It is aimed at the beginning collector and does not include some of the more obscure variations. Identifying the year of printing If the Nancy Drew book has a dust jacket, the list of titles on the jacket will reveal the year that the book was printed. The copyright year for the last title on the list is the year the book was printed. For instance, on the dust jacket front flap seen at the left, the last Nancy Drew book is The Bungalow Mystery, which indicates that the book was printed in , the year of publication for The Bungalow Mystery. On the dust jacket front flap seen at the right, the last Nancy Drew book is The Haunted Showboat, which indicates that the book was printed in , the year of publication for The Haunted Showboat. When a dust jacket is not present, find the last title listed inside the book on either a pre-text or a post-text list. If a list of titles is present on the copyright page, it will not help because that list was not updated regularly. Click here for a list of Nancy Drew titles and their publication dates. ## 2: Harbaugh Karen (Author of Dark Enchantment)

Contact Author Stephen King is a very recognizable name in the genre of horror fiction. Though, not all of his books fall into this category. His writing is very popular, and his books are in high demand. First editions are sought after by collectors, and avid fans. Some are more valuable than others, and some are very hard to find! But, how do you tell if that book you have is a first edition? In the more recent published books of his, it is a little easier, but for his older works, it can be a bit difficult. I will make it all easier for you! I will go book by book and give you all the information you need to identify Stephen King first editions. This will be updated as new books are released. If you find you have a first edition, and are curious about the value, there are numerous places you can go to find out the value. Most bookstores that deal in rare books, collectible books, and that sort of thing, should be able to appraise the book for you. If you choose to sell it, they may also be willing to either buy it from you, or sell it on consignment. Terms Defined There are a lot of terms in here that some of you may not be familiar with. I will include pictures for reference, as well as a description. This guide is for trade editions only. Obviously, limited editions are far more valuable, and I may cover these in the future. Trim size is basically the dimensions of the book itself. This information is provided because often, Book Club editions of books tend to be smaller than the original. If you have a book that seems smaller than others, it very well may be a book club edition. The dust jacket is the paper that is wrapped around the book. It is there to protect the book, and if missing, the value of the book is severely diminished. The dust jacket price can be found in the upper right hand corner of the front flap of the dust jacket. The code if there is one is found on the bottom of the front flap. Binding information is important because not all editions of a book are bound in the same way. A full bound book will be all cloth, without paper boards. Quarter bound indicates a book that has cloth closest to the spine, and then boards. The colors are important, because, again, not all editions are bound with the same colors. Paste-downs are simply the pieces of paper that are pasted down to the inside of the book. The front and rear end papers are those pieces of thicker paper that are at the very beginning and very end of the book. Copyright page information is pretty straight forward. Most follow a numerical code to determine a first edition. If a code is present, all will start with a 1 or 10, except Black House which has the code "2 4 6 8 9 7 5 3". Most codes look like this: Cloth is in black and boards are green. I will go book-by-book, and give you all the information you need. Terms are defined on the right of the text. Published in May by Doubleday. First edition run of 30, copies. Trim size is 5. The book is full bound in maroon cloth. Paste-downs and front and rear paper color in black.
