Hunting For Bears Genealogy Society collects and maintains large databases of early (predominantly pre) marriage records from all fifty states. We are currently processing these records and will have them on line as soon as they are ready. We do two things with these records: One, we publish.

At that time she was already married to John Pennington and had 5 children; 1 son and 4 daughters. Naomi Pennington who married John E. Stone; Sarah Pennington who married William D. Stewart; Cassandra Pennington who married Henry W. Four of his children, Sarah, Nancy, the Wofford wife, and Mason Morse, died before Ebenezer and were not mentioned in the will. There were several Benjamin Woffords in South Carolina at the time, and they are difficult to sort. We have not ascertained if he is the same Benjamin Wofford Sr. After petitioning the House of Representatives in South Carolina [lxx] to return home after the war, he found that many people, who had been neighbors and friends before the war, were unwilling to forgive and forget events that occurred during the war. It appears in an effort to save his property, he deeded 10 black slaves to three of his sons: Their land was on the waters of the Flint River. His sons, Benjamin Jr. Benjamin Bucy and probably his wife, Lucy, were also there in Our Benjamin Wofford Jr. He may have married a third time in to Elizabeth M. Pate Davis Coyle the widow of Daniel Davis and Michael Coyle [lxxx] but we are unable to prove that all three of these marriages represent one Benjamin Wofford. Our Benjamin Wofford, Jr. By the census of Laurens County they listed only 1 boy and 2 girls less than 10 years in their household. By , it appears that his wife had died and the oldest woman in his household was a young female 10 to 16, who may have been a daughter or a new wife. In the Caldwell County, KY Census there appears to be a son or daughter and their family living with him. His known children, who all married in Caldwell County, Kentucky, were: Ebenezer who married Paulina B. Pearce, bond given 8 October Ebenezer was his surety and Travis settled the case by returning the money and paying court costs. He did not appear on the tax list in Caldwell County, KY until , about seven years after the largest group of Morses came west. We have not yet learned the location of his grave. They had 1 son and 6 daughters, [xci] one of whom died before Benjamin wrote his will in One land transaction that is particularly intriguing involved acres of land that appears to have been granted to Benjamin Bucy after having passed through several owners. He sold the land to Benjamin Wofford for five pounds sterling. Then after a period of time the land was transferred back to Benjamin Wofford who sold it the next day to Daniel McKie. Benjamin was on the tax list for Livingston County, KY from to Sarah who remained home with her family all her life; Permelia who married Joseph Cooke on 21 December ; Richard C. Morse, daughter of James L. Morse; Ebenezer; Samuel F. In he bought land from Ebenezer and Agness Morse. Obediah and his family moved to Kentucky with the main Morse migration group about He was found not guilty. Several other cases involved trespass. In his wife, Susannah, appeared on the tax list with the same taxable items that had been credited to Obediah in Nancy appears to have died there prior to However, Nathaniel was still in Laurens County in He was not married to Emily Harrison in Spartanburg County, SC as has been erroneously reported in family histories and on the internet throughout the years. Morse and Polly had 8 children: Morse, son of Obediah; and Elvira D. In James was made a constable in Caldwell County, Kentucky. Ebenezer Morse signed the bond. Morse and Spencer Calvert. The case was tried in November and was about gossip that had been spread by Spencer Calvert about James L. Many of the Morse clan gave depositions about what they had heard, when they heard it, and from whom they heard it. Kuykendall talking in a degrading way about some other women, or woman. Spencer said he told Mrs. Kuykendall that there could be lies or evil reports spoken of her as well as other women. Kuykendall were off their horses on the side of the road coming from the sale of E. She died in [cxxx] and he married Mrs. Susannah Borders, the first time on 10 November [cxxxi] and the second time 19 February William and his brother-in-law, John Attaway, were part of the first group to go into Kentucky from South Carolina to stake their claim. Both entered land in but apparently John did not complete the process. William apparently went back to South Carolina to guide the larger group to Kentucky, including his parents. He signed deeds in in South Carolina [cxlii] and in in Kentucky. His sister, Sally Pennington, her husband, John and their son, Jacob, witnessed this deed for William. The bag contained Spanish milled dollars. His estate was to be equally divided among his children less any money he had already paid them during his lifetime. The land was left to his youngest son, W. Many of the charges were for fabric and sewing supplies, indicating, perhaps, that someone in the family worked as a seamstress. On the day he died, charges were made for a bottle of brandy and a bottle of wine. She is the daughter of John Farrow based on an deed, ". Morse and Jane, or Jincy, did not migrate to Kentucky until about There has been much confusion about who John F. Morse, and not John Moss, was on the Caldwell County Tax List; [clx] ; with no data available for taxes there in Morse has acres and 14 slaves. The other John has no land and no slaves and that is the last year he is on the Caldwell County Tax List, evidently having left the county shortly thereafter. Morse and his wife, Jincy, remained in South Carolina until October of Mary Morse who married Spencer M. Morse, son of James L. Morse; John Foley Morse, Jr. Fryer, 11 October ; [clxvii] James D. Morse who married Jesse Williams who was hung for mistreatment of a slave , 2 January ; [clxix] Jefferson G. Morse who married John Holeman, 26 October He requested that his personal property be sold to the highest bidder among his heirs and not be sold out of the family. His wife was named Elza; her parents are unknown. Jarrott and Elza had 7 children: Crow, 3 October ; [clxxix] James W. This land is partially owned today by Frank Morse of Princeton, KY and contains the cemetery where Ebenezer and Agness and several of their descendants are buried. Wofford who married Betsy Bumpass, daughter of Edward F. Young, 3 November ; [cxc] and Polly L. Wofford who married Nathan Smith, bond 23 March Bumpass who married Elvira D. Morse, 16 March , [cxcviii] daughter of James L. In the Bumpasses and most of the Morse family sold out in SC in preparation for the migration. In they were on the census in Livingston County with 2 females and 6 males. Augustine appears to have died between and

Their child is listed under his number in the 6th generation section. They lived in Hampshire Co. Uriah received a grant of land in Logan Co. Her father escaped, but Susannah was held captive for 13 years. She was released in an exchange of prisoners and identified by a birthmark on her arm. Her scalp-lock had been taken and she was said to have worn a little cap all the rest of her life. The birthdates of Uriah, Susannah and their children, and several death and marriages, were recorded in a family Bible, now housed at the Virginia State Library in Richmond VA. Michael Blue was probably born in Somerset Co. He lived as a farmer in Hampshire Co. Her ancestry is, as yet, unproven, but she may be a niece of Ephraim Herriott who died in Hampshire Co. Herriotts are known to have descended from David Herriott, an early settler of Woodbridge, Middlesex Co. Mary was born between 6 Mar and 6 Mar , based on her tombstone inscription died 6 Mar , aged 69 years. This contention was accepted, however, others claim that this Michael Blue was a first cousin who lived in Berkeley Co. I have seen no evidence supporting either side, except for the fact that Capt. Hanse Van Meter commanded a company of Berkeley Co. However, this Michael could have gone to Berkeley Co. Upon the death of his father in , Michael Blue received title to half of Lot 31 on the South Branch of the Potomac River see page ii. He also received from his father an undivided fourth part of the "new survey" adjoining Lots 27 and In he purchased acres in Hampshire Co. He sold these acres in to William Powell. On page 55, it is recorded that Michael and Garret Blue sued their brother, John, for trespass and asked his ejection from land they inherited from John Blue 1. This appears to be a boundary dispute between Lots 30 and On page of the same minute book, a judgment is entered in favor of Michael and Garret. John was fined one cent plus court costs, but gave notice of his intent to appeal to the district court at Winchester, VA. In the minute book, page 45, it is recorded that John and Michael Blue were awarded damages to compensate for the opening of the road from Frankfort to Romney, which "is proposed to pass through their lands". In , their son Michael Blue, Jr. On 17 April , Michael Blue, Sr. He later bought another lot in that town from Moses Still. In , Michael Blue Sr. William Lease was not well liked by Michael, for in his will Michael Sr. In addition, a considerable amount of land was distributed to his heirs in his will when he died in Michael and Mary Blue are buried in the northwest corner of Bloomingburg Cemetery. The stones are still readable and have recently been reset by the caretaker February Keith Blue of Longmont, CO. Elizabeth DUKE , m2. Garrett was a farmer. He also inherited a one-fourth share in the "new survey", a lot containing acres nearby. According to family records, Garrett moved his family to the part of Hampshire Co. There he had a farm of acres. Final settlement of his estate was accomplished in Hampshire Co. Elizabeth was born in Ireland. His census record confirms this by indicating that he was born in the decade. He was born in Hampshire Co. They were married in Nelson Co. Abraham lived in Nelson Co. He was also taxed in Nelson Co. Sometime during the next two decades Abraham moved south, for tax records indicate that he was a resident of Point Chicot, Arkansas Co. Spencer Chapter 23 Bracken Association and Ten Churches Constituted in At the beginning of the year , the Kentuckians were still in a state of considerable excitement. The convention which was to meet at Frankfort, on the 22d of July, for the purpose of forming a new constitution for the State, was to decide the vexed question as to whether the property of the people was to be made secure to them, or jeopardized by constitutional enactment. The election was to be held in the spring, when the political status of the convention would be measurably determined. Popular meetings, were held, in February, in various parts of the State, some in favor of, and some in opposition to, the perpetuation of slavery by constitutional enactment. Henry Clay was the leader, or at least, orator of the anti-slavery party. A meeting was appointed in which each religious denomination in the State was to be represented by two members, for the purpose of ascertaining the religious convictions of the people on the subject of slavery. The election, however, indicated that a large majority of the people favored the continuance of slavery in the commonwealth. The convention finished the work of forming a constitution on the 17th of August, and enacted that it should be in force on and after the first day of June, During the year, friendly intercourse was established between the governments of the United States and France, by means of which a treaty, satisfactory to both countries was entered into the following year. All causes of popular agitation seems now to have been removed, and the commonwealth was in a condition to enjoy full peace. The spiritual dearth still continued. The baptisms during the year may be fairly estimated at The meetings of the associations evinced nothing of the spirit of enterprise or progress. Elkhorn had had under [p. An inquiry as to whether persons who had been excluded from the churches for embracing Universalism, might be restored without an utter renunciation of that heresy, was answered in the negative. The churches were advised to be cautious about encouraging strange preachers who could not exhibit credentials and a fair character. Salem advised "the churches to be very cautious about restoring excommunicated ministers to their former standing. Bracken Association was constituted of eight churches, aggregating a membership of , on Saturday, the 28th of May, of this year There was still some fruits of the recent revival being gathered into the churches of this little new fraternity. A few churches were constituted during the year in various new settlements in the State. It is located ten miles north-east from Somerset, the county seat. It was constituted of nine members, on the fourth Saturday in January, The first three of these were preachers. The church united with Tates Creek Association, the same year it was constituted, at which time it numbered eighteen members. James Fears was chosen pastor. This was just at the beginning of the great revival. In one year, Flat Lick rose from twentyone to members, in But in consequence of its sending out colonies to form other churches in the surrounding country, it was reduced to forty-seven members, in In , it numbered seventy-four, but, in , it had been again reduced to fifty. From this time it had a healthful growth, under the pastoral care of Stephen Collier. At the time of his resignation, in , the church numbered members. Of James Fears little else is now known than that he was in the constitution of Flat Lick church, and that he was its pastor a few years. Of Stephen Collier, the second pastor, something has already been said. His father, John James, was in the constitution of Flat Lick church. He was a valuable church member, and lived to a good old age. He raised four sons and four daughters. Of the latter, Elizabeth was the first wife of the distinguished Jeremiah Vardeman. Of the sons, J. James was born in Culpeper county, Va. He came with his parents to Kentucky, about , who first settled near Crab Orchard, in Lincoln county, but in , moved to Pulaski county. Here their son Joseph, grew up to manhood. He was illiterate in his youth, but having a strong, active mind, and great energy of character, he made considerable attainments in general knowledge. He professed faith in Christ about , and was baptized into the fellowship of Flat Lick church by Elijah Barnes. He commenced exercising in public prayer and exhortation, soon after he joined the church. He improved rapidly in speaking, and was soon ordained to the ministry. Olivet, and, at a later period, Flat Lick churches. For a number of years he was probably the ablest preacher in Cumberland River Association. But alas for the frailty of human nature! In his old age he yielded to the seductions of strong drink, and was disgraced. This led on further to the heinous crime of adultery. The poor old man became an outcast, and his sun went down in a dark cloud, about 1840. He was carried by his parents to Pulaski county, where he joined Flat Lick church, in his youth. He was in the battle at New Orleans, January 8, 1862. Some years after this, he was ordained to the ministry. He was pastor of [p. He was probably never the regular pastor of Flat Lick church, yet his labors for its prosperity, his constant, cheerful and devoted piety did much to build it up, and perhaps no member or pastor of this old fraternity, was ever more warmly loved or highly respected by the whole community, than was this eminently godly man. He died, at his home in Pulaski county, Dec. 1870. His oldest son, A. James, was many years a prominent lawyer in Frankfort, Ky. James in the pastoral care of Flat Lick church. He was born in Rockbridge county, Va. His father, Joseph McAlister, was a tailor by trade, and was of Irish extraction. He moved with his family to Lincoln county, Kentucky, about 1780. There the old revolutionary soldier -- for such he was -- added farming to the occupation of a tailor. He ploughed his little field in spring and summer, and made clothing of buckskin for the settlers in the fall and winter, occasionally varying his occupation by engaging in Indian fighting. After living a few years in Lincoln, he moved to Pulaski county. He was a Presbyterian, and lived to a good old age. He raised six sons and one daughter. The latter became the wife of the talented, but erratic Joseph Martin James, and mother of that eminently Godly minister John James, so well known among the Baptists of Kentucky. Robert McAlister was raised up in the wilds of the new country, with very little education. However, he learned to read and write, and made good use of these acquirements in after years, more especially in reading the word of God. At the age of twenty-four years he married Rachel McKenzie, the daughter of a widow. He, with his wife, was baptized into the fellowship of Rock Lick church in Pulaski county, by J. James, about the year 1800. Soon after this he moved his membership to Flat Lick, where he presently began to preach with great zeal. He was ordained by Joseph M. To these he preached till the Master called him up higher. He was a preacher of moderate ability, but he used his talent well, and the Lord greatly blessed his labors. About 1810, he had a light attack [p. McAlister raised six daughters and five sons, all of whom became Baptists, except his son Martin G. James, and was probably brought into the ministry at Flat Lick church. Of this church of his fathers, he was pastor after the death of Robert McAlister. Afterwards, he moved to Columbia, in Adair county, and was many years pastor of the church in that village. About 1820, he moved into the bounds of Liberty Association, and preached several years to some country churches in Hart and Barren counties. From there he moved to Paris, Texas, where he remained, preaching to the church in that village two or three years. At present he is in the State of Missouri. James was educated, it is believed, at Georgetown College. He is well versed in the sacred scriptures, and is familiar with New Testament Greek. He is peculiarly devoted to his holy calling; all his powers seem to be perpetually absorbed in the great work of preaching the gospel. He is an excellent preacher and a man of spotless purity of character. It was the second church organized in that large county, and was constituted of twenty-one members by Isaac Newland, Peter Woods, Henry Brooks and John Turner, June 8th, 1800. It united with Tates Creek Association the following October, when it reported twenty-eight members. During the revival of 1805, it enjoyed a precious season, and its membership increased to one hundred. Thomas Hansford was its first pastor, and under his ministry it enjoyed peace and prosperity. In 1810 it numbered one hundred and nine members, and in 1820, one hundred and sixty-five. It entered into the constitution of Cumberland River Association in 1825, and remained a member of that body till after the formation of South Kentucky Association of United Baptists. It united with that body some years past. About 1840 this church divided on the subject of benevolent societies. The affair finally got into the Cumberland River Association, and [p. From this resulted Cumberland River Association, No.

Kentucky, Compiled Marriages, [database on-line]. Kentucky Marriages to Electronic transcription of marriage records held by the individual counties in Kentucky. Each entry includes groom, bride, marriage date, county, and state. Every name is indexed so you can search for one name, or two names that are linked.

Early American Marriage Collection This collection of early American marriages represents years of research gathering marriages from local town and county sources. While these marriages have been published in book form for their individual states, now you can search several nearby states at once with just a few keystrokes. Although not every marriage was recorded, or later found as this collection was assembled, you will surely find many of your early relatives, often in places you never planned on searching. Ancestry is pleased to present this collection of early American marriages, now available in electronic form to make searches easier than ever before. This collection is based on years of research by Jordan R. Liahona Research conducted their searches in the world-famous collections of the Family History Library in Salt Lake City and all the marriages in this collection can be found in the myriad of records at that library. The staff at Liahona poured through published books and microfilmed copies of original records to collect these marriages.

Cautions About this Collection Every effort was made to keep the spelling in the original text, and to find all possible records for the time period covered. However, many county records were destroyed by fire, floods, neglect, and carelessness. The purpose of this collection is to provide a time and place for as many marriages as possible. It is up to the researcher to examine the original records usually available on microfilm and gather whatever additional genealogical information is desired. In this collection, the marriage date is usually the date of marriage as given in the original entry. However, when no marriage date is given e. In a few cases, a marriage will be listed twice, but in two different counties. This most often happened when a couple obtained a license in one county, but were actually married in another county. To provide additional research clues, this collection includes both entries. There are records that may have been overlooked, misspelled, or not available to the researchers. Therefore, if a marriage is suspected to have occurred, but is not in this collection, further research in additional sources may locate the evidence.

Finding the Original Marriage Record Unfortunately, Liahona Research did not indicate which sources were used in this process, nor did they provide citations for the origin of each entry. However, careful researchers who wish to examine the original source will find sufficient information to lead them to that source. Most early American marriages were recorded by the county except in the northeastern states and this collection provides the county for virtually every marriage. Original microfilms can be obtained from the Family History Library.

She was born Attached is a listing from the genealogy of three generations of Lamb, beginning with Thomas Lamb This information was compiled from several sources, but includes original research. Much of this information was researched for the Presidential genealogy. The Bush genealogists have traced the Stackhouse line to Charlemagne. The tombstone inscription of their first child, Thomas Lamb indicates he was born in and died in March at age 73 years. It is possible that the tombstone dates were misread and Thomas was born in The second child, William, was born about , Bucks County, Pennsylvania. The birth date for Longshore of would mean that he could have been born in Bucks County, Pennsylvania, before the relocation, on or in Fairfax County, Virginia, after the relocation. We prefer a birth date of in Fairfax MM, Virginia. The children of Thomas Lamb and Alice Longshore are listed. As often happened among the Quakers, a disowned family could apply for membership to another Monthly Meeting. Thomas and Alice had nine children named in his will. Mar , Versailles, Williamson County, Tennessee. She was born , and died 15 Apr in Loudon County, Virginia. She was born Bet. Longshore Lamb of South Carolina: In , Longshore Lamb, a young boy of about 11 years of age, arrived in South Carolina with his parents and siblings. This information is consistent with the census for South Carolina. Longshore was about age years when he married. Longshore Lamb served on a jury in south Carolina in Longshore Lamb served under Colonel Brandon during the Revolutionary War and was present at the fall of Charleston in This was another reason the Quakers disowned Longshore Lamb. We know little about Sarah, except that she was born about Census index entries for Longshore and spelling variants.
