2: 50 Simple Outdoor Activities For Kids - No Time For Flash Cards

Play games that get your kids moving while learning about a variety of subjects. For preschoolers, start with a basic game that helps him learn farm animals, numbers, colors and shapes. Adapt the game for school-age children to cover anatomy, world government, foreign language and history.

Instead, kids can do push-ups, stomach crunches, pull-ups, and other exercises to help tone and strengthen muscles. They also improve their strength when they climb, do a handstand, or wrestle. Stretching exercises help improve flexibility, allowing muscles and joints to bend and move easily through their full range of motion. The Sedentary Problem Kids and teens are sitting around a lot more than they used to. They spend hours every day in front of a screen TVs, smartphones, tablets, and other devices looking at a variety of media TV shows, videos, movies, games. Too much screen time and not enough physical activity add to the problem of childhood obesity. One of the best ways to get kids to be more active is to limit the amount of time spent in sedentary activities, especially watching TV or other screens. Put limits on the time spent using media, which includes TV, social media, and video games. Media should not take the place of getting enough sleep and being active. Limit screen time to 1 hour a day or less for children 2 to 5 years old. Discourage any screen time, except video-chatting, for kids younger than 18 months. Turn off screens during mealtimes. How Much Exercise Is Enough? Parents should make sure that their kids get enough exercise. So, how much is enough? Kids and teens should get 60 minutes or more of moderate to vigorous physical activity daily. Toddlers and preschool children should play actively several times a day. Toddlers should get at least 60 minutes active play every day and preschoolers should have at least minutes active play every day. This time should include planned, adult-led physical activity and unstructured active free play. And school-age children should not be inactive for periods longer than 2 hours. Raising Fit Kids Combining regular physical activity with a healthy diet is the key to a healthy lifestyle. Here are some tips for raising fit kids: Help your kids do in a variety of age-appropriate activities. Set a regular schedule for physical activity. Make being active a part of daily life, like taking the stairs instead of the elevator. Be active together as a family. Keep it fun, so your kids will come back for more.
