Calendars of State Papers Calendars are chronological lists of documents or manuscripts. They are sometimes annotated and may excerpt large sections of material, or even include entire texts of some items. Some of them can be used as indexes to the microfilmed collections of state papers. The transcribed text can assist in deciphering the handwritten papers in the film. When the Library does not have film of the complete manuscripts the calendars are often full enough to serve as good substitutes. Usually each volume contains an index. In he proceeded M. He was ordained deacon at Peterborough on 24 December , and was elected junior university proctor in In he proceeded B. On the night of 26 January 1653 Oliver Cromwell seized his manuscript, then in the press at Cambridge, arrested Gatford in his bed at Jesus College, and sent both author and copy to London. On 30 January the commons ordered him to be imprisoned in Ely House, Holborn. This was ordered by the commons on 3 July to be referred to the consideration of the committee for Cambridge. Gatford soon after went to Cornwall as chaplain of Pendennis Castle. Gatford called upon "Inhabitants of the county of Suffolk" to help the royalist garrison at Colchester holding out against the New Model Army , [11] and expressed fears that parliament would grant toleration to Catholics, who would consequently return to power. After his return he supported himself by taking boarders, living at different times at Kenninghall Place, Sanden House, Kilborough, and Swaffham in Norfolk. Pursued by the county committees for persisting in keeping up the traditional Church of England service, he protested in A Petition for the Vindication of the Publique use of the Book of Common Prayer , prefixed by a spirited letter to the parliament. At the Restoration Gatford was created D. He found the chancel and parsonage-house of Dennington in ruins, and, as he could not afford to have them rebuilt, petitioned the king for the vicarage of Plymouth in Devon , to which he was presented on 20 August In August Dr. George, the nonconformist vicar of Plymouth, was ejected, but the corporation elected Roger Ashton as his successor. Gatford, on the recommendation of Edward Hyde, now Earl of Clarendon and high steward of the borough, was accepted by the corporation, and allowed "to officiate as curate during the pleasure of the House.
