The chain was formed by people from 96 countries around the whole world. This is configured for a minimum headway of 90 seconds 40 trains per hour. On the first day of operation, one metro train broke down and passengers were stranded for two hours before being picked up by a second train. However, RTA officials remained tight-lipped about what had caused the incident. The RTA confirmed that both the Red and Green lines of the metro were running slow, in both directions, due to "some technical issues". The Dubai Metro saw its first death when a man committed suicide by lying down on the metro tracks and was run over by the automated train. According to a Roads and Transport Authority RTA official, the train on the Red Line experienced an electrical failure, causing the metro to stall operations between the Union and Business Bay metro stations leaving passengers stranded. The Green Line operated as usual. The passengers stranded in the train broke emergency door lever glass cover and opened the door as there was no air conditioning available and walked to Al Karama Metro Station by walking on the viaduct. Two hours later, the Metro services were fully restored. In late evening, commuters on the Dubai Metro were stranded at stations due to trains between Business Bay station and Nakheel station stopped operating in both direction due to a technical glitch. The systems were fully restored one hour later. Systems were restored in 30 minutes. The station was shut down for one hour following the incident [83] November 6, - Passengers commuting on the Red Line were left stranded after a technical glitch caused train services to temporarily stall specifically near Jumeirah Lakes Towers now DMCC and UAE Exchange stations. Here is the Dubai Metro Map together with information about the zones that apply to travel. Check out all of the stations on the red and green lines.

Driverless Trains The Dubai Metro is one of the few driverless passenger trains in the world. It was built over a period of about 4 years and was completed and opened in 2009. The government plan was to build a network of public transport in Dubai that would encourage people to give up their cars. Dubai Metro was a key part of that plan and continues to spearhead public transport in Dubai. Hugely Successful The Metro has been a great success. Since it was launched has seen a continual increase in the number of passengers that use it each year. This has decreased the number of people using cars on the roads of the Emirate and making the city greener. The government of Dubai is set on increasing public transport usage over the coming years and the Metro is the mainstay of that plan. Expanding Currently there are two lines – the green line and the red line. There are plans to build more lines and also to extend the existing lines further. This would mean a larger part of the Dubai residential areas would be covered by the Metro. One major plan that is in progress at the moment is to extend the Metro line to the site of Expo 2020. This will be completed in time for the Expo! There are also still plans for 2 more lines although those plans have been slightly on hold in recently years. Using the Metro If you are planning on using the Dubai Metro either as a resident or a visitor then check out the rules and regulations , the ticket prices and the station information here. You can find out the latest information about any changes that are happening in the News Section. About this website This website was set up by myself shortly before the Dubai Metro itself opened on 9 September 2009. Therefore it was up to people like myself to fill the gap and supply the public with information about the Dubai Metro. In this respect I apologise in advance if you do not find the information that you need here. I have tried to accumulate as much Dubai Metro information as I can and also keep updated on the news. However, it is often very difficult to get to the facts as these are not always released to the public by the RTA. Also decisions about the opening hours of the Dubai Metro are not made public until the last minute. Please take a look at the information on the website and hopefully you can find what you are looking for.
