Laurent replied, "Why not? He strongly advised her not to take acting classes because he believed she already had the necessary skills. It was a French-language role for which she learned to speak English for a few scenes. Kyle Buchanan of Movieline wrote: Sexy and luminous in the heat of her valor. Putting out fire â€” and setting it. It becomes an anthem of noirish dread and excitement, a sign that Laurent, as Shosanna, has found her destiny. Originally set for filming in the spring of , it was postponed because of her work on Inglourious Basterds. Laurent plays Anna, an irreverent French actress. Louis Post-Dispatch remarking that Laurent imbued a "soulful charisma" into the role. The film was a major commercial success grossing over Laurent and Sarah Gadon co-star as the romantic partners of the men. The film premiered in competition at the 64th Berlin International Film Festival. The film released on 23 September to positive critical reviews. In an interview with Indiewire in , Laurent admitted that she loves writing: In March , she revealed that she had married but refused to name her spouse. She told The Independent , "he was a crew member and I was an actress. Rather than go on to work on a big budget American film after Inglourious Basterds, her next role was in a small theater piece in France. She was also one of the leading celebrities in the successful campaign Fish Fight France, which asked for a new European law lowering the level of fish discards in European seas. Produced by Joel Shearer, the album contains twelve songs, five of which are co-written and co-produced by Irish folk musician Damien Rice.
