The wizard crosses his arms giving perplexed looks from his team. My spells with make my team victorious among the others. Chris tries to convince Leonard. I maybe a little mean!" "A little!?" The host just ignores her plus continues. The supernoobs start to run and scream then hit the spaceship knocking them out. All campers gasp as Chris explains the game. With the battle ball you hold your team must defeat the virus before affects everyone in the town. Symbol is shown of the Menacing Meatballs looking for the meteor that fall. On the other hand Heather absolutely disagrees. All in favor of splitting up raise their hand. It is more greater to cover ground that way. Team Goofy Goobers took the left side of the forest. Everyone is having a hard time to find the pink meteor. Dave gets into the conversation. He blinks then scampers saying, "Gosh, wait for me! Cody, Gwen, and Rodney in the front running while the rest are behind in the green forest. A meteor or alien spaceship usually falls down in the center of a place. So that pink flaming rock holding some type of virus has to be in the middle of the forest. The team cheers until Goofy Goobers come in crashing the party. Her team gives confuse looks at each other. Sugar just scoffs then Leonard talks to his team. With anger roaring through him he takes a branch from a wooden tree and throws it hitting the meteor causing it to open. Everybody stops laughing as it opens up something making the camera switch to the campers looking in suspense and Leonard with a smirk on his face. Find out after the break. We got all work up for just stupid pieces of slime!?" Suddenly the black virus goes inside her skin without anyone knowing. Rumbling grows within their stomach causing each of their eyes to turn red. Nobody knew what is going on as each effected player except Courtney start to become some type of mutants. Tyler starts to turn green in rage, Dakota blue turning like her mutation before and Leonard becomes like a fat golem. Seeing their members transforming Heather, Alejandro, Justin, and Zoey come to the scene. With eyes widened Alejandro says in Spanish, "Que mier The Chris wannabe gasps in shock. Jasmine just stares then blinks. Sky just moans walking. They look up seeing the monsters just standing there confuse. Around a tall tree Harold, Trent, Noah, and Dawn discuss a plan as their symbol is shown. Before Trent could do anything Harold suggests an idea. I had no idea. Unfortunately it made her mad causing her to attack at Harold. The geek runs along with Alejandro, Topher, Brick, and Gwen. View changes to Mem, Zen, and Chris relaxing inside the spaceship. The host drinks up a delicious banana smoothie. So does Zen drinking a strawberry shake plus Chef. Keeping calm like always Chris lies to them. We just have the technology for them to look like human without using a battle ball, right Chef? View changes again to Harold, Topher, Gwen, Brick, and Alejandro running into town with a monstrous Dakota on their tail causing havoc throughout the place. Topher finally activates his blue battle ball causing his hair to turn blue making him shout, "My hair its blue!?" He screams running into a lamppost knocking him out cold. Brick decides to give it a go. By pressing the green battle ball on his chest the cadet suddenly gains a flight ability. Brick lets a small smirk on his face making his way at Dakota. She has never felt this way before. Viruses, monsters, and super abilities. Only one thing slip pass her mind. Chris is so dead. The cadet goes for a punch in the face at Dakota. Off guard Brick goes behind the her leg and punches it to make her lose some balance which work. The arch villain walks up slowly to Dakota hatching an idea in his scheming brain. Then Tyler supernoob and Roach appear by teleportation. Roach wanted to answer, but Tyler stop him. Chris appears with his jetpack. Cody decides to start a conversation with Sky. Kevin enters the area with an anti-virus laser. Cody teleports away from the girls. Jasmine is still fighting, but now she is a kangaroo. Cheers are given to Cody for vanquishing the foe as the host with the most comes in with his jetpack. Trent thinks for a moment then realizes something. He should be getting injure by now. Nope because we have a bunch of softies around here. This guys alliance will stay strong. The normal guy just wants to stand down not doing anything. Noah was about to say something to him, however ignoring plus telling the others something else important. Looking behind him the mutant roars at first before calming down a slight. Rodney whispers to Dawn. Duncan with Sugar start to fly as Eva turns into a rhinoceros. All six get up close to see if it is finish. Duncan takes a few steps forward then turns around. Right after Duncan screaming the mutant sets out a roar grabbing Sugar and Rodney. Not knowing what to do Ella just starts singing. Her enchanted voice starts to calm Tyler catching a surprise look from Rodney and a scowl from Sugar. Shope comes in to take care of business. Sugar replies to her pointing at Ella. Goofy Goobers sigh knowing they have to sent someone home. Chris starts to do his job. Time Tornadoes take second while the Menacing Meatballs take first class! So, which team won cause obviously is not mine. Noah does a sarcastic cheer earning glares from Dave and Trent. Inside the jumbo jet Time Tornadoes and Goofy Goobers are in room three. Duncan, Rodney, and Cody to discuss their alliance. Noah is reading his book as the rest look bored. Outside Dave is sitting alone until Shope comes having two smoothies in her hand. She fires another at Shope, however Dave absorbs it not knowing what he just did. He freaks out blasting the energy beam back at the ex C. Make sure nobody takes. Tyler, Roach with smiles. The girl noob just blushes before saying, "Not a word. The host finishes his first. Now as the first elimination of Total Drama:

Historical Drama and the Dimensions of Tragedy The English dramatists of the Renaissance did not conduct a strict distinction between the historical drama and tragedy. But still, there are some differences. To do this, we should refer to the history of these genres. Besides, the most vivid examples of the distinction between tragedy and historical drama and their similarities can best be seen in the example of the works of Shakespeare. The tragedy occurred earlier than drama and was the leading genre in the ancient Greek theatre. Aeschylus and Sophocles were the first ever playwrights who wrote about the subjection of man to a blind destiny and the will of the gods. The emergence of the genre of drama is associated with the name of Euripides. In his works Euripides advanced human passions: Originally, tragedies often ended with the death of one or several characters while the ending of the drama was not always so tragic and could stay open. As mentioned above, the English dramaturgy did not make a clear distinction between historical drama and tragedy. First of all, because from the history English writers chose the most dramatic episodes, that were usually more or less tragic. In general, the history itself was the material for tragedies. Secondly, the theorists of the Renaissance drama believed that the worthy material for the tragedy could only be a historical person and majestic events. However, some researchers believe that there is some difference between the historical drama and tragedy. However, in the chronicles the personality still appears in his integrity, surrounded by all the complexities and contradictions of a relatively developed state and feudal society. In the chronicles, the main focus was given to the tragedy of the country, while in the Roman tragedies the foreground the tragedy was a personality. The English dramatists of the Renaissance did not conduct a strict distinction between the historical drama and tragedy.

Since its birth in , the Committee on the Human Dimensions of Global Change of the National Research Council has recognized the importance of commons and commons research Global Environmental Change: Not only is the topic important in its own right, the commons is also a central theme in studies of international cooperation, environmental decision making, and the design of resource management institutions. So the commons is at the center of the international research agenda on the human dimensions of global change. The importance of the topic is one reason the National Research Council has undertaken a review of knowledge about the commons at this time. Another reason is that it has been 15 years since the Council completed the work of its Panel on the Study of Common Property Resource Management. That work, as discussed in Chapter 1 , marked a turning point in the history of research on commons—it marked the emergence of a self-conscious interdisciplinary and international research community focused on understanding commons. After 15 productive years of research since that early synthetic effort, we felt it appropriate to reexamine and reintegrate what had been learned. Page viii Share Cite Suggested Citation: National Science Foundation to conduct this study. We began by commissioning a series of papers that were presented at the 8th Meeting of the International Association for the Study of Common Property in June at Indiana University. That meeting provided an excellent venue for discussing the work in progress with an international, interdisciplinary group of experts on the commons. Support from the Rockefeller Brothers Fund allowed us to hold a follow-up meeting of the authors and editors at the Pocantico Center in Tarrytown, New York in September We believe the result of our project is a rich series of papers that review what we know about the commons, integrate what in the past have been somewhat disparate literatures, and point directions for the future. We hope this volume achieves several goals. Second, for researchers already working in the field, we hope it provides a broad state-of-the-art review and shows connections and gaps in knowledge that may not have been obvious in the past. Third, for researchers and those funding research, we believe it conveys a sense of pride in what has been accomplished with relatively modest funding and indicates priorities for future work. Finally, although not a management handbook, we hope it provides some guidance to those who design and manage institutions dealing with the commons and makes it easier for them to base their decisions on the best available science. On behalf of the committee, I wish to thank the National Science Foundation and the Rockefeller Brothers Fund for their support of this project and the staff and students of the Workshop in Political Theory and Policy Analysis at Indiana University, who hosted the project participants in Indiana and have provided assistance at various stages in the project. We also owe a debt to Laura Penny, who did the copy editing, and to Yvonne Wise, who managed the review and editorial processes. I wish to thank the following individuals for their participation in the review of the papers in this volume: Although the individuals listed provided constructive comments and suggestions, it must be emphasized that the final responsibility for the content of this book rests with the authors and editors.

Rouge Tundra What if Pahkitew Island never happen? What if the Ridonculous Race was at the same time as All-Stars? Chris comes up with a plan so crazy it just my work. Anything they have made all credit goes to them. First of all this story will have some of the Pahkitew Island cast. None of my creations will be in this. The setting is in the movie lot with a bus on the left and a rebuild Jumbo Jet for the host on the right. Nobody is here until a dashing host pops out saying to the camera, "Hello, Total Drama Fans! Chris McClain is back with a new season. Well things change thanks to this wonderful man name Eon who will help me and Chef for this dramatic season. Chef take him into the plane. The host starts to speak again. Instead 18 cast members plus 8 new competitors will battle it out for one million dollars across dimensions! A scene takes place somewhere in Las Vegas where Don watches the show. He spits out his coffee saying, "Dimensions? This is Total Drama! Across Dimensions! McClain puts a face of annoyance, however it turns back to his perfect smile. It is Justin turn to step out of the automobile. He says to Chris annoyed and confuse, "Really Chris, formerly handsome? Justin just sighs and goes with the others. Chris continues to host the show. Alejandro and Justin grin at Duncan. Tyler cheers and runs to the others as he trips down causing everyone to laugh. Eva just twitches plus ignores Heather. The queen bee walks to Alejandro going for a kiss. As the couple kisses everybody thinks it is disgusting. Introducing Harold and best friends Courtney and Gwen! Courtney does the same as both high five each other finishing off Duncan. He holds his nuts in pain as everybody laughs. It is Trent with his guitar. Still everybody laughs as he sighs going with the competitors. Chris takes a tear out of his eye now back into hosting the show. No one says hi except Cody, Tyler, Harold, and Trent who for what reason she does not see. The two girls walk to the other. Dawn next to Noah and Zoey next to Cody. Brick, the soldier comes out saying, "Brick McArthur reporting for another shot in the million! Dakota comes out complaining, "Why am I back here!?! You turned me into a mutant freak! Heather starts to complain, "Really, your actually bringing more people who suck? She also has an accent when speaking in english. She says to the queen bee, "Do you have a problem with me mate? Another person comes out with wizard clothes? The wizard gives a glare to the ones who laugh as he goes to the group. A girl in a princess outfit comes out singing. This disgusts Heather big time. Some of the girls and all the boys except for Noah give Topher a high five. Suddenly a knock on the door comes in. Its Chris looking very annoyed. Now who are you calling large you old toothpick!?! Chris gets edgy and sounds his air horn. Dave points to Ella, Leonard, and Sugar. Chris does not wait for the celebration to be over. Then everyone starts laughing so hard about Chris telling them they will be traveling through dimensions. Only Dave is worried and Leonard is excited for the season. They all continue to laugh until they hear a loud noise causing them to cover their ears. It was Chris blowing his air horn with cotton balls in his ears. He afterward puts the air horn away plus takes the cotton balls off his ears. He says in aggravation, "Enough with the friendship on want the drama. Now my friend Eon will explain everything to you. Eon rolls his eyes as he starts to talk about this season. He talks like he wants to destroy everyone. Last one standing wins the million dollars. Inside the plane Eon is in the storage room. He does his best to remember their faces as he starts coming up with a plan. He gives a big smirk just waiting to get revenge on Chris and Ben Tennyson. Back with Chris and the campers he says, "All aboard! Chef presses a button allowing the plane to open for the contestants to go inside. Trent, Cody, Tyler, and Harold talk while walking to the plane. Alejandro and Heather hold hands while Gwen plus Courtney give glares at Duncan. Justin and Eva just walk. Noah tries to get to know Dave a little. Then Dave tells Noah, "Trust me I already have. Sky tries to talk with people, but all of them seem to not care or communicating with others. She sighs a little getting onto the plane. All of the contestants are in the Room 2 which is the center of the plane. He then calms down ready to explain the jet inside. In each new place everyone will participate in their challenges. It looks like a five star hotel room with a butler included. Most of the contestants become amaze. Whichever team wins first place in any dimension they get to stay here while the last team have to sleep in room 3. Viewers are seeing now Chris and the campers in room 3. The place is disgusting with wooden boards only holding able to hold several competitors. There are a few rats lurking around scaring Dave. Everyone sees Dave behind Sky trying to look for cover. The scene changes with everyone and now with Chef in elimination room. Chris smiles in delight. Now since everyone knows the rooms lets go back to Room 2 by taking a shortcut through the storage room. Little did they know that Eon is looking at all contestants. He believes he has found a person that can help him. They hate each other! I hate this plane. What is she a replica of Honey Boo Boo!? You will be known as the Time Tornados! Courtney starts to bark. The teams were completely randomize. Sugar then confess about her team being jolly. With the snap of his fingers Chris calls Chef to use a tranquilizing dart. Chef hits Sugar behind her right leg making her pass out in a second. Everyone gasps in disbelief.

Panoramic view of the ancient theatre at Epidaurus. The classical Greek valued the power of spoken word, and it was their main method of communication and storytelling. Bahn and Bahn write, "To Greeks the spoken word was a living thing and infinitely preferable to the dead symbols of a written language. For these reasons, among many others, oral storytelling flourished in Greece. Being a winner of the first theatrical contest held in Athens, he was the exarchon, or leader, [4] of the dithyrambs performed in and around Attica, especially at the rural Dionysia. Under the influence of heroic epic, Doric choral lyric and the innovations of the poet Arion, it had become a narrative, ballad-like genre. This was organized possibly to foster loyalty among the tribes of Attica recently created by Cleisthenes. The festival was created roughly around BC. While no drama texts exist from the sixth century BC, we do know the names of three competitors besides Thespis: Choerilus, Pratinas, and Phrynichus. Each is credited with different innovations in the field. More is known about Phrynichus. He won his first competition between BC and BC. He produced tragedies on themes and subjects later exploited in the golden age such as the Danaids, Phoenician Women and Alcestis. He was the first poet we know of to use a historical subject – his Fall of Miletus, produced in , chronicled the fate of the town of Miletus after it was conquered by the Persians. Herodotus reports that "the Athenians made clear their deep grief for the taking of Miletus in many ways, but especially in this: New inventions during the classical period[edit] Theater of Dionysus, Athens, Greece. This century is normally regarded as the Golden Age of Greek drama. The centre-piece of the annual Dionysia, which took place once in winter and once in spring, was a competition between three tragic playwrights at the Theatre of Dionysus. Each submitted three tragedies, plus a satyr play a comic, burlesque version of a mythological subject. Beginning in a first competition in BC each playwright submitted a comedy. Apparently the Greek playwrights never used more than three actors based on what is known about Greek theatre. Satyr plays dealt with the mythological subject matter of the tragedies, but in a purely comedic manner. From that time on, the theatre started performing old tragedies again. The only extant playwright from the period is Menander. The plays had a chorus from 12 to 15 [10] people, who performed the plays in verse accompanied by music, beginning in the morning and lasting until the evening. The performance space was a simple circular space, the orchestra, where the chorus danced and sang. The orchestra, which had an average diameter of 78 feet, was situated on a flattened terrace at the foot of a hill, the slope of which produced a natural theatron, literally "seeing place". The coryphaeus was the head chorus member who could enter the story as a character able to interact with the characters of a play. A drawing of an ancient theatre. Terms are in Greek language and Latin letters. The theatres were originally built on a very large scale to accommodate the large number of people on stage, as well as the large number of people in the audience, up to fourteen thousand. The first seats in Greek theatres other than just sitting on the ground were wooden, but around BCE the practice of inlaying stone blocks into the side of the hill to create permanent, stable seating became more common. They were called the "prohedria" and reserved for priests and a few most respected citizens. In BCE, the playwrights began using a backdrop or scenic wall, which hung or stood behind the orchestra, which also served as an area where actors could change their costumes. A paraskenia was a long wall with projecting sides, which may have had doorways for entrances and exits. Just behind the paraskenia was the proskenion. The proskenion "in front of the scene" was beautiful, and was similar to the modern day proscenium. Greek theatres also had tall arched entrances called parodoi or eisodoi , through which actors and chorus members entered and exited the orchestra. The upper story was called the episkenion. Some theatres also had a raised speaking place on the orchestra called the logeion.

Dramas indeed have lot more to offer than just entertainment , All we need to do is Relate. Sometimes they teach some sophisticated life lessons with such simplicity. Since her High school , she suffered due to her name. But what really makes her inspirational? Her spirit of moving forward in life. Not everyone has it. Even after setback from her parents , she managed to proceed. Love is what we all crave for and we can expect the same from her. He carved himself into one with his own motive to walk on this path of excellence. His character never showed a sudden change with meaningless transitions , rather he learned from each step. He changed himself to something from the Dust. Eldest son in a poor family with responsibilities on his shoulder gave a push towards his path. What really sets him apart from other characters is his competition with excellence. In an era with some of the best Swordsman in Korean history. A warrior holds many feelings inside to avoid any hindrance in their goal. After finding a bigger motive , His path became more bloody but he kept moving for a bigger cause. One more thing that makes this character awe-inspiring is emotional support. Park Ha-Sung born and raised in slavery. Biggest hurdle anyone can face on their way to success. But he was like born with an Urge to Learn. Defying the law of slavery that people had to face , just because! He always took care of consequences of his actions to avoid anything that can grow as an anguish for his family. What really made this character extraordinary and sent ripples of inspiration all over my body. How he managed in a sea of loneliness , His fighting spirit that carried and pushed him when every single step was more than death. His knowledge and urge to seek more was the only thing he was left with. He conquered those Everest like Nobles. He played game of Wisdom with those who called themselves the only possessor. But how she carved herself into one with Jolts of life is something Imprint a deep image in our heart. In a Confucianized society where women were supposed to leave home at the time of Marriage , She broke all those boundaries trying to push her backward. All she had was her Love towards art and Mind full of curiosity , craving to seek more and more. Apart from her early vision towards life! How she managed herself with a drastic change in life was nothing less than a inspirational message she conveyed through her actions. She never lost hope, Her optimistic behaviour and looking for best in the worst spirit taught me a big lesson. Her role as a mother seeking happiness in resources available , Teaching her children to suppress their desire but never let em die. She was selfless and always put herself in danger because she wanted to save everyone. Not everyone is willing to sacrifice their life for others: Bong Soon had the power and the will to face anything to protect the people she loves: I love this drama for its family and friendship theme and because of its characters. There are many things people can learn from her and get inspiration from.

Drama Worlds examines the complex improvised event called process drama and identifies it as an essential part of today's theatre. Cecily O'Neill considers process drama's sources and connections with more familiar kinds of improvisation: the texts it generates, the kinds of roles available, factors such as audience and dramatic time, and the leader's function in the event.
