Help December 11, Help Dictionary: To give assistance or support to; to make more pleasant or bearable; to be of use to further the advancement of. To help, benefit, do good; my help; aid, relieve, do service, render help; strong enough for; shout; call aloud; proclaim. Help can come in many ways. Actually, people have been blessing and helping me all my life. I firmly believe that God has appointed people or angels to help us as we go through our life. I am speaking about strangers who just show up. My amazing Brothers and Sisters in Christ are always there to help me. But there are people out there that God has also reserved to help me and you and who just seem to appear at just the right time. I am quite sure all of us have the same God breathed help available in our lives! Here are a few of my real life examples which show that I may be getting older and be a little forgetful, but God has made ways to help me! A little girl ran after me at the airport carrying my passport I had dropped! I signed in at the airport to check my baggage. After doing that I started to leave but a man called after me: One of the helpers. A call to the dump resulted in finding the phone! God used two young men to locate the phone! Part of the helpers. By now you probably think I am a little absent minded. That may be somewhat true but I see these moments as God directed and God breathed. And besides, look at all the strangers I get to meet! Or it can become an opportunity to touch a soul! Through those remembrances, I feel a renewed thankfulness and gratitude welling up inside me. One of the first things I notice is the Samaritan felt compassion for the poor man. If someone is helping us it is probably coming from a heart of compassion! We need to receive that help as sent by God. Or, we may feel compassion for someone and help them. Blessings flow when this happens! The second thing I noticed was that the Samaritan was on a trip. The compassion felt by the Samaritan caused him to stop his journey and to be sure the injured man was in good hands. It also appears that the Samaritan stayed overnight and continued to care for him! The third thing I see is the compassion by the Samaritan to: He promised to return to pay any other money owed! As I read this Scripture, I heard Jesus making strong points about helping! Giving help or receiving help with a compassionate heart will bring healings and blessings! Father God increase compassion within my heart to help others-even when it seems to be a struggle or inconvenience!
