1: Cloth - Official The Forest Wiki

Cloth is commonly found inside suitcases, along beaches, in cannibal villages, in cloth crates in caves and on effigies. It is one of the most sought after items in the game and can be used for crafting many of the game's items and for some of the games buildings.

It covers over half of Brazil and is home to one in every 10 animal species, making a visit a true natural adventure. Packing carefully is vital to ensure that you have all the necessities without packing too much. After all, what you bring in, you will be carrying throughout your stay. First Aid Once you are in the Amazon, you have limited access to medical supplies, so bring the products you will need for illness or injury. Pack all the prescription and over-the-counter medications you take regularly. Create a first aid kit with painkillers, sunburn relief, diarrhea medication, adhesive bandages and a bandage wrap for sprains or other limb injuries. Add lip balm with sun protection, water purification tablets, sunscreen, antiseptic cream or spray, tweezers and hand sanitizer to finish the kit. Clothing Pack as little clothing as possible to avoid adding too much bulk to your pack. You can wash your clothing by hand while you are in the jungle, but remember that it will take a day for the pieces to dry. Aim for two changes of clothing other than the one you will wear. This gives you one to wear, one to wash and one spare for emergencies. Pack a jacket for cold nights, and a poncho. Add a hat and sunglasses. Finally, wear comfortable, sturdy footwear, such as hiking boots. Include swimming attire and something comfortable to sleep in. Insect Protection Bugs are vicious in the rain forest, so pack repellent. If you will be sleeping in the rain forest, add a mosquito net to your gear. Toss in a lightweight pair of pants you can throw over your shorts and a long-sleeve shirt to wear in particularly dense mosquito areas. In spite of your best efforts, you may still get bitten. Throw in a tube of anti-itch cream to help with this, and allergy medications if you are allergic to any insect bites. Other Supplies Include your camera and all the memory cards, batteries or film it needs. Add a charger and a plug adapter if you will be staying somewhere with electricity. Pack basic toiletries, including wet wipes and the soap and shampoo you need for bathing. If you have long hair, add hair ties or clips to keep it off your face. Consider zip-top bags to store toiletries, dirty clothes and belongings that should not get wet. Do not forget your glasses or contact lenses and the supplies you need for them. Finally, include a reusable water bottle.
