

1: Clever people doing clever things : theCHIVE

We can see you're using Adblocker. Block everybody else, but we thought we were friends. Please click Yes below to whitelist us, so we can keep doing our best to show you half-naked ladies and funny Internet memes.

Whatsapp For nearly a decade now, investors have been wallowing in a bull market. Of course, this is a good thing. But we have to remember that a bull market has a beginning and therefore has an end. However, you must also secure your future against a bear market by doing these clever things before the bull market ends. February saw a market correction, as predicted by many analysts. According to Mark Morley, a financial planner from Oklahoma, no one can certainly predict the ups and down of the market. So that leaves you with the choice of staying invested, armed with a long-term plan. But, is there a way to recognize the coming of a bear market? Many analysts advise traders like you do extra research in times of bullish sentiment. Before you sell, find clues that indicate a longer upside in the future. Signs to Watch For you to recognize the end of the bull market, you got watch out for crucial signs. Experts suggest that skepticism is one thing to watch during a bull market. According to Ihor Dusaniwsky, the head of research at a financial analytics firm, many investors have started to increase their bearish bets during the past couple of years. This indicates that these investors are expecting a huge market sell-off. This is what you need to do: You have to see to it that you have enough hedging positions from ETFs or beta stocks. This serves as a safeguard against huge losses from your longs during a detrimental market crash. You also have to closely monitor leading economic indicators. These indicators include consumer sentiment, capital goods orders, and manufacturing orders, among others. You may also try to reduce the number of your winning stocks, while also investing in short-term Treasury bonds plus other high-quality fixed-income assets. Long-term investors the smart ones usually have well-constructed and diversified portfolios. That happens to be the most important thing, and the most basic, in investing. Remember that the worst thing you could do is to be emotional during a bearish market. A smart thing to do is to follow your investment plan, even if the headlines tell otherwise. Keep a cool head. If you keep it together, it will be easier to construct a bear-market-proof plan. Strive hard to be rational even if the sense of impending doom is great. Are You Trading or Gambling? How do you keep your head clear, by the way? According to experts, there are tons of ways to be levelheaded during the end of the bull market. The best course of action: You will most likely associate everything to a market crash. Talk to the Bears Since we have tackled skepticism, one smart thing to do is to discuss this with bearish traders, if you can find one. Some traders refuse to suspend their bullishness. And if they ever managed to actually discuss with bears, the bulls usually complain of being paralyzed. This is because in reality, both bulls and bears have strong talking points. Those talking points come from fact-checked statistics and analyses, which makes deciding to be bullish or bearish even more difficult. These companies grow with the market during bullish trends, but they lose a lot less when the market spirals down. Meanwhile, if you think the bull market will continue its reign, better check out the strategies below. Learn more about dividend stocks. Illusions and Misconceptions Trading Strategies during a Bull Market The following are the most common trading strategies that many investors use during a bull market. Buy and Hold This is arguably the simplest and most popular strategy. Passive investors love this. The goal is to gain from the bull market, which should sustain its rise to make the buy-and-hold strategy work. Once you place a long position, you just let it be until you find clear-cut and definitive signs of market reversals. The goal is to add more to your holdings and profits while the bull market lasts. The amount of increase should ideally be a fixed price. Lastly, you continue doing this when the price hits predetermined level or when you think that the market has already topped out. Retracement Additions Other investors are more aggressive, and they try to make substantial additions to their holdings. They seek for the most advantageous prices, too. When retracements happen, you can buy more shares on the slide, assuming that the bull market will go back to its upward trajectory. If all goes according to plan, you got yourself additional profitable shares. Full Swing The most aggressive investors practice this strategy, taking advantage of the oscillating movement of the market. If you do this, you try to profit from trading with the swings of highs and downs within the bull market. You use buying and short-selling positions as the market moves back and forth, up and down. Further, you have to be thoroughly involved in watching over charts and in monitoring the market. You have to obtain the advice of market analysts or use your own charts. Most traders who do this focus on momentum oscillators, which tell them overbought or oversold states with support and resistance levels. When you see signs that the market has temporarily exhausted its momentum, you exit long positions and begin short-sell positions. Doing so will aid you earn from a downward correction. If technical indicators tell you that the correction will soon go away and the bull market will take the spotlight again, you close out all your short-sell positions and start new buying positions. You do this over and over again, seeing that there could be an overall, long-term uptrend. You can take bigger buying positions than selling positions, but you have to weigh the trades in the direction of the bull market. Good luck with the next bear market!

If you want to find out how it feels to sound smart, try out some of these clever jokes.

Three can keep a secret, if two of them are dead. Cleverness is mere opinion, bewilderment is intuition. It may not pass your way again. Heinlein A clever man commits no minor blunders. Mencken The road to success is always under construction. Mencken Man is a clever animal who behaves like an imbecile. Only very, very clever ones. Roosevelt, Eleanor Roosevelt, or Thomas Jefferson, but Clever Quotes for Facebook Marriage is the chief cause of divorce. Mencken Love is the triumph of imagination over intelligence. Mencken Love is the delusion that one woman differs from another. Mencken Love is like war: Mencken Happiness is the china shop; love is the bull. Mencken Keep your eyes wide open before marriage, half shut afterwards. Monogamy is the same. That is the reason one should never marry. Come to think of it, would anyone really admit to writing any of these clever phrases? The light at the end of the tunnel may be an oncoming train. If everything seems to be going well, you have obviously overlooked something. I love my attitude problem. Politicians and diapers need to be changed regularly, usually for the same reason. Join the Army, travel the world, meet interesting people and kill them. Life is uncertain; always eat dessert first. Half the people you know are below average. Smile, it makes people wonder what you are thinking. Whenever I find the key to success, someone changes the lock. The early bird gets the worm, but the second mouse gets the cheese. Clever Sayings and Quotes Never put off till tomorrow what you can do the day after tomorrow. You can distort them later. Naked people have little or no influence on society. You may die of a misprint. Comedy is when you fall into an open sewer and die. Fields Golf is a good walk spoiled. Sign-up for your free subscription to my Daily Inspiration - Daily Quote email. To confirm your subscription, you must click on a link in the email being sent to you. Each email contains an unsubscribe link.

3: Clever Quotes - Clever Sayings

Sound & Brand Doing clever things with sound and music. Sound & Brand. Sound & Brand.

Your strengths, or your weaknesses? The best that might happen, or the worst that might come to be? In your quiet moments, pay attention to your thoughts. Because maybe, just maybe, the only thing that needs to shift in order for you to experience more happiness, more love, and more vitality, is your way of thinking. Here are 60 thought-provoking quotes and life lessons gathered from our book and our blog archive that will help you adjust your way of thinking. You cannot change what you refuse to confront. Sometimes good things fall apart so better things can fall together. Sometimes you need to distance yourself to see things clearly. Read Rich Dad, Poor Dad. If a person wants to be a part of your life, they will make an obvious effort to do so. Think twice before reserving a space in your heart for people who do not make an effort to stay. Making one person smile can change the world – maybe not the whole world, but their world. The most painful thing is losing yourself in the process of loving someone too much, and forgetting that you are special too. As we grow up, we realize it becomes less important to have more friends and more important to have real ones. Making a hundred friends is not a miracle. The miracle is to make a single friend who will stand by your side even when hundreds are against you. Falling in love is not a choice. To stay in love is. Never do something permanently foolish just because you are temporarily upset. When you stop chasing the wrong things you give the right things a chance to catch you. Every single thing that has ever happened in your life is preparing you for a moment that is yet to come. True nobility is in being superior to the person you once were. Trying to be someone else is a waste of the person you are. You will never become who you want to be if you keep blaming everyone else for who you are now. People are more what they hide than what they show. Being alone does not mean you are lonely, and being lonely does not mean you are alone. Love is not about sex, going on fancy dates, or showing off. Anyone can come into your life and say how much they love you. It takes someone really special to stay in your life and show how much they love you. Burn the candles, use the nice sheets, wear the fancy lingerie. Love and appreciate your parents. We are often so busy growing up, we forget they are also growing old. Learn to love yourself first, instead of loving the idea of other people loving you. Happiness is a choice. No matter how good or bad you have it, wake up each day thankful for your life. Someone somewhere else is desperately fighting for theirs. The smallest act of kindness is worth more than the grandest intention. Many people are so poor because the only thing they have is money. Learn to appreciate the things you have before time forces you appreciate the things you once had. When you choose to see the good in others, you end up finding the good in yourself. You drown by staying there. Most people depend on others to gain happiness, but the truth is, it always comes from within. If you tell the truth, it becomes a part of your past. If you lie, it becomes a part of your future. What you do every day matters more than what you do every once in a while. Read The Power of Habit. Things turn out best for people who make the best out of the way things turn out.

4: www.enganchecubano.com - Entertainment and Information Omnimedia by Clever Things, LLC

Superminds | Clever thinking We are an experienced, talented group who will work alongside you to create intelligent interactive solutions for your online ideas. We bring a hacking mindset, adding creative, innovative thinking to your team.

Shutterstock Images You might be under the impression that intelligence is a fixed quantity set when you are young and unchanging thereafter. How we approach situations and the things we do to feed our brains can significantly improve our mental horsepower. When a questioner keen on self-improvement asked the community, "What would you do to be a little smarter every single day? Which of these 10 ideas can you fit into your daily routine? Be smarter about your online time. The Web is also full of great learning resources, such as online courses, intriguing TED talks, and vocabulary-building tools. Replace a few minutes of skateboarding with something more mentally nourishing, suggest several responders. Mike Xie, a research associate at Bayside Biosciences, agrees: Get out the Scrabble board. It can be rough on your self-esteem, but hanging out with folks who are more clever than you is one of the fastest ways to learn. Remember your IQ is the average of five closest people you hang out with," Saurabh Shah, an account manager at Symphony Teleca, writes. I have never had a problem accepting that I am an average coder at best and there are many things I am yet to learn! Always be humble and be willing to learn. OK, this is not a shocker, but it was the most common response: Reading definitely seems essential. Explain it to others. The Quora posters agree. Student Jon Packles elaborates on this idea: Being able to retain that information and teach others is far more valuable. Do random new things. After dropping out of school, the future Apple founder had a lot of time on his hands and wandered into a calligraphy course. It seemed irrelevant at the time, but the design skills he learned were later baked into the first Macs. You never know what will be useful ahead of time. You just need to try new things and wait to see how they connect with the rest of your experiences later on. So you have to trust that the dots will somehow connect in your future," Parrish quotes Jobs as saying. Learn a new language. You can work away steadily from the comfort of your desk and still reap the mental rewards. There are a lot of free sites for that. Spend some time just thinking, suggests retired cop Rick Bruno. He pauses the interior chatter while exercising. Do you have any suggestions to add to the list? Jul 24, More from Inc.

5: Things To Do In Clever Missouri | Things To Do In Clever MO

Life hacks to the max! We have rounded up some creative and useful life health hacks that you can start trying now. - Home Decor Find this Pin and more on Clever People Do Clever Things by Cassandra Howlett.

My clever comebacks usually surface an hour too late Sometimes the most clever thing to say is nothing at all. Well, enough about me. What do you think about me? Always forgive your enemies, but never forget their names. The less damns you give, the happier you will be Beware the clever man that makes the wrong look right. Love is like a rose in the winter, only the strong survive. If you like me, then raise your hand, If not then raise your standard. The universe contains protons, neutrons, electrons and morons. In our pursuit to find the enemy we come face to face with ourselves. Nothing is particularly hard if you divide it into small jobs. If life gives you lemonsâ€¦. Grab some salt, and bring on the tequila shots!! An eye for an eye will ultimately, leave the whole world blind. Everyone has a sense of humor. The best way to destroy an enemy is to make him a friend. If the grass is greener on the other side, you can bet the water bill is higher. Leroy Anderson The thing about sarcasm is that it has to be really clever in order to be classy. Many funny TV shows rely on clever one-liners and sarcasm to make us laugh. Often the jokes on those shows are so clever that you need to think about them for a moment before you get them. Many studies done by psychologists show that irony, sarcasm, and other forms of clever humor are associated with a high level of creativity and intelligence. What could be better than getting smarter while having fun? Go right ahead and make fun of your friends and yourself, just remember to do it in a clever way.

6: 21 Clever Quotes That Will Make You Laugh | Text And Image Quotes

his clever ball control clever at doing something He was clever at finding bargains. 4 EFFECTIVE done or made in an unusual or interesting way that is very effective What a clever little gadget!

Why put off doing something you really want to do? Anything worth doing is worth doing now. And each is a lot easier to accomplish than some grand, sweeping, hopefully-life-changing-but-in-the-end-you-never-manage-to-accomplish pledge. They want the best for you. They are always there for you. You have nothing until you actually do something. Every day, we let hesitation and uncertainty stop us from acting on our ideas. Pick one plan, one goal, or one idea. Just take one small step. The first step is by far the hardest. Every successive step will be a lot easier. That makes it easy to blame others for our problems. But we are almost always also to blame. We did or did not do something we could have done differently or better. Instead, take full responsibility, not in a masochistic, "woe is me" way, but in an empowering way. Focus on being smarter or better or faster or more creative the next time. At least it is for me. Yet nothing ever turns out to be as hard or as scary as you thought it would be. So go do something you were afraid to do. Pick someone who did something well and tell them. And feel free to go back in time. Saying, "I was just thinking about how you handled that project last year" can make just as positive an impact today as it would have then. Maybe a little more impact, because you still remember what happened a year later. Surprise praise is a gift that costs the giver nothing but is priceless to the recipient. I use rejection to fuel my motivation to do whatever it takes to prove that person wrong and, more important, achieve what I want to achieve. Call it childish and immature. And it can work for you. Get pissed off, even if your anger is unjustified and imaginary--in fact, especially if your anger is unjustified or imaginary--and use it for fuel to shake you out of your same-thing-different-day rut. The fact you will get the help you need is icing on the achievement cake. Many people see asking for help as a sign of weakness, so they hesitate. Yet we can all use help. Can I help you finish that? And then actually help. Whatever it is, do it. Every day, do one thing no one else is willing to do. Live it your way. We all have things we need to apologize for: Just make sure no one is watching. Your plate is full. There are plenty of reasons to sit tight, stay safe, keep things as they are. But that also means tomorrow will be just like today. Say yes to something different. Say yes to something scary. Sometimes you just need to say no: Sometimes you really need to be able to focus on what is important to you. Say no at least once before the end of the month--the harder to say, the better. When your heart is in the right place, what you accomplish by spending more time on your goals will eventually benefit other people too. Sometimes the best addition starts with subtraction. Pick someone who is dragging you down or holding you back, and let them go. Yeah, perfection is the only acceptable outcome. Unfortunately, no product or service is ever perfect, and no project or initiative is perfectly planned. Work hard, do great work, and let it fly. No job is ever too menial, no task too unskilled or boring. The next time you see something that needs to be done, just do it. Most of the time, we should set our own courses and follow our own paths. But sometimes the best thing to do is copy what made someone else successful. Pick someone who has accomplished what you would like to accomplish and follow that path. We should do that again! Sometimes the best way to end a great day is with a silent acknowledgment of achievement and, more important, fulfillment.

7: Sound and Brand "Doing clever things with sound and music

I created this video with the YouTube Video Editor (www.enganchecubano.com).

8: 60 Quotes that Will Change the Way You Think

More clever than most, anyway. | See more ideas about Cleanser, Cleaning and Cleaning hacks. More clever than most, anyway.

9: Bull Market: Clever Things to do before it Ends - FSMSmart Reviews

This is because a clever person has more of an understanding of things and can be a source of trustworthy advice that people can rely on. In times of hardship or disaster, people rely on the clever persons to solve problems and to know how to remain safe.

Documents Concerning the Life and Character of Emanuel Swedenborg Volume Two, Part Two Time for a revolution Kevin Y.L. Tan The Odyssey of Political Theory Encyclopedic dictionary of magic 802.11 WLANs and IP Networking Lawyers and creditors service directory Around South America with a sample case Intellectuals, socialism, and dissent Discovering protein-protein interaction sites from sequence and structure David La, Daisuke Kihara Miscellaneous writings and letters of Thomas Cranmer Six Extraordinary Deans Favorite Impressionist paintings The positioning of the reformists, 1969-1973. Pt. 1. Manuel Fraga as pioneer Rockville ppa 20 preamplifier manual Performance tuning in theory and practice four strokes El Teatro (Esto Es Divertidísimo) Polysaccharide-protein complexes in invertebrates. Parties and their principles Five love languages of teenagers Making it on Broadway Latina politics, Latino politics Poverty and progress : four decades of change The Family Reunion Sourcebook Learning from our adult children Too many people are going to college Nanoscale semiconductor rectifiers for terahertz detection paper More than just farms Beyond descriptive translation studies Doctor Who Unbound: Auld Mortality. In Sub-Saharan Africa and Oceania Poems of New York Early texts [of Karl Marx] Apple iphone service manual Wars of Peggy Hull Introduction to heat transfer sixth edition U.S. border security Energy use and energy efficiency in UK transport up to the year 2010 Learning and memory anderson Jeet Kune Do, a New Era Explanatory Burden