

1: Why Do Websites Redirect to Fake "Congratulations" Gift Card Pages?

You Are Gifted! What Satan Doesn't Want You to Know About Spiritual Gifts. Sunday, January 15th, Part One of a Six Part Series. Intro: A couple of years ago, my Dad and I took a week off and went up to our cottage at Delta Lake Camp.

The web page you were viewing had code on it that took you to a new page with a scammy message. Or they might show you scantily clad women and push a dating website. If it sounds too good to be true, it probably is. But how did a fake message like that get on an otherwise legitimate website? This advertisement contains JavaScript code that navigates away from the current web page to a new web page, and that new web page includes a scammy pop-up message. But bad actors sometimes sneak their shady ads through. On most websites, ad networks dynamically load advertisements. When you visit a website, it requests ads from the networks selected by the website owner. Ads are targeted to you in a variety of different ways, from your geographical location to your browsing activity. If a bad ad gets through, it can run code on the web page and take you to a new web page full of scammy pop-ups. That makes them harder to stomp out. Websites can blacklist specific ads, and ad networks can remove them, but this generally happens after the ad appears. The website owner and ad network have to. If you encounter this junk on a random web page you find from Google or Facebook, just tap the back button and get away from it. Forget about viewing the page. There is one way to potentially avoid the problem: You can run an ad-blocking app on your phone. These should block these deceptive pop-up ads along with other types of ads. We tend to just navigate away from websites that show scammy pop-ups and look for better ones. On an Android phone, Google Chrome is designed to block ads like this with its built-in ad-blocker , but you can also download an app like Adblock Plus for Android to be even more aggressive. Pop-ups like this are terrible, and no one online likes them"except for the people who create them and make a profit off tricking people.

We went because it still had the original 25 year old roof on it and it was in desperate need of a new roof. My father built this cottage with his own hands and takes great pride in it, every part of it was carefully planned and crafted and he knew every detail of the building and was active in making sure that it stayed in good shape and looked nice so that it could continue to function the way it was supposed to. He had a specific job for me: Well, I was wrong. The first day of roofing went very slowly. My father watched as I struggled a bit with sinking the nails and finally he left. He came back about a half hour later, walked over to me, took my hammer and handed me a brand new heavy-duty beast of a hammer. It also meant that when I hit my thumb it hurt all that much more. He knew that with the right tools, I could get the job done better. So, he gave me a gift that would allow me to do what he asked. God is in the process of building His Kingdom here on Earth. Not the wood and brick kind of church, not a particular denomination or specific congregation, but the church that is made up of His believers, He is building this kingdom through us. He has a personal interest in the project, to see as many come into a relationship with him as possible. And because of that, he has given us everything we need to be successful in our work. He has given us the right tools in the different ways that he created us and He has given to each believer, a gifts or set of gifts that will enable them to carry out the important role that He created them for. His desire is for the church to function as a relevant, healthy, impactful force in the world, his way of accomplishing that is spiritual gifts. Definition of Spiritual Gifts: There are different ways that God works in our lives but it is the same God who does the work through all of us. A spiritual gift is given to each of us as a means of helping the entire church. Spiritual Gifts can be defined as: Since you are eager to have spiritual gifts, try to excel in gifts that build up the church. These gifts are part of the grace that God extends to us, an undeserved gift to equip us to do His work. They are more than just talents, although often a talent and a gift go hand in hand. They go beyond the basic commands of God. All are called to have faith, only some have the gift of faith. All are called to share the gospel, only some have the gift of evangelism. Spiritual gifts are a work of God in our lives that change us and empower us to do the everyday work of the kingdom.

3: Congratulations quotes and wishes

After watching the Grammy's a couple weeks ago, I came to a fresher revelation of the verse Romans I've always quoted this verse and understood it but it just hit me in a different way and I love the way the Amplified version puts it.
