You're welcome to retake any of our tests as many times as you'd like.*

If you know of any other products that may be useful, or if you have any thoughts on our recommended products for the ASVAB, please leave us a comment! Our sample exams require no registration, and include scoring and answer explanations. Try a practice test from Test-Guide. There are three modes to choose from to study: You can change your study mode by selecting the drop down box below the flash card. Also, consider using our practice tests, once you have mastered the flashcards. Flashcards are an ideal study technique to help become familiar with vocabulary terms and facts that you will be tested on for your admission to the U. Vocabulary terms, math facts and scientific concepts are ideal items to use flash cards for. Navigate through the flashcards by clicking next and previous. You can press Flip to see the definitions. If you got the definition correct, mark it "correct" - otherwise mark it incorrect. When you get through all of the flashcards, you will be given the option to review all the cards, or just the ones you marked incorrect. A common mistake by most people is thinking that it is a measure of you IQ. Saying that, it is also important to take a ASVAB sample test to insure you know what type of questions will be asked. Another thing to keep in mind is every person in the armed forces has to take the exam and you are not being called out to take it. Part of becoming a part of that Army though is that you have to pass a number of tests. Here is what you need to know about this test if you are thinking about joining this branch of the military. The questions and answers are not always as straightforward as you might think. So you should really know some basics about the scores to best understand them. If you are preparing to take the test, here is some advice on how to get the best results. They are different levels of education that you must reach to take the test. But you also need to score a certain amount of points on that ASVAB test to gain access into the branch you desire. The ASVAB not only determines whether or not a candidate is qualified to serve in the armed forces but also shows which specific job they have the most aptitude for. Each branch of the U. Your scores on the ASVAB determine not only your entrance into the military, but also your job, advancement opportunities, and potential salary. The ASVAB exam consists of questions in ten different areas, but in general, the exam is measuring your aptitude in four key areas: Math, Verbal, Science and Technical, and Spatial. ASVAB scores can also be used by test takers to help explore which careers they may be a good fit for them – whether they go into the military or not. While no one officially passes or fails the ASVAB, each branch of the military has specific minimum scores required for enlistment. Your scores also affect the type of military job, enlistment bonuses and salary you are eligible for.

Studying for your ASVAB test using sample questions is one of the most effective study practices you can use. Familiarity With the Test Format - Every standardized test has its own unique format. Once the test day arrives you will have no surprises! Focusing Your Study - As you take more and more sample tests you begin to get a feel for the topics that you know well and the areas that you are weak on. Many students waste a lot of valuable study time by reviewing material that they are good at often because it is easier or makes them feel better. The most effective way to study is to concentrate on the areas that you need help on. Improving Your Problem Solving Abilities - As you practice with our sample questions, and review the provided explanations, you will increase your ability to solve problems. Solid problem solving skills will be crucial for you to achieve a passing score on your exams, especially the mathematics portions. This AFQT score is represented as a percentile from which depicts how well you scored compared to other test takers. The scores from the other tests are used to determine what type of specialty you might be best suited for. These "composite" scores also known as line scores, MOS scores, or aptitude area scores are calculated by adding together combinations of the different sub test standard scores. These composite scores are then used to determine which different military jobs aka Military Occupational Specialties or MOS may be the best fit for you. Each branch of the military will have their own approach to these composite scores. The ASVAB test content is the same no matter where you take it, except that you will not have to take the Assembling Objects test if you take the test at your school as part of the Student Testing Program. These scores are used for assigning your military job. Candidates do not have to pay for the test itself, however, if an MEP location is not located in your city or town, travel expenses may be required. Dates are pre-determined and provided by the MEP. Students should check with the nearest MEP to determine when the test is offered. It is also important to be on time or early! If you are testing at a MEPS site you will take it on a computer. The pencil and paper version is given at most MET sites. The computer version of the test is given as a "computer adaptive test" CAT which means that the test will adapt based on the level of the individual test taker e. After a candidate has completed the ASVAB they must wait one calendar month before retaking the exam. An additional calendar month must pass before retesting a second time. Six calendar months must pass before retaking the test a third time. The scores received from the ASVAB may be used for enlistment for up to two years from the initial test date. A recruiter will ask about marital status, health, education, drug use, and arrest record. It is important for the candidate to be upfront and truthful when answering questions. Once the recruiter has determined the individual is qualified for additional processing, the ASVAB is scheduled. A physical examination may also be conducted at the time of the test. If a person is 17 or older, they may process at the MEPs using the ASVAB score from the test they took in high school when they were at least 16 years of age. Because of the nature of the test, the ASVAB can also be used to give a candidate valuable information about both military and civilian career choices that they may be suited for. Each of the military branches will have their own minimum required scores see below. In practice, however, each branch will be more selective in their recruiting. A score of 60 or better should be your minimum target. Each branch of the military has their own AFQT score requirements. These requirements are summarized below: The first approach is to make sure you know what is on each of the 10 subject exams. The second strategy is to make sure you manage your time on the exam. The final strategy is to practice - take as many timed practice exams as possible. No, you are not allowed to use calculators at the exam.
