According to some historians today was a sex lottery day in ancient Rome where men could draw the name of young girl from a box and literally have sex with her until the next years drawing. It was one of those pagan holidays that never got changed or incorporated as a holy day by the church. There are other stories such Rome honoring the she wolf that raised the legendary wolf that founded Rome February 14, at The fact that he is a plastic surgeon in no way implies he spends his days doing cosmetic surgery. Ask any trauma patient who has needed plastic surgery and they will tell you they are so thankful there are surgeons who specialize in plastic surgery. Turn the channel foolish thing. Ironic    may be for people like you who have no understanding of ethics. Half will be divorced or broken up eventually. Instead of lamenting about being single on Valentines, you should rejoice that you are lucky enough not to be in a bad relationship. Go out with your friends that day and observe all the sad people in relationships wishing they were single like you. No profound, underlying causes. I like seeing happy couples It will soon be over. As long as your significant other acknowledges you at other times and makes you feel appreciated and wanted If you are single use this time to improve yourself and spend the time with your friends doing the hobbies you enjoy. Share gifts with friends. Two of my neighbors gave me gifts yesterday and I thought that was awesome    not the gifts but the fact that they cared about me. Pets are a lifelong responsibility much like having a small child. A dog is completely dependent on you as an owner to feed it, clean it, take it for walks, care for it when it gets sick, pay for its medical bills, food, ect. Make absolute sure you would make a responsible pet owner. And all those other obligatory holidays. Seasonal golf hopes spring eternal in winter where all the swing flaws disappear. That in and of itself is more depressing than any lonely Valentines Day spent drinking, masturbating, and sobbing. Everyone wants young, hung and buff. If you are not all of those three, get used to being alone. Get up, go to work, work-out, and go home. Same as any other day. Oh, and I refuse to feel "ashamed" for being single, as these stupid contrived days are aiming to make me feel. Though, it is a great excuse to eat chocolate! Out of these valentines day is the one day that comes and goes withou even missed by many. Orange Crush will do it every time. When she stood me up at first I thought it was my fault but for all the wrong reasons. February 15, at It can be about showing love to all the loved ones in our lives, parents, grandparents, siblings, children, grandchildren. Everyone loves getting a Valentine gift, and you will feel the love returned. What goes around, comes around. Our sex life is dismal and I can not get her to open up and tell me the exact reason s why. For the singles out there, rejoice in the fact that you have the flexibility to be alone because being in a relationship is not all that it is cracked up to be. I always advise the single people in my world to think carefully about entering into a long-term relationship. Please review Folder Icon Set from orangecom92 September 19, at Every February 1st, an unwelcome virus sweeps through every grocery store, post office, and Costco around the country: Its origins are undeniably dumb, yet you are still unsettled. Stores ask horrible, awful open-ended questions like the following: Image via Giphy Yeah. Not only are they monetizing the complex notion of love, but they are praying on guilt like nuns at a Catholic school no offense to nuns though—those sisters are some of the toughest women on the planet. Think about it this way: Not only that, but its quantity has increased tenfold along the register. You are a victim of holiday marketing. Not to mention that anything filled with caramel is objectively the best candy known to womankind. It does NOT mean that no one is attracted you. Think about it — no guy in his right mind would ask a girl out on Valentines Day. He wants expectations to be ground zero, so February 14th would be the least likely day he would make his first move. It does NOT mean that you have to spend it with a million friends. Image via Giphy If you watch a movie alone on February 14th, you know how pathetic that is? Watching a movie alone on February 15th. There is no difference between these nights. Your introvert plans should not be deterred by the random guilt you may feel forced to feel. It does NOT mean you have to be happy the whole day. Image via Giphy Are you bummed? Feelings demand to be felt. Feel them, and then, only then, can you move on. And remember, the February 15th chocolate sales are real, so get your oversized reusable shopping bags ready. Do you have what it takes to work in digital media?

Just like Julie London then we would now like to tell you something about the Blues and so invite you to the Blues today as well. Every year the blues dancing community in Warsaw grows bigger and bigger. Intermediate Blues 1 Workshops for dancers with an annual experience or less either taking regular classes or participating in many weekend festivals. Advanced Blues 2 Blues dancers with more than a year of experience, knowing all dancing positions and distinguishing between Blues genres. Solo Blues One level, common for all participants. Slow Dance Intermediate Slow Dance 1 This level is meant for the Lindy Hop dancers with an dancefloor experience of about one year, familiar with basic lindy figures Swing Out, Lindy Circle, Tuck Turn, 6 Count , able to dance to both slow and fast tempo and using stretches. Advanced Slow Dance 2 Workshops for dancers with more than a year of a dancefloor experience, knowing a wide variety of Lindy Hop figures, as well as styling elements, using different footworks effortlessly, differentiating stretches and the energy flow between the couple, knowing different rhythms, capable of slowing down, speeding up and interpreting the music. Both Blues and Slow Dance courses will be run by: We so much look forward to that! Shirel Archambeau After several years of theater, Shirel dedicated herself to Dance. Foremost attracted to the femininity and sensuality of Egyptian BellyDance and Tribal Fusion which she has been teaching and practicing since , she then set her sights on Swing and Blues, captivated by the contagious energy of these dances and the vintage aestheticism she has loved since a young age. She enriches her techniques and vocabulary through a practice in other disciplines: In her class space, with a very good knowledge of the body she guides the students at a pace that allows everyone to listen to their own body and find their own style too, with joy and humor! He took his first blues class in Grenoble France in and has travelled all over the world to get more experience. All of his travels allowed him to take classes with the best dancers in the world, led him to become a better dancer and to improve as a teacher. His experience in ballroom naturally led him to dance drag blues. You will easily recognize him on the dance floor with his unique groove and musicality. Rija will help you to improve your technique with his original moves and he will also challenge your creativity. Rija is also a well known dancer in the French lindy hop scene and also a major actor of the lindy hop scene in Paris. Among that, Rija has won several strictly blues competition: She started dancing at the age of 7 with ballroom, to then turn to African and modern jazz dances. She loves inspirations from all kinds of styles and Blues seems to cover that. From primary school he had been learning Japanese martial arts which as a result led him from soft to a bit harder styles. When in by coincidence he discovered lindy hop, boxing gloves had been abandoned permanently. Since then dance turned his world up-side-down and revealed different ways of enjoying life. Hard work led him to fast progress and also several achievements in Lindy Hop and Blues contests. Creativity and curiosity directed him into Blues in which he found complementation of dancing and also deeper connection and feeling. Dancing with Agnieszka opened new tracks and started a new chapter in their lives. Creating and building new, not known and not scheduled or imposed form out of expression in each dance is the thing most valuable for Konrad. During mentioned process you never know what will be revealed. It just might be ordinary fun but also it could become a masterpiece understandable and visible only for two. Jakub performed at dozens of dance festivals and parties throughout Poland and as a result developed his own style. During the classes, in addition to ordinary steps he puts great importance to body movement, playing with rhythms. Insulation and body movement " during my class we will focus on the isolation of individual parts such as arms, chest and so on. These exercises allow us to be fully aware of our movement. Skills gained in the classroom will be helpful in every type of dance, from Dancehall to jazz and hip hop. Viola Wojciechowska Viola Wojciechowska is dancing afro since She is also psychologist working with teenagers and children. During many travels to West Africa she was working with the best dancers and solists from Mali, Guinea, Gambia and Senegal. In Europe she was cooperating with many artists in traditional African projects and new wave fusions as well. She is organizing music and dance workshop travels to Guinea and Gambia. During afro dance classes you will work traditional West African steps to the accompaniment of drums but first of all you will feel wildness of Africa! The band is a small combo without a bass player. What is more, the band uses only a small drum kit. This minimalistic approach aims at obtaining the unique sound based on the old archaic barrelhouse piano combined with more modern but still classic blues guitar in the style of such masters as B. Of course, the most important member of the band is the singer, Natalia, whose voice and phrasing are in the style of the best blues singers such as Katie Webster, Etta James and Ruth Brown. Apart from the concert on the main scene of the Rawa Blues Festival, the Blues Junkers have so far performed on many international blues festivals in Poland, such as:

If you're in a relationship and having Valentine's Day blues, it's important to set realistic expectations before the holiday. Hoping he'll surprise you and roll out the red carpet when he's never been a planner before is likely setting yourself up for disappointment.

Things never seem to go quite as planned for the Winchester. Sam, pre-series, some language. Hey, look, something new! It had to be savored, coaxed gently and wooed, and just like the lonely ladies who would be thronging in bars tonight, it deserved everything Dean could give it. Dean could finally give it everything. For one thing, it practically guaranteed him free drinks, since his birthday had actually been only three weeks ago. Which meant Dean could stay out as late as he wanted. No training at the ass crack of dawn, no job to do tonight, no leftover injury keeping him from going out like last year. Tonight was going to be awesome. Besides, Sam dressed like a dork anyway. So, forget it, he thought, and kept looking. He should check on Sam, though, before he left. Recently Sam " who was turning into a goddamn giant " had been eating like a freaking horse, so that had definitely set off a few alarms. They actually had separate rooms at this place, which was convenient when Dean brought someone home. Sam had answered his door after a couple more knocks. So Dean had gone, back to the kitchen to finish eating, then outside to the Impala to get her ready for tonight, and finally back inside to his room. The kid would be fine, he reassured himself as he finally found a black t-shirt that looked awesome on him and was actually clean. He finished up getting ready " hair spiked up just so, leather jacket on with the collar just right, his best jeans " and shut off the light in his room. Just a quick check on Sammy and then he was out of here. He could already taste it: He grinned and stepped out of his room. Then he stopped dead. Sam was in the hallway. Not just in the hallway, either. No, his baby brother was wrapped in a ratty blanket and sitting on the goddamn floor. He looked awful now, way worse than he had earlier. Then he dropped his head again and mumbled into the blanket, "I need to be close to the toilet. Dean crossed his arms and glared down at his brother. Yeah, like Dean believed that. You suck at lying, you know that? Dean sighed and shrugged out of his jacket, tossing it back into his room without looking. Then he knelt on the worn carpet next to Sam and felt his forehead before Sam could try to stop him. It was clammy, sticky with sweat, and radiating heat far beyond what his furnace of a little brother usually did. Which meant Sammy definitely had the flu. Sam tried to shove him away. It was like getting shoved by a kitten. Dean shut up and watched as Sam crawled " literally crawled " into the bathroom, leaving the blanket behind in a crumpled heap. He stayed where he was, kneeling on the carpet in the fucking hallway while he listened to his baby brother gag and whimper and heave up his guts in the bathroom. Goddamn it, he thought. Eventually, the toilet flushed and the sink turned on. Dean looked up after it shut off to see Sam stagger back out into the hallway, eyes glassy now. No way was he letting Sam sit on the floor again, not when he was this sick. His baby brother was shivering and so coated with sweat his clothes were fucking sticking to him. Sam needed his face cleaned off, probably needed his teeth brushed too, and then he needed to change clothes and get some fucking rest. None of this sitting in the hallway shit. Once they got inside, Sam kind of moaned and pushed him away, then fell to his knees in front of the toilet and started retching. Dean looked away, saw a glass sitting on the counter. He filled it, keeping his back turned until he heard the toilet flush. He rinsed his mouth out and handed the glass back, then slumped back against the wall, panting. Just came back up. You need to cool off. Dean twisted them until the water ran how he wanted, cool but not frigid, and then turned back to his sick idiot of a brother. While the tub filled, Dean got Sam back up and stripped him down. After Sam was clean and rinsed, he helped him out of the tub and wrapped him up in a towel. The kid was still too warm, but he felt cooler to the touch, which was a plus. Once he was dry, Dean helped him down the hall to his room. As he lined it with the bag, he heard the toilet flush again. Sam was sitting on his bed, head bowed, when Dean got to his room. He had managed to get on another pair of sweats and one of his hoodies, at least. He looked lost sitting on the end of the bed, small even, though the kid was taller than Dean now. Dean shook his head. Change of plans, he thought. There was a gas station not too far, maybe five minutes away. Dean gave it an appreciative glance as he set the stuff on the counter. At least he got to see one hot chick tonight, he told himself. She looked up then and blinked, her dark eyes widening a little. Then she gave him a sexy little smile and started scanning his groceries. She gave him another sexy smile. He held out his hand to her. Her hand was slim and cool in his. Oh yeah, she definitely had some good hands. She grinned at him and handed him his change. On the receipt was a phone number, with Kaia scribbled above it. He looked back up at her. He left everything but the bottle of Gatorade in the kitchen when he got back. Sam better not be in the hallway again, he thought as he headed towards the back of the house. The hallway was empty though, as was the bathroom, Dean saw when he glanced in. Sam was lying in his bed, curled up around the wastebasket Dean had given him, eyes closed. I know this is your favorite holiday, dude. Sam did, shaking just a little. He was still too warm, clearly wrung out, no matter what he said. Dean shoved the bottle at him again. Then he thought of the receipt in his pocket, and the way Sam had looked sitting shivering on the floor wrapped in a blanket, eyes glassy with fever. Fuck it, Dean thought. He pushed Sam over a bit and got comfortable. The author would like to thank you for your continued support. Your review has been posted.
