A Word of Encouragement for Teachers Piles of grading. Constant testing and unreasonable requirements. These, and many more things, conspire against teachers and try to bring us down. To make us wonder if we are wasting our time. And today I want to offer you a small word of encouragement. Your labor is not in vain. Teacher, Your Work Matters I was going to tell you that there are students in your class who will look back on this year and be thankful for your influence. They may even be the one causing you the most trouble. I was going to remind you that growth takes time and tell you that the seeds you are planting in young hearts and minds will grow and bring forth fruit, even if you might not see it yet. I was going to tell you that you are making a difference. That there are students who care. Even if they never tell you. I was going to tell you all of this until I realized that all of these things pale in comparison to one very important fact. God sees your effort, your work, your labor. And He is the only one that truly matters. God sees the long hours and the shed tears. He knows your biggest frustrations and your deepest hurts. Into being the best teacher we can for their sake. And whatever you do, do it heartily, as to the Lord and not to men, knowing that from the Lord you will receive the reward of the inheritance; for you serve the Lord Christ. When no one else seems to notice, He sees. When no one else seems to care, He cares. When our words seem to be falling flat, He sees our effort and is pleased with our faithfulness. So today, in the midst of the busyness, the frustration, the chaos “ take a moment and remember the real reason that you are teaching. The real reason we are teaching should be for God. Therefore, my beloved brethren, be steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, knowing that your labor is not in vain in the Lord. Be encouraged in the Lord. Find the help you need. And keep making a difference. How do you encourage yourself in the Lord during discouraging days? Leave a comment in the space below. Photo by Luz Adriana Villa A.

5: Elizabeth Newenhuyse (Author of I Married You)

Thanks, Angela, your whole site has given me encouragement as I face second grade for the first time as a teacher. You have done a lot of work that is inspiring and reflects the nature of a Christian woman- influential, humble and effective.

It was my life-long dream and ambition to teach and it is a profession that has challenged me in every way but has also brought me the most rewarding experiences of my life. Anyone who is anyone can attribute some of their success to a great teacher. I had several amazing teachers in my life who encouraged me and mentored me. They made me want to follow in their foot steps and be the best teacher I could be. If you are a teacher, you know that it is not a career for the faint of heart. You are dedicated, hard-working and you strive to build a joy of learning into each and every one of your students. I salute all teachers! May you be encouraged by these scriptures today and everyday! Teach them to your children, talking about them when you sit at home and when you walk along the road, when you lie down and when you get up. Let nothing move you. Always give yourselves fully to the work of the Lord, because you know that your labor in the Lord is not in vain. Always be prepared to give an answer to everyone who asks you to give the reason for the hope that you have. But do this with gentleness and respect. We all stumble in many ways. Anyone who is never at fault in what they say is perfect, able to keep their whole body in check. Then we will no longer be infants, tossed back and forth by the waves, and blown here and there by every wind of teaching and by the cunning and craftiness of people in their deceitful scheming. Instead, speaking the truth in love, we will grow to become in every respect the mature body of him who is the head, that is, Christ. From him the whole body, joined and held together by every supporting ligament, grows and builds itself up in love, as each part does its work. Then they can urge the younger women to love their husbands and children, to be self-controlled and pure, to be busy at home, to be kind, and to be subject to their husbands, so that no one will malign the word of God. You who preach against stealing, do you steal? You who say that people should not commit adultery, do you commit adultery? You who abhor idols, do you rob temples? You who boast in the law, do you dishonor God by breaking the law? All rights reserved worldwide.
