

1: Book Review: First Responders Handbook

The First Responder Handbook: Fire Service Edition is an information-packed guide providing first responder education for fire service professionals. Written by emergency response experts and specifically designed for firefighters, this text presents information in a way that will feel familiar to anyone in the fire service.

Earn the Cyber Chip award for your age. The Cyber Chip portion of this requirement may be waived by your parent or guardian if you do not have access to the internet. There are a few major changes between Cub Scouts and Webelos scouts that are very important to the success of your program. Advancement Sign Off - each Webelos scout is supposed to take the handbook to the den leader or assistant den leader for sign off when a requirement is completed. This is a change from having a parent sign off every activity. This change prepares the scout to have a Scoutmaster sign off each advancement requirement in Boy Scouts. There is more responsibility put on the scout to remember and bring the handbook to meetings and get it signed. Help the scouts along until they get the routine. Have them bring their Webelos handbook to every meeting and reward them for bringing them until they get it. Have a list of adventure requirements that you plan on completing at a meeting so you, your assistant, or a parent on your behalf can sign off those that are completed right away. This will help the scouts understand the importance of the handbook. Webelos earn pins which can be displayed on the Webelos Colors device. This moves closer to the Boy Scout merit badge system where recognition items are displayed on a sash. Camping - Webelos dens should Camp! Cub Scouts can camp as a pack, but Webelos should go out as a den as much as possible to give the scouts opportunities to learn and use their new skills. Each Webelos scout needs to have an adult responsible for the scout on each camping trip. Taking your den to a district or council organized summer Webelos camp should be a required part of your program. Most councils have a one or two day overnight camp every summer for Webelos. A Packing List is helpful for a short campout. Be sure you follow Rules for Safe Scouting practices on your camping trips. Patrols - a patrol is just another name for the den but it does have some significance. Boy Scouts are organized into Patrols, each with their own name, flag, yell, leader, and emblem. As Webelos, a den can begin to operate as a patrol and select an emblem for their uniform, make up a yell, name, and flag. This can really get the scouts to become a team. Taking their flag along on a campout or hike and announcing themselves with their yell is pretty fun. A great time to start working as a patrol is when everyone in the den earns their Webelos rank. Have a den meeting with the goal of becoming a patrol - choosing a name, selecting an emblem, coming up with a yell, and designing a flag. You might also elect a patrol leader a denner to serve for the next month. Each month, a new patrol leader could be elected so each scout has the opportunity to practice leadership skills. The den leader should spend some extra time with the patrol leader explaining how to run a meeting and giving encouragement to lead the other scouts. A well-trained Den Leader is critical to the success of a Webelos Den. The Webelos Den Leader makes advancement opportunities available to the scouts and tracks their advancements. The den leader can also recruit other adults to plan and organize individual adventure outings. One of the main roles of the Webelos den leader is to give each scout opportunities to lead and make decisions, both individually and for the den. Every Webelos Den is required to have a registered den leader whose responsibilities are: Work directly with other den and pack leaders to ensure that the den is an active and successful part of the pack. Plan, prepare for, and conduct den meetings with the assistant den leader and den chief. Plan overnight campouts and other outdoor activities. Lead the den at pack meetings and activities. Help the den earn the National Den Award. Work with local scoutmasters to ensure the transition of Webelos scouts to Boy Scouts. There are many resources available to help the den leader plan and run a successful, interesting program for the scouts. The Webelos Den Leader Guide is the most important one. It has complete den meeting plans for each adventure and many ideas for activities that promote the purposes of Cub Scouting. Using this guide minimizes the time needed to plan worthwhile den events. There is no level of competence or skill required to complete adventures. Putting in personal effort and having fun with fellow scouts is success. Many available Awards are never earned by Webelos. Learn about additional awards offered to your scouts such as the World Conservation Award and Outdoor Ethics Award and try to work them into your schedule,

First Responders Handbook: An Introduction, Second www.enganchecubano.com Michael L. Madigan. CRC Press; www.enganchecubano.com; pages; $ Author Michael L. Madigan writes that this handbook's objective is to provide information to enhance and support the capabilities of first responders in the public and private sectors.

Learn basic personal safety and first aid skills. Complete Requirement 1 and at least five others. Explain what first aid is. Tell what you should do after an accident. Show what to do for hurry cases of first aid: Serious bleeding, heart attack or sudden cardiac arrest, stopped breathing, stroke, poisoning Show how to help a choking victim. Show how to treat for shock. Demonstrate how to treat at least five of the following: Cuts and scratches, B. Burns and scalds, C. Blisters on the hand or foot, E. Bites and stings of other insects, G. Frostbite Put together a simple home first-aid kit. Explain what you included and how to use each item correctly. Create and practice an emergency readiness plan for your home or den meeting place. Visit with a first responder or health care professional. Ideas for Adventure Requirements: On page 69 of the Webelos handbook, it says to start chest compressions if someone is unresponsive - this is incorrect. CPR should be started if there is no signs of life, not if someone is just unconscious. Most Webelos aged boys will not be big enough to effectively perform CPR. Scouts should NOT simulate back blows or abdominal thrusts on each other. Showing hand placement is all they should not, not apply any pressure. This keeps the patient insulated from the ground and a bit cleaner. Demonstrate means to actually do the skill, not just explain it in words. Knowing how to properly use each item in the kit is just as important as including it. Have scouts work with their parents using page 84 of their Webelos Handbook to draw a floorplan of their house with two exits from each room and an outdoor meeting spot. Plan ahead for this by contacting your police , fire department, or other emergency service provider.
