Conversation Chemistry book download in PDF format. Feel free to get access to this ebook only if you really want to increase your relationships commitment level.

Have you ever wondered why some men are just not interested in you, while they fall in love with women who you know you are a better catch than? It all started a couple of years ago when my best friend Michelle got dumped by her husband of 4 years. For starters he had taken about 7 years of dating before they got married, and even after they were married he stalled and stalled before having children. And then he ended up leaving her, and very shortly after met another woman! As you might imagine, her self-esteem was shot to pieces, and her trust for men was at an all-time low. But I managed to convince her that it would at least be a great idea to hear what MEN themselves have to say. So we devised a comprehensive survey, full of questions that probed men to find out what they REALLY want in a woman, and what makes them stay in love, and why some men lose interest in a woman, and so forth. We managed to get this filled out by men, which we thought was quite an effort and it seemed to be a great number as there were a lot of patterns and recurring themes throughout the answers. Michelle thought she was going to start hating men after the survey as she was expecting some chauvinistic answers, but she was pleasantly surprised and almightily enlightened. But men sure did want different things and after analyzing the findings, and doing other research on male psychology, we distilled our findings down toâ€”â€”The 23 Laws of Success with Men While success with men depends on a myriad of factors, there are certain basic tenets, or laws, that can be hugely instrumental in helping you attain the kind of successful relationship you would love to have. Not only can these laws of success with men help you attain a good relationship with a great guy, but if you take a little time to familiarize yourself with them and put some thought into each one and how it can be applied to your own love life, these 23 laws can also help you retain a good relationship once you have it. These laws of success with men can provide help in that area, too. You can discover ways to keep your man interested and committed to being with youâ€”.. Here are the 23 Secrets to Success with Men read and learn! Secret 1 R-E-S-P-E-C-T If men revealed one of the primary things they want and need from a relationship, they might sing you a few lyrics of a tune that amazing songstress, soul sister Aretha Franklin, once belted out: If you want to be successful with men, it is absolutely essential to show a man that you respect him. Page 3 Study after study and tons of research on what men want from women have consistently shown that high on the Wish List for most men is respect. This is crucial to a relationship of any kind and even more so when you are in a romantic relationship. Emerson Eggerichs says this: That should be an eye opener for you if you had any lingering doubts about how strongly men feel about being respected in a relationship. Love and respect seem to be completely intertwined to men. Why is respect such a critical issue with the majority of men? It has been theorized that this begins in childhood, when the emphasis for boy children and girl children is on different things as far as interaction with their peers. This trend continues through life as men strive to stay on top of their game at the work place and at home. Most males want to be seen as problem solvers, the strong masculine presence that can step in and fix whatever the problem may be. If you treat a man with a lack of respect, you diminish his manhood. This is a state of affairs that will almost definitely have serious and grim repercussions for you eventually, because many men will not stay in a relationship with a woman who emasculates them in any way. In a recent survey of men that asked them to list the top five traits most desired in their ideal woman, respect was alluded to in a high number of responses. Here are a few of the typical comments made by the survey participants: She has to respect and love me for who I am. She has to be a person who respects me as I do her. Respects me, and knows how to ask nicely and pleasantly when she wants something from me. So, it seems crystal clear that if you want to make a man feel loved and keep him committed to you and the relationship, it would behoove you to show him the respect he craves. For example, you could tell a man in words that you have the utmost respect for him, but if you behave toward him in disrespectful ways; that is the message that will come through loud and clear and have the biggest impact. How could you show disrespect to a man? Here is a scenario in which you would announce your disrespect: Your husband or significant other has given the children an order to go to bed at a certain time. You countermand this order and tell them they can stay up past that time. Men have a need to be respected. Women who are savvy enough to show that respect will have a much better chance of success with men. It might take a little practice, but showing a man respect is a small thing that will reap big rewards for you! Develop a Healthy Self Confidence In order to attract the right kind of men, you must have a healthy amount of self confidence. If you are self confident and feel good about yourself and what you have to bring to the table in a relationship, men who are also emotionally healthy are attracted to this quality. Well rounded, psychologically healthy, self confident men value these traits in a woman and shy away from females who show an obvious lack of self esteem with little or no confidence in themselves. They are astute enough to realize that women with low self esteem are going to be needyâ€. When that happens, the man usually ends the relationship. Most men want a woman who is self confident! In a survey of men aged 15 to 65 and older, when asked about the traits that attracted them to a woman and contributed to their falling in love with a particular female, Page 5 many respondents stated self confidence and high self esteem as being very important to them in these areas. Here are some typical comments from men who participated in the survey: Likes herself for who she is. Someone who values herself instead of always putting herself down. She should have a great life going for herself. They see such confidence as attractive and when you stop and think about it, this makes perfect sense. If you value yourself, others are more apt to value you, as well. This door swings both ways. For instance, if you attract emotionally stable, healthy men by having self confidence yourself, what type of men do you think you are liable to attract if the opposite is true and you have zero or little self confidence coupled with feelings of low self worth? You will either attract men who: Yes, unfortunately, there are those types of men out there and they can wreak havoc with women who had little self confidence going into the relationship. Page 6 The lesson here is that to attract the sort of men that would be suitable for a viable relationship, you must be self confident and possess enough self esteem to signal that you are a person of value in your own right. Independence is a Virtue Ladies, every day should be Independence Day for you! You should glory in your independenceâ€. What kind of independence? Financial independence is always nice, of course. But, you should strive to be emotionally independent, too. These are not attractive personality traits in either gender. Being independent means that you have your own life, your own routine, your own income and are not likely to be emotionally or financially dependent on a man. This is important to many men, maybe even most men, when all is said and done. In a recent survey of men, when asked what was the one trait they would change about the woman in their lives, if they could; a high number of men responded that they would like for their women to be more independent, or less dependent, which amounts to the same thing. Here are some of the answers from the survey about what the respondents wished they could change about their women that illustrates how vital a role independence can play in a relationship: I wish she had been more independent. A normal male does not want the role of the be-all and end-all of your entire existence. This puts a lot more pressure on a man than many are prepared to live with. If your guy knows that you have interests of your own, he is less likely to feel pressured to be your everything and then resent you for it. Independent women are perceived as strong and secure, which is a plus with men who are strong and secure. And really would you want any other kind of man? As far as being financially independent, this goes a long way toward maintaining the equilibrium in a relationship. Even if you marry your dream boat and stay home being a full time mommy, you still need to have some financial independence. With the advent of the internet, there are scads of opportunities for stay at home mothers to earn an income online, working the schedule that best suits their lifestyle. If you are still looking for that special someone, your chances of finding and keeping him when he comes along will be much higher if you work at maintaining your independence. Learn to Be Happy Alone If you want to be happy with somebody else, you must first learn to be happy alone. Too many women feel restless, unfulfilled and unhappy without a man. One thing you must understand before you can ever expect to be happy in a relationship is that nobody can make you happy. The only person on this earth that can make you happy is YOU. Happiness comes from within. You need to learn to be happy on your own so that when an ideal man does come along, Page 8 you bring that happiness into the relationship instead of dragging along a load of misery and expecting him to fix it. Besides being a nonrealistic expectation, this puts a huge amount of pressure on any man, more than most of them are prepared to bear and you will probably find yourself alone again sooner or later. Being happy by yourself is not an impossible dream, but it might take some attitude adjustments. When all is said and done, being happy is a choice. You can either choose to be happy or unhappy. Life is so much easier, and better, when you choose to be happy! One of the main lessons about being happy alone is that you must learn to be your own best friend. You must learn to nurture yourself, to give yourself a metaphorical pat on the back for a job well done and console yourself when something in your life goes awry. Slow down, take a deep breath, and start learning how to be alone without being lonely. Once you have mastered that life lesson, you will have so much more to bring to a relationship. When you are happy alone, you are more apt to attract stable, confident men. Who wants to be around a Debbie Downer? There is an old saying that misery loves company and it aptly applies to the type of man you attract if you are miserable. This is not to say that clingy, needy women are attractive to men because in most cases they are not. But, the majority of men glory in the subtle differences between the sexes and appreciate a truly feminine female.

Conversation Chemistry comes with an iron-clad day money back guarantee to cover your purchase against losses in case of dissatisfaction. The Cons Of Conversation Chemistry The program is only available as a digital product.

November 15, The Good Goes into detail on how men and women communicate differently. Has some solid advice about how communication differs in relationships compared to dating. A lot of unoriginal and outdated material. The Bottom Line The product is centered around conversation, but it covers communication in a more general sense. Much of the content has been sourced from other books, resources and studies on dating and communication, with basically all of the examples of what to say to people coming from the pick up community. Many of the examples are over ten years old and not taught anymore, as there is better advice out there. Make Small Talk Sexy. One of the downsides of this is it makes the book really long, much longer than it really needs to be. The book is divided into three sections, with the first being on the principles of communication, the second on dating, and the third on relationships. Principles Of Communication The backbone of this module is how men and women communicate in different ways. Most of the examples of what to do and say have been taken from the pickup community, but without the authors likely having an understanding of the correct way to use them. Literally everything has been copied from other people. So in some of their examples of dialogue exchanges, they are really off the mark in how someone is likely to react. Even the examples they give for women are really weak, and just constitutes bad advice. They give examples where people are talking in a long-winded fashion and using big words, instead of just talking in a everyday manner like how people will actually talk in real life. How you approach someone in a busy nightclub would be different to a coffee shop, which would be different to at a private party. They go on to explain how asking someone what they do is trying to pigeonhole them and equate their job with who they are as a person. I found the whole idea ludicrous, and the only positive was it shows how women sometimes read too much into things and assign meaning when there is none, so keep that in mind. This is true after a certain point, but in the beginning you need to be prepared to carry the burden of the conversation if necessary. Some of the other areas that are covered are flirting, humor and storytelling. Communication And Relationships The module on relationships is the strongest part of the book. The focus is more on creating trust and security and working to grow together as a couple. It covers how the biggest frustration for many women is the lack of communication from their partner, and gives you advice on how to talk openly and honestly with your woman. The relationship module here focuses almost exclusively on building trust, deepening the connection and all things serious, that it neglects that you also need to keep things fun and exciting. If you want a really good resource for how to keep the passion and excitement alive within a relationship while increasing the connection and intimacy then you might want to check out Way of the Superior Man by David Deida. Bonuses The first bonus included with this product is called Double Your Commitment. And that a lot of the tactics and mind games that people use to try and manipulate their partner into getting what they want are born out of fear. Pretty solid and mature advice in this bonus book and worth checking out if you want to feel more secure and committed in your relationship. It actually has no information at all about relationships and I have no idea why it was included. Seems like it was written for a different purpose altogether and thrown in here as an afterthought.

Conversation Chemistry by Amy Waterman and Mirabelle Summers is all about how to communicate more effectively with members of the opposite sex. It's based around the idea that men and women have different ways of communicating, and that you'll have more success by understanding where the other sex is coming from.

Through this e-book, you will become more attractive to your interlocutor. So feel free to swing this guide, if your weak side is communication. As a rule, exactly the first impression depends on how it will be developed and will it lead to any result. If, during the first meeting, you managed to make a person be interested, he will for sure want to continue. In the same time, dating can not rely only on good looks and stunning outfit. The successful introduction will help you to create an image of an interesting and attractive person. A good first impression is the beginning of the development of communication, which is gradually moving into the second stage of dating, when you start to learn more about each other – about the personal qualities, enthusiasm, inner world. Stiffness at first acquaintance is a natural thing, but you want to get rid of it. Due to the fact that you are not familiar with each other, you have almost no topics of conversation. In fact, you just do not have a clear algorithm of behavior during dating. The fear of making a wrong move, being ridiculed or misunderstood creates thousands of complexes in both sexes. The purpose of dating for women in any case should not be a marriage, and for men – not dragging a woman into bed. This is not a call to abandon your intentions, this is just a warning to be prudent and not to rush things. Every new friend should be regarded primarily as a friend girlfriend or acquaintance friend of. Getting acquainted, a woman always are assessing – whether he is good enough to be my husband boyfriend, lover. Exactly with this criterion, she starts to communicate. If her reasoning is good, she tries to show herself in the best light, and as a result, is constrained because begins to be cautious in everything – in words, gestures, looks. If he is no good for a husband, she refuses to meet, and she will never get acquainted with such a man. Men look at women as a sexual object. If he has a thought about what would be good to put this woman in the bed, he puts himself in the stiffness frame – tries to show how wonderful he is. When a man gets acquainted with another man, or a woman with a woman, they do not think about how to present themselves in a favorable light. They are who they are and they are natural. In general, be sure to read the book Conversation Chemistry. I am sure the quality of your communication will improve a lot. You will be irresistible!
