

1: BPL ration card holders to get LPG connection for free - The Hindu

Check your name in the BPL list of Ujjwala Yojana by downloading the state wise list of SECC data. So far Pradhan mantri Ujjwala Yojana for providing LPG connections to 5 Crore BPL families has been launched in 7 states.

The form is available free of cost. Basic details like name, contact details, bank account details are to be filled in the application form. There is a set of mandatory documents that are to be attached to the application. Completed application form is to be handed over to the LPG distribution service provider itself. While the aim is to provide this clean cooking gas advantage to the entire family, it has a second aim and that is to empower the women of the country who run the household. The scheme therefore envisages providing the gas with the woman of the house being the direct beneficiary. Families living below poverty line, their women would be empowered by this scheme to apply and be the main subscriber of the free cooking gas supply. The government has set aside crore in the current union budget to cater for this scheme and envisages to reach about 1. Reducing air pollution that is caused by the emissions from using fossil fuel for cooking in these rural areas. Not only is there a damaging effect on the environment from the burning of fossil fuel, it also has enormous health hazard issues to the individuals. This factor too would be addressed by usage of LPG. India has a verified record of 5 lakh deaths occurring due usage of such unclean cooking agents. The project therefore envisages arresting this loss of human life. While there have been fatalities from usage of unclean fuel, another direct health hazard has been experienced by children in the rural area suffering from respiratory diseases. LPG usage is expected to eradicate this problem. Eligibility criteria for Ujjwala Yojana The age limit for eligibility of the woman to apply for the scheme is 18 plus. Necessary that the applicant is a woman and belongs to the BPL group. The subsidy would be transferred to the applicant via bank transfer, and therefore the woman applicant has to have an account in any of the nationalized bank of the country. No other household member that the woman applicant belongs to must be an existing LPG subscriber. This scheme is aimed for economically backward people. With the new implementation the government aims at rectifying the flaws faced. Under the new implementation, the coverage will also be offered to the other sectors including population that live on Islands and Remote river banks, along with ones that come under MBC most backward classes of the society. The coverage has been announced for be improvised for tribes of Ex-tea gardens along with those who live in the forest regions. Selection of the beneficiaries Given the wide applicability of the scheme, the number of applicants is naturally expected to be far greater than the possible cover pack that the government has envisaged. For this reason, the official announcement and the paper on the PMUY indicates that the selection of beneficiaries would be based on economic conditions amongst the BPL groups too. For the rest of the group, the division of number of cylinders being provided would depend on the particular state and its existing LPG distribution density. Funding for Ujjwala Yojana As mentioned before the center has set aside crore rupees for this project in the current FY. The project is expected to be spread over the next three years for its implementation stage and the total expenditure would be crore by then, as per estimates. Collection or generation of funds has been worked out from the scheme where people of higher income group have voluntarily agreed to give up their subsidy. Agencies for verification and other related work Government has set up various agencies that would scrutinize the applications and award or reject the same. Verification process would be aided by an online data centre and digital process. So far as the cost of the stove goes, the beneficiary would be given the option of going for an EMI payment process to purchase the stove which receives positive response from the experts all across the nation. The government also made provisions for voluntary organization or individuals to participate in the yojana if they wish to contribute towards payment of the cost of stove for the beneficiary. The government order indicates that this subsidiary scheme cannot be run under any other new name but must work under the ambit of the PMUY only. Oil Marketing Company has also been told to organize melas and events during which the distribution process of the LPG connection is to be held in public. The event must have in its audience some distinguished people of the local area. OMC themselves would have to collate their list of distributed connection and forward to the government administrative wing within 10 days of every quarter. Tripura has been added in the state list to provide this

4: Pradhan Mantri Ujjwala Yojana to Provide Free LPG to BPL Families

This will ensure that you belong to BPL category and thus eligible for free lpg gas connection. The woman of the house or the family will be the beneficiary of the LPG connection. The preference will be given to the women of the BPL families.

It has been estimated that nearly 5 crore families will benefit from this. According to available data, approximately Rs. According to the scheme, each beneficiary will receive monetary support of Rs. Image source Consequences of using other fuels for cooking: The spread of cooking gas has mainly taken place in the semi-urban and urban areas covering mostly the affluent and middle-class families. Additionally, serious health hazards are associated with alternate fuels such as wood, dried cow dung, kerosene and low quality coal which the poor use for cooking. The indoor air pollution caused by low quality fuels is responsible for a significant number of respiratory illnesses, which occur among small children. Studies reveal that having an open wood fire in the kitchen is almost as poisonous as cigarettes in an hour. Health experts have confirmed that smoke released from the burning process contains hazardous substances such as particulate matter and carbon monoxide which may lead to diseases like lung cancer, heart disease, stroke and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease. According to WHO, around 3 billion people cook and heat their homes using open fires and simple stoves, burning biomass wood, animal dung and crop waste and coal across the world, and over four million people die prematurely from illness attributable to the household air pollution from cooking with solid fuels. Implementation of the social welfare scheme: To tackle these challenges and promote well being of the economically challenged, the Ujjwala Yojana scheme has been announced. It is the first social welfare scheme which will be implemented by the Union Ministry of Petroleum and Natural Gas. All other schemes till date such as the Jan Dhan Yojana for opening of savings accounts , the Sukanya Sammridhi Accounts , etc. As LPG connections are provided to the below-poverty-line households, it will empower the disadvantaged women in our society and protect their health as well as the health of their families. Additionally, it will reduce the time which these women spend on foraging wood, dung and other cooking fuel. The Ujjwala Yojana is also expected to provide the rural youth with additional employment opportunities in the cooking gas rural supply chain. Wikimedia The eligible BPL candidates who are interested in the Pradhan Mantri Ujjwala Yojana will have to go to the nearest LPG outlet or distribution center and ask for the prescribed application form. The application form can also be downloaded online. The applicants need to fill in their Aadhar number, contact details, savings account number, and the declaration form on the last page. The applicants can opt either for a five kilogram or Key documents that need to be submitted with the completely filled out form include: The LPG gas cylinder will be provided as soon as the applicant is found eligible. The subsidies for LPG would be provided directly into the savings accounts of the women in need so that the possibility of corrupt practices is eliminated. This measure is expected to increase the number of savings account applications especially in the rural areas. Eligibility Criteria for the Scheme The woman applicant must be minimum 18 years of age as on May 1, She should belong to a BPL household. Her house should not already own an LPG connection. According to reports, the BPL families will be identified after consultation with the Union territories and the state government. Affordability is one major concern as households shift from solid fuels to modern fuels. Merely subsidized connections provided by the Ujjwala Yojana Scheme will not be sufficient. There have been state level schemes earlier like the Deepam Scheme in Andhra Pradesh, but they were not successful in meeting their goals. As per the current scheme, these low income households will still have to bear the cost of the stove and other accessories as well as the price of the LPG cylinder less the subsidy.
