to Israel. However that is flawed logic at best. People like to read significance into Mizraim ending with a Dual suffix. But that same Dual Suffix also ends the name Ephraim. In Genesis 12 Abraham travels through the Land promised to him till he reaches the Negev usually translated South , then famine brings him to Mizraim. From this point he could have easily went either south-west to Africa, or south-east to Arabia. How these lands are today has us thinking the Nile is a far better solution for fleeing a famine. But there is good reason to believe much of Arabia used to be not be as barren as it is now, and perhaps more recently than most think. While in Mizraim a whole drama unfolds. Then Abraham returned to the promised land via the Negev in chapter Later when Hagar leaves the house of Abraham after Isaac is born, pretty much everyone agrees she went to what qualified as Arabia, Christians just sometimes disagree with Muslims on how far south. And while there, in Arabia, she arranges for Ishmael to marry a Mizraimite wife. So this is often considered the first clue that Mizraim should be in Arabia if we remove our assumptions. Slavery was very common in Arabia however, and as such was perfectly legal under Islam. In the narratives surrounding the reign of Solomon. Also Shishak is never called Pharaoh. There are some Pre-Islamic traditions about the tribes of Joktan that are interesting. Referring to a Firnifs as the first king of Egypt or Mesraye. After him Sheba became a matriarchy for 60 generations. But in another version Puntos was the first king of Egypt. So confusion clearly existed here. Attempts to interpret these records as referring to Kemet are difficult. Even scholars who do think Biblical Misraim is Kemet still find themselves seeing these as separate. The Misr there seem like an awfully minor player to be the powerful Nile empire. This tribe is often mentioned alongside other Arab kingdoms like Dedan and Kedar. However Paruah is a Hebrew name I think might be closer to being a variant on the same name. Much speculations has gone on about the Bithiah daughter of Pharaoh mentioned in 1 Chronicles 4 who was a wife of Mered. The Ten Commandments film reflects a tradition identifying her with the adoptive mother of Moses. But this Pharaoh is not connected to Mizraim or called a King, so maybe he was just an Israelite with that name? At a certain point Mizraim definitely becomes the Egypt we usually think of. In Jeremiah and Ezekiel and at the very end of the 2 Kings and 2 Chronicles narratives, starting in the reign of Josiah. And later the allusions to Mizraim in Daniel 11 are definitely about the Ptolemaic Dynasty. Maybe Mizraim could be identified with one of the Hyksos tribes? But more importantly, this is post Assyria. But the Biblical references to him do not link him directly to Mizraim. Neither calling him a Mizraimite or saying he was a king of Mizraim. In addition to deporting populations, they resettled in a new population from elsewhere, hence the origins of the Samaritans in II Kings So perhaps after Assyria deported Kemet, they resettled Mizraimites there who then became the Dynasty conventional chronology calls the 26th. Manetho claimed the 26th Dynasty had kings before Necho I The Biblical Necho is Necho II , but that could be based on their propaganda trying to seem more indigenous than they really were. And was the name of the Roman province in that region Copt and Coptic also come from Aegyptus by a long process. The Greek texts of the New Testament use this name a lot, including in Old Testament references that are about Mizraim. So many proponents of this theory say the Septuagint is the origin of the confusion. However I think that Greek name may be in exactly the same situation as Mizraim. Dannus was given Libya, making him perhaps Phut. I believe Homer was a contemporary of Gyges of Lydia. By Herodotus time Aegyptus came to refer to all the Dynasties that ruled Kemet, but it may not have originally. And so the Septuagint usage of Aegyptus came to confuse people. Many think the Greek Aegyptus comes from a name of Memphis hwt-ka-ptah. But that looks like a stretch to me. The etymology of Aegyptus I may return to later. But I wonder about the Aegyptus the family of Jesus fled to in Matthew 2, since it drew on an Old Testament reference. The presence of Camels in Mizraim is among things cited as evidence that it seems more likely to be Arabia than Africa. The ancient nation of Kemet not only did practice Circumcision, but to secular historians they provide the oldest known documentation of it, from the Saqqara tomb of the 5th Dynasty Ka-Priest Ankh-Mahor. And Hellenistic Greek writers seem to consider the Jewish practice of Circumcision evidence of their Egyptian origins. Part of this speculation is if the Cushite wife Moses married was the same person as Zipporah or not. So that should be considered when discussing passages where Mizraim and Cush are mentioned together. On the subject of Mizraim having something to do with the Hyksos. We call them the Hyksos because of what Manetho wrote in Greek, the records of Kemet call them the Amu, maybe Amu could come from the Anamim, one of the sons of Mizraim. The Ludim and Lahubim have been proposed as alternatives to Phut for the origins of some of the people we call Libyans, but names like those did exist in Arabia too, and perhaps some of the Libyans also came via the Hyksos. Also according to archeology Kemet often controlled the Holy Land. So they must be in The Bible somewhere? Some Egyptologists think the early people of Kemet were a variety of tribes from different origins, some southern in origin and some northern. The name Kemet can be considered evidence they were at least partly Hamite. I did a post arguing that Seir and the Horites of Genesis 36 were the historical figures behind Osiris and Horus. At the time I did that post still assuming Mizraim was Kemet. But that Kemet practiced Circumcision as early as the 5th Dynasty makes me think it possible they partly come from Abraham. Since it seems to me like Genesis 17 is introducing that whole idea. And yes that means I even consider Circumcision practiced by Native Americans evidence of Abrahamic ancestry for them. The Genesis 36 connection could provide a connection to Edom. The Interesting Narrative and Other Writings. I doubt Kemet per say is what they had in mind, but Circumcision was part of the argument. Naturally much of my revised Chronology speculation would be defunct if this is true. But even conventional Chronology is dependent on some Biblical synchronisms. If we only tweak the chronology by a century or so, the Kingdom period begins about where the Third Intermediate Period does. And since my date for the Exodus is older than most, about BC. Even in conventional Chronology I could place it close to when the Middle Kingdom ended. So in that case, times in which Kemet ruled the land of Israel would be mostly the Judges period or before. Could they be identified with one of the oppressors? But the Judges narrative focuses mainly on the Northern Tribes seemingly. Another difficult to identify tribe in Judges is the Maonites. There are reasons to speculate the 19th Dynasty might have been of Hyksos stock. Going back to the Greek mythology discussed above. Robert Graves believed Inachus descended from Iapetus Japheth. This is ignored in many theories about the history behind those myths, including my above making Belus Ham and Aegyptus Mizraim. But the Greek mythology is garbled, so some conflicting influences could exist. I do think even early on Kemet might have been more diverse than most give it credit for. But they were overall a brown or dark skinned people, regardless of which son of Noah they came from. Cyprus was also strongly linked to the Ptolemaic Dynasty, and Kittim son of Javan was most anciently a name for Cyprus. Ancient Kemet often controlled Cyprus as well.
