Basically a brighter room elicits a cheerful mood and even better emotions. However, it can be tricky getting enough natural light especially if your house is on the dark side. Considering how much positive effect good lighting offers it is worth every effort, investment and time. Here are top ideas to help brighten up your home if on the wrong side of the sun: Paint your walls white You will be surprised at the difference created once you paint your walls white. White creates an illusion of a bigger brighter room. If you are not a fan of color white try other neutral colors in place of dark colors and your room will appear brighter and bigger. De-clutter your home Having too much stuff around your space makes your home appear darker and cluttered. Simply start by de-cluttering your walls and you will be amazed by the illusion of light already created. Go for neutral and light colored furnishings Furnishings and furniture play a very important role in making a room appear brighter or darker. Dark colored furnishings make the room appear smaller and darker. Try replacing them with light colored neutral furnishings and furniture and compare the difference. Light colored furnishings reflect light making the room appear brighter and bigger. Create your own light Artificial lighting plays an important role as well in brightening things up in your home. Try out different outdoor lighting techniques for your front and backyards. Some of the lighting options may include; lamps, pendant lights, post lights, outdoor wall lights or mount lights. This will give your yard more life and make it appear sophisticated. Use mirrors and glass Reflective surfaces make a room appear bigger and brighter; you can even take your old wall down and replace it with glass. This will allow for more light to get in and create the illusion of a brighter bigger space. Clean your windows Sometimes built up dust denies a room the comfort of light. Try cleaning your windows as often as you can to ensure no dust blocks how much light gets in. Go for light materials or your window curtains Go for window sheers made of light fabrics to allow enough light to get in. Enhance your floor with rugs A dark floor makes the room darker and smaller, modify this by using neutral colored rugs this will lift the mood and even look of the entire house. Cushions If you have dark colored furniture already, cushions are a cheaper alternative to make your room appear brighter. Play about with neutral colored cushions on your furniture. They make your home appear bigger and lighter. Painting You will love how painting transforms the look of your room. For your bedrooms you can go with bright colors such as red and you will be surprised at how bigger and brighter your home looks. Well, your home is your private space; create that perfect ambiance and happy mood by making it as appealing as it deserves! Interior Design is her infinite passion without stop.
