Why Is Life So Hard? PDF How do we explain what we see in this world? Terrorist attacks, sex slavery, racism, world hunger? Subconsciously, we probably ask ourselves questions like these quite often. But consciously we rarely do. But then something happens to wake us up. Our parents get divorced. The girl down the street gets abducted. A relative gets cancer. That wakes us up for awhile. But then we can often sink back into the denial. That is, until another tragedy hits, another incongruence. Something is really, really wrong. So, WHY do bad things happen? There is an answer to the WHY question, found in the Bible. What or who could make this world different than the way it is? What or who could guarantee that life is pain-free, for everyone, all the time? God could accomplish that. At least not right now. Remember the story of Adam and Eve? They ate the "forbidden fruit. For Adam and Eve sort of hoped that they could become like God, without God. They consumed the notion that there was something more valuable in existence than God himself, something more valuable than having a personal relationship with God. And this world system -- with all of its faults -- came as a result of the choice they made. But thanks for the offer. Why do we do that? All of these can be explained by people who have refused to give God access and influence over their lives. They are going about their lives as they see fit, and they and others suffer. In fact, God could rightly be viewed as leaning forward, compassionate, hoping we will turn to him so that he can bring real life to us. Jesus said, "Come to me, all who are weary and heavy-laden, and I will give you rest. Jesus commented on this when he said: He who follows me will not walk in darkness, but will have the light of life. What about those horrible circumstances that hit us in life, caused by someone other than ourselves? God more than understands what you are going through. There is nothing in life that could be more painful than what Jesus endured on our behalf, when he was deserted by his friends, ridiculed by those who would not believe in him, beaten and tortured before his crucifixion, then nailed to a cross, in shameful public display, dying of slow suffocation. He created us, yet allowed humanity the freedom to do this, to fulfill Scripture and to set us free from our sin. This was no surprise to Jesus. He was aware of what was coming, foreknowing all the details, all the pain, all the humiliation. Jesus understands emotional and psychological anguish. The night that Jesus knew they would arrest him, he went to pray, but took some friends with him. Here it is summarized, as John describes in his gospel: He came to his own home, and his own people received him not. But to all who received him, who believed in his name, he gave power to become children of God. For God so loved the world that he gave his only Son, that whoever believes in him should not perish but have eternal life. Some of it is explained by selfish, hateful actions on the part of others. Some of it defies an explanation in this life. But God offers us himself. God gives us the knowledge that he has endured also, and is aware of our pain and needs. Jesus said to his disciples, "Peace I leave with you; my peace I give to you; not as the world gives do I give to you. Let not your hearts be troubled, neither let them be afraid. He is after all, God, the Creator. The one who has always existed. The one who created a universe on the backstroke. And if we will trust him with our lives, relying on him, though we encounter difficulties, he will hold us securely. Jesus said, "These things I have spoken to you, so that in me you may have peace. In the world you have tribulation, but take courage; I have overcome the world. He can take us through the difficult circumstances of this life, and then bring us into eternal life, if we will trust him. We can either go through this life with God or without him. Jesus prayed, "O righteous Father, although the world has not known you, yet I have known you; and these have known that you sent me; and I have made your name known to them, and will make it known, so that the love with which you loved me may be in them, and I in them.
