Overwhelmed by a Relentless God, and Forgotten God: His other works include Erasing Hell, Multiply: Chan is a highly sought after speaker at many Christian colleges, major national and international events and conferences. He is not afraid of confronting lukewarmness. He was born in His mother died giving birth to him. After being raised by his Buddhist grandmother in Hong Kong, Francis came to America at the age of 5. His father remarried, and then his step mother died in a car accident when Francis was 9. Then his father died of cancer when he was 12 years old. The only close relatives he had were his aunt and uncle. But when he was in high school, his aunt and uncle got in a fight, and his uncle shot his wife then killed himself. The losses were profound. Chan says physical and verbal affection in his family, particularly from his father, was rare. Francis Chan has an older sister Grace, older brother Paul and much younger half-sister, Gloria. He did not get along well with his father growing up, but says that his fear of his father has helped him understand a level of fear of God. Despite a childhood filled with death, Francis Chan did not doubt the love of God. He recalls a childhood filled with church and belief in God. And by junior high school he began to understand what it meant to have a personal relationship with God. In high school, he began living it. Chan was active in Christian youth groups which helped develop his faith in Christianity and his interest in ministry. Chan joined his youth pastor in ministry to reach his friends who were still in school. It was during that time that Chan chose to become a pastor. In , he worked as a youth pastor for another church. Within ten years, the church had grown to over 3, regular attendees. Just a few years later, Chan took a trip to Uganda that further altered his thinking and living. In , Eternity launched an abroad program in Ecuador. His passion and clarity in sharing the gospel has inspired many to seek the Kingdom of God wholeheartedly, with all our heart, soul, mind and strength. The pastor, speaker and best-selling author believes a life called by Jesus will be a transformed life. And he tries to live out that transformation in every aspect—his ministry, his family, his community, his finances and his publishing. On Sunday, April 18, , Chan announced to his congregation that he felt called to resign at Cornerstone in Simi Valley to pursue what God had laid on his heart. As of April he stated he was not yet sure what city God had called him to,[11] but by June stated publicly he felt called to San Francisco, CA. Much of it goes to organizations which rescue sex slaves in foreign countries. Currently, Francis is planting churches in the San Francisco area and recently launched a countrywide discipleship movement called Multiply with David Platt. Together, Francis and his wife Lisa raise their seven children in Northern California.
