It takes 30 days for the first rabies vaccination to take effect and give full protection to your dog. Adult dogs 15 months or older are immunized if they have a record of previous and current rabies vaccinations. Unless an unimmunized dog is coming from a rabies-free country, you must apply for an unimmunized dog permit to bring your dog into the United States. What is an unimmunized dog permit? Under limited circumstances, CDC may issue an unimmunized dog permit formerly referred to as a dog confinement agreement. This permit allows unimmunized dogs into the United States when requested in advance and when certain conditions are met. This permit will include a confinement agreement, which is a legal document stating you will confine your dog in the United States until your dog is fully immunized against rabies. Confinement means restriction of an animal, by the owners or their agent, to a building or other enclosure isolated from people and other animals except for contact necessary for its care. The dog must be muzzled and kept on a leash when outside the enclosure. State officials will monitor compliance. Apply as soon as your travel is arranged and at least 2 weeks 10 business days before traveling to the United States. Be sure to allow time to receive the permit before you travel. No permits are given upon arrival. How to submit permit applications Read instructions on how to submit permit applications. Conditions for getting a permit When deciding whether to grant a permit, CDC will consider specific criteria, such as the number of dogs, frequency of dog importations by importer, past compliance, country where the dog has lived, length of stay, and other risk factors. Allow up to 2 weeks or 10 business days for CDC to respond to your request. Unimmunized dog permits are given only to US residents and visitors staying 30 days or more in the United States. It takes 30 days for a dog to be fully immunized. CDC will NOT issue an unimmunized dog permit for a temporary visit less than 30 days for example, a vacation or holiday and for shopping or visiting friends and relatives. CDC reserves the right to deny requests for unimmunized dog permits. Approved permit applications If your application is approved, CDC will email the permit to you. Only one permit per dog, per trip. The permit is good until the expiration date. If your itinerary changes, you must email changes to CDCanimalimports cdc. CDC will revise the permit and resend to you. Your dogs will be inspected to verify they are healthy and their appearance and age match the description on the permit. If not, your dogs may be denied entry. Other requirements You must also comply with regulations from both the US Department of Agriculture and your destination state. CDC strongly encourages dog owners to have their dogs vaccinated against rabies before arriving in the United States and travel with a copy of their valid rabies vaccination certificate. CDC regulations serve to protect you, your dogs, and your community. Rabies is a serious disease, and there is no cure. Send any questions about importing unimmunized dogs to CDCanimalimports cdc. Dog confinement agreements are covered under 42 CFR This guidance became effective on August 11, 30 days after publication. The dog must be accompanied by a certificate signed by a full-time salaried veterinary official of the region of origin stating that the dog has been inspected for screwworm within 5 days before shipment to the United States. The certificate must state that the dog is either free from screwworm or was found to be infested with screwworm and was held in quarantine and treated until free from screwworm before leaving the region. The rules for bringing domestic dogs into the United States are covered under U.
