Any of you who know my work I might have some hot and steamy parts up in the second and third chapters. I hope you all look what I post up so far and let me know what you think. It was cold and raining this night. I did not like the fact that someone is going around town using a sword to kill women in the name of Ares. To tell the truth I could care less what God they pray to but when they start killing women that is when I step in. Now if I was cop I would be in jail buy now or six feet under. I do jobs for people who could not go to the cops or call a pi for help and all the people that I helped like that. I did have a job but it was not to hunt down the asshole killing in the name of Ares. I was not happy about someone killing people in my state. I was going to meet my new cline. I showed up two hour before I needed to be there. I waited and out of the corner of my eye I saw an unmarked cop car pull up. She had short black hair or it could have been up in a pony tail. Her skin was dark with a light hint of bronze in it. She was for all counts Native American. Her eyes where light brown that where way to hard for some one so young. She got out of the car her eyes scanned around and had one hand across her chest and the other down on her hip as she got out of the car. She looked like every Native woman that I had wet dreams about. She slowly moved away from the car door took one hand off a gun and with the other pulled that gun out as she shut the door. She started walking over to a man that was old and who looked half crazy. I started walk up to her. I knew the old man, he is my gatekeeper sometimes. He normally would have signaled me to that it was all clear, but for some reason he did not do that for some damn reason. Then out of the corner of my eye. There was some one standing fall in the shadow. I could not tell you if it was another cop or just some nut ball with a gun. Lucky for me he could not see me or the fact that I was about a foot away from where he was. Right as he was about to make a move I rapped my left arm around his neck and pull him back in to the shadows and slammed his head in to the break wall. I did not lay him more as I threw him down to the street. As if I was covered in blood or something. I had just realized that something was coming up behind me. It was a man twice as big as the first guy that I had taken down. I did not see his fist coming at my jaw till it was too late. The blow hit me with enough force to knock most people off their feet. So when I popped him in the rids three of them cracked. The bowl to his body knocked him back 4 inches. The big man did not think that I could hit that hard. Yes that was a short guy jock and yes I am really bad at them. The big guy just looked at me like there was no way a 5 feet 10 scent chump almost put him on his ass. So I kicked him in his right knee. Trust me the boots soften the blow just a little that does not mean the blow did not make him some any less afraid this time. I cause see him working out how the fight would go in his mine. He knew what I knew that it would not end will for him unless he had an ace up his sleeve. His eyes got really wild showing pure fear then he turned on the ball of his left foot and ran like a rabbit with a hawk chasing his ass. I just stud there smiling at the fact that he thought that I had the ace or should I say a gun on the inside of my coat in a shoulder rig. I was about to turn around when I felt a pock my in the back. I heat guns there is no honor with the damn thing all you do is point an squeeze the trigger. That is when I heard a clicking sound like the hammer being put back to where it was. I wanted to drop my head in relief and let my shoulders sag. I did none of that I wanted for her to play out what happen. I slowly started to turn around so that I could face her or should I say that I tried my damndest not to look at her chest. Hey you try not to do look the wolf in the old Looney Tunes show with little red ridding hood. The way she was breathing made it hard not to notice that she was very amply. Sorry I am getting side tracked here. The look in her eyes told me more then any talk that we could have. She did not show fear more like shock that the little guy with one eye open and who look like he could be a stun double Mark Wahlberg as long as he is bare foot. I slowly opened my right eye now that my night vision fully kicked in. The old man was not my look out. The old man look at me then ran I was not running after him. The cop was still working on what was happing and if she should shot me or take me in. She figured out that I was the guy that she was looking for and I was not going to hurt her. Would you want to tell your boss the reason why you got me in holding was because you where meting

me in a dark alley with no back up. She had worked out that if I wanted to kill her I could have. She put the guns away walked over to me held out her hand so I took and then I had a feeling like we have done this song and dance before. So I started to think back to when I was a kid and she did not show up anywhere then it hit I had hit on her at work one night when she was working undercover at the bar. She is the woman that shot my friend in the right shoulder. There are only two ways that I know of that someone knows what is really going on in this city. Number one you are me or you are in one of the gangs and talk to the cops. Julia is just a really good cop who knows all the right people to talk to. Case in point me. As if I had just told her that I had posted nude photos of her on a cork board in her precinct. Where the hell do I come up with this stuff better yet I am I not writing this down it was a good plan to get money out of that night club owner. What she is a bitch in high heels. Now if only I could stop wishing that I had x-ray vision so that I could see what she was hiding under that uniform. Man I heat my mind some times. Julia was looking at me not unlike most cops do when they realize that I know more about why someone would try to kill them and me at the same time. The only thing was Julia had started to stare at my ribs look there was something wrong with them. Then I felt it. As I was about to turn to my right side the pain of a gunshot came screaming at me. I did not even see the flash of the gun. I know that trying to heal it in front of officer Kilcher will just end badly for both of us. To all the guys who said there is no pain got it right. Most pain does not hurt. I started to walk away when I felt her hand on my wrist. I looked back at her and let my eyes change color. Oh you might want to know how I can do that will you see the thing is I am a Nephilim. That means half-angel and half-human. My mom was human and the bastard that slept with her is an arch angel. So I can change the way I look at will. This is why I have never been picked up by the cops for any thing. When she saw my eyes go from green to red in a flash. Julia let go of my wrist and pulled her gun. The bullet wound was now gone I have been healing faster and faster these days. All any of you ever do is each for one of those things now a days and squeeze the trigger. Will go a head a shoot me I have all ready been shot once to night. She just looked at me as if she just found a monster of some kind. She must have ran in to one of the others as a child and now here is one of those monsters standing in front of her telling her that the gun in her hands will do nothing. At moment she let go of the gun and froze. The one problem with letting your fear take over is there is away a predator hiding out some where waiting to up on you.

The Darkangel[edit] Darkangel, the first volume of the trilogy, was published in Aerial, determined to avenge her mistress, returns to the peak from which Eoduin was stolen and waits for the vampyre to return. Eventually, he takes her, but not to be his bride. And so, Aerial flees the castle and begins a quest that takes her wandering far into the desert to find the hoof of a starhorse, the traditional guardian of the realm that the vampyre has usurped. With this talisman, she prepares to defeat the vampyre by using the starhoof to make a brew that would kill him. Upon her return to the castle, Aerial is told she will be killed. He leaves, only to return empty-handed because none of the brides are more beautiful than Aerial has become, having been physically changed by her journeys in the desert. The vampyre demands that Aerial become his bride, much to her dismay. In the wedding ritual, Aerial gives the vampyre the brew that will kill him. In the end, Aerial finds that she cannot kill her darkangel because he is still beautiful, and because there is a trace of good in him. She gives up her life to save him, cutting out her heart to replace his, which the White Witch covered in lead. Aerial should be happy, but she is not, for Irrylath shuns her, not allowing her to sleep in the same room with him or even to touch him. They give Aerial the second part of the rhyme that sent her questing before and send her once more into the world. The gargoyles, who have been trying to protect the people of the world from the other darkangels, remember Aerial and join her. She also meets Roshka, a prince who may be her brother, and Erin, a dark-skinned girl who refuses to be parted from her. For a time, Aerial gets drugged and held prisoner in a castle when a nameless lord asks for her hand in marriage, due to her resemblance to his past lover, and she refuses him. Aerial eventually reaches Terrain, the land where she was raised as a slave, to seek the advice of the sibyl of Orm. The sibyl has been killed by an agent of the White Witch, but this phony sibyl is defeated by the gargoyles and Irrylath, who has followed Aerial. The gargoyles are revealed to be the lost lons, and they agree to go into battle against the Witch with Irrylath and his brothers. Irrylath confesses to Aerial that he is not free to love her until the Witch is destroyed, because the Witch once made him her lover. A pin in her skull, placed there by an agent of the Witch, forces her to avoid thinking, which causes extreme pain. Found by a trio of duaroughs, Aerial is then called to the deserted City of Crystalglass a. NuRavennna , a stronghold of the Ancients where the mage Ravenna still lives. She had left camp alone after witnessing a scene between Irrylath and another woman, who was trying to convince him that Aerial was like the Witch a sorceress seeking to control him and that he should love her instead. Ravenna gives Aerial the third part of the rhyme and the final portion of her quest begins. Ravenna tells Aerial the truth about her world: The Ancients created weather machines, which are slowly running down. They abandoned the world to return to their own Oceanus , but war and plague have since destroyed all life on Oceanus. She is old, and hopes to pass all her knowledge and sorcery to a successor, who will take care of the world. Her daughter is the White Witch, who turned to evil when she found out she was a "halfling" and could not go to Oceanus. Ravenna charges Aerial with carrying a pearl filled with all her knowledge to the Witch. She must persuade the Witch to turn from evil and take up the task of saving the world. After creating the pearl, Ravenna dies. Aerial thinks her side is winning as the darkangels are killed. The Witch does not care about her army or her darkangels. Aerial warns her friends to flee. She hands the pearl to the Witch. Touching the pearl, the Witch is forced to realize the truth, that Oceanus is dead. She dies, and the power of the pearl passes into Aerial instead. She is about to give up her last breath when Irrylath saves her, at risk to himself. Irrylath realizes that Aerial did not know how the Witch broke him and made him serve her, nor was Aerial seeking to control him in the same way. They finally kiss and spend time together. Aerial is awoken by the spirit of Ravenna, inside her. With the Witch dead, Ravenna claims that Aerial must be the one to save the world. The task will take all her energy; she must leave Irrylath. Ravenna saved her eyes, heart, mind, and soul, and built her a new body. She will live forever, unlike Irrylath. Also, one of her ancestors was also an Ancient One; there were many halflings created besides the Witch. She thinks that Irrylath only loves her because he is forced to, because she has his heart inside her. She cuts out their hearts and switches them back, so that he will be free to leave her. But when he wakes up, he still wants to be with Aerial. Each asks Aerial to come to his or her land, but she turns them down, telling them to rule instead. Irrylath wants to be with Aerial, but she must go to NuRavenna and take up her task of gathering the sorcery and saving the world. Irrylath has promised to rule over his kingdom and therefore cannot go with her. There is a glossary of names and words, including how to pronounce them.

Renfro decides to burn the facility to cover up the evidence and is killed in the process. When Max is reunited with Cale he immediately becomes ill and almost dies. Max discovers that Manticore has infected her with a virus specifically designed to kill Cale, and the two must avoid all physical contact to keep him alive. Over the course of the season, it is revealed that a millennia-old breeding cult has bred their own super-soldiers who rival the Manticore-produced transgenics. Ames White Martin Cummins , a government agent tasked with eliminating the freed transgenics, is revealed to be a member of the cult. When the police begin to surround Terminal City Max convinces the other transgenics to stand their ground rather than run. Eglee with whom he had previously worked on projects including Piranha II: They considered several options, including a family drama, before deciding on the idea of Dark Angel. Cameron said they began with the idea that Max would be a genetic construct who "looked normal on the outside but was different on the cellular, genetic level. We explore what that could mean. More than a thousand young actresses were considered for the part of Max. But there was something about the way she read the script that copped an attitude that I liked. Fox spent heavily on the promotional campaign for the premiere, paying for theatrical trailers, billboards, and guerilla marketing. If people connect with it, which I hope they will, fine. He did this partially for the experience but also to show the network the potential for a third season. It was his first experience directing a TV drama. Eglee explained what had been planned for season three. The intention was to bring together the storylines of seasons one "Manticore" and two "Breeding Cult" and reveal the mythology of Dark Angel. Fox had to obtain agreements from its affiliates to broadcast past During its first season, the show was preempted on several occasions, including by the World Series , the Billboard Music Awards and coverage of the presidential election. The frequent preemptions became a running joke on the set. Critics
