The angel of the Lord encamps around those who fear him, and delivers them. There are forces arrayed against us that are bigger, stronger, and smarter than we are. It does little good to be told by religious instructors to stop being afraid. Fear lurks behind too many troubles that come cascading our way. David speaks in this artistic piece of writing about an experience he had when God handled fear in his life. He was being hounded by Saul who was jealous of him. By the time of this episode, Saul was insane with fear of being toppled by the young David. So, David was not only being sought by the most powerful man in the nation. That man was insane. By acting deranged himself he escaped certain death from that king. Through betrayal of Doeg the Edomite and the rage of Saul, young David saw the forces of evil aligned against him that seemed inescapable. But God who had chosen him and anointed him to be the next king was committed to him and was responsible for his safety. That is true, but that is not the end of the story. David was a type of the coming anointed king. He too would be betrayed, misunderstood, rejected by the earthly kings, and sought as a criminal. In his death, he defeated the primary power of the enemy by being resurrected. He had angels ministering to him during his time of struggle. We might not merit that kind of protection, but Jesus does, and we have been born into his kingdom by faith and now get the benefits he deserves. We are as secure as Davidâ€™ even more, we are as secure as Jesus, because we are in him. The awareness of this unspeakable privilege causes us to shake with awe. We fear one who does such marvelous things so much that we have no fear left to spend on the looming storms that the enemy tries to interpret for our downfall. We have angels encamped around us, but more than that we have the King of all watching over us. We are under his charge and no one has the authority to overrule him.

Many of the friends that I have met over the years and continue to be friends with all seem to have a little gift. We are a lighthouse to Angels and to each other. A few years ago I was just wading through the waters of life. It is a slight romance story of how my husband and I came about to each other. Sorry, see I told you I get side tracked a lot. I would see Lilly, in passing, at the time she worked day shift and I worked graveyard. I was encouraged to speak with her to talk, she has an untapped gift. I was scared of being labeled as a freak and loosing my job. So I kept quiet, for five years. Until forces made us work together. It got to the point I would look forward to every Thursday night where I could ask her questions and she could ask me. Lilly, became my link back to God and my Angels. How is a person to have faith when they already see Angels and God existing? I mean I would pray before eating and before going to bed, but it was more of a routine then anything else. On rare occasions I would speak with one of my Angels, but it was usually when I wanted an answer to something. Or when I wanted something. Back to the story. On Thursday nights, Lilly honestly became a flower that just blossomed. She was heading down a path that was slightly darker. She needed me as much as I needed her. She helped push me back into the arms of my Angels and in doing so I grabbed her and brought her with me. Now Lilly, sometimes sees Angels too. One of them makes us both smile and laugh. She has the most beautiful voice and she sings to them different hymns or just songs. Her little office always gets crowded, because her light gets really bright. It does make it hard to be around her sometimes but trust me, it is worth it. We no longer work exclusively with each other, but do enjoy a good joke or story from time to time. My day does brighten when we get to just sit and talk about life and love. Sometimes I am tasked with giving her a message or a lesson which I still am learning to do. It is funny she made the comment the other day that she feels better. I just smile, I am honestly happy that she is able to feel the love from God. One day I will talk about this love, but not today. That is the story of my friend Lilly. She continues to bloom everyday with the light of God as her fuel. A few months ago I told Lilly that I was told in my dream that God wants me to paint him with my fingers. I thought he meant singing in Sign Language. When I discovered blogging Lilly was the first person I told. Thank you Lilly, for being my friend, and helping me along this new path.

"Potential victim's attacker is scared off by guardian angels" is a common glurge theme. (Another widely-circulated tale about a girl who barely avoids becoming the victim of a rapist also.

As told by Ron When we were excavating in Israel for the Ark of the Covenant a lot of people would come by. We were just about a block and a half up the street from the Rockefeller museum which is where all the offices of the Israeli Antiquities Department are located. Satan is at work and there are those who will not enter the kingdom and they will do all they can to stop others from entering. And so this is the type of thing we are dealing with. Well, by way of a quick explanation - The United Nations passed 2 resolutions that there was to be no Archaeological excavations in occupied territories, so all of us who have received permits to do archaeological work in occupied territories have been asked to keep those private. One person who kind of shouted around about his is not doing archaeological work in Israel any more There are things that are more important than proving people wrong. And all the folks that we discuss we pray for. Anybody that gets to heaven is going to be a nice person. And so he started asking a few questions and we had a conversation about a few things. Wednesday came, and I knocked off a bit early, got washed up and I got a "rent-a-wreck" car. I turned around and started back up the street, and there was a little old man tottering along the edge of the pavement. He was having a terrible time keeping his balance. And I stopped forgetting about my problem. When he pointed I looked to make sure I saw what direction he was pointing and when I looked back to say "thank you" he was gone Well, we had a REAL good meeting that night!!! And if you want to have these kinds of experiences yourself, just be sure you know what to tell people. What about the 6 men who died. Now about the six men. As you know Yasser Arafat has every intention of getting Jerusalem back and this area. The Israelis wanted to move the Ark of the Covenant out of occupied territory, into their own territory. And they allowed or arranged for six men, dressed in Levitical garb to go in and move the Ark. When I go over there, quite often I will stop by the Antiquities Office, and ask them if there is something I can help them with. Now we have some electronics and some experience using electronics, and so we are able to find things that they have problems locating. We are able to see if there is something in a cave, before we actually open it, with electronics. And so they have had me do some of this for them. On this occasion they just said, "yes we have a problem that you may be able to help us with. Some of you know where that is if you have been there. All I can figure is, that they must have made some horrifying noises as they died, which was heard by those outside, otherwise they would have gone in to see what happened to them. But, nobody would go in. Well when I went in they were all six dead. All of them died of a bilateral stroke, as witnessed by the fact that in all six, both of their eyes were crossed. Now to date there have been approximately 16 people who have died, because they have tried to interfere with or stop this work that God is allowing me to do. Most of them died in connection with the Ark of the Covenant in particular. They have all died of brain cancer or stroke. So anyway what I basically did when I saw what had happened, I went back out and told them. They had brought along these rescue baskets made of lightweight alloy, with ropes tied to them in case I was able to go in. So I took the baskets in one at a time. I would pick up a body and put it in a basket. I held it upright as the people at the end of the tunnel would pull the basket out. When we got one to the entrance to the tunnel, I would take another basket back in and load on another body, until we got all six of them out. But this appeared in a couple of papers that there had been six Israelis die in an effort to retrieve a national artifact. Because it was in the papers, some people asked me if I knew about it. And so we have shared that information. What this indicates is simply God is quite happy with the Ark of the Covenant being where it is, and has no intention of letting anybody move it. He got all excited and wanted Ron to get the information to the press. Ron refused, so the man said he was going to get the word out and called some newspapermen to hold a news conference. Ron was quite worried about this, but could not do anything about it as he was scheduled to fly home the next morning, the same time the man was to inform the press. That conference was never held, for the man was found dead in a back alley with his throat slashed from ear to ear. Another incident in which God had a hand, but the results were not tragic, because God kept it from happening. They offered to pay his way over and go with him, hoping when they got there, Ron would buckle under. The head of the program and his brother were there. They were pressuring him to take them to the Ark, but Ron refused. Finally someone suggested that they pray for a sign as to what to do. Rain in that part of the world and at that time of the year was very unlikely, but that night it rained hard. The next day, one of the brothers was still insistent that they be taken to the Ark. He suggested that his brother go. This brother told him that there was no way he would think of doing that, for God had given a clear NO, and he would not be a part of the other brothers scheme. The outcome was that they did not get to video tape the Ark as planned. An outcome from all of this was that the one brother who was insistent started a rumor that Ron had broken an agreement and taken the money. This is a boldface lie and never happened. A question was asked by a man at the Grants Pass meeting. I was in North Carolina one afternoon or evening. The people had just seen the video and were asking questions. When we walked up to the Jerusalem Hotel there on the front steps sat the doctor that had been in the audience in Hendersonville, North Carolina, uninvited and unwanted. Now then, I am very sensitive to make sure that God is with me in everything I do. I knew to begin with that I was not worthy to do these things. I thank you for allowing me to do this much. We decided to clean out the garden tomb of a bunch of trash and stuff that had accumulated over the years. The crucifixion site is approximate 80 feet from the garden tomb. Anyway, I had a fan that was cooling us off a bit because it was extremely hot. Misery on top of misery. Well the doctor had been helping and when the fan died he got his lunch and we scooted back up under some shrubbery off to my right in the shade eating his lunch. I was sitting flat on the ground trying to fix this fan. I had nothing to live for people. Have you ever been in that situation? I could tell by the way that he said that. I was shocked because there was not supposed to be anybody there that knew that. I looked up a pause as he became filled with emotion, close to tears and there stood Jesus. He was a little ways North of Jerusalem and he saw the ascending and descending, and he said is not this the gate of heaven? Jesus was on His way from South Africa to the New Jerusalem, and the prophet said that it was the gateway to heaven. I just sat there. I did not know what to say. I was dumbfounded, I was not even sure I was breathing by then. Enter thou into the kingdom of thy Lord. Let us bow our heads for a moment. We thank you that you love us. We ask you that you will bless everybody here this evening, as only you are wise, powerful and caring enough to do. Help us to be humble, loyal and truthful servants. Help us to lift up Jesus that others will be drawn to Him and be saved. In Jesus name and by His precious blood I pray. Thus the Lord has given graphic evidence that even up to the present time, He is still watching over the Ark and its precious cargo. The four angels who were assigned to the Ark after Moses placed the tables of stone inside, are still on the job, faithfully watching and keeping the Ark safe until the time its contents will be revealed to the world along with the video that Ron has taken. Praise God for revealing this most incredible find of all time. May we all be ready when this time comes, for the main purpose of these revelations is so people will prepare for what is ahead. All who want to be ready have the opportunity now of preparing themselves. How is this done? By seeking the Lord with all their hearts, seeking for an intimate, personal relationship with Him. May God bless you all.

Best Rate it Muslims believe that angels play an active part in the lives of human beings. This begins soon after conception and continues until the moment of death. Angels and human beings even interact in the afterlife. Angels usher people into Paradise and guard the gates of Hell. Belief in the angels is one of the fundamental beliefs of Islam. From the traditions of Prophet Muhammad, we understand that a few months after conception life is breathed into it by the permission of God. Will it be male or female? Will this person be happy or sad? How long will his or her life span be, and will this person perform good or bad deeds? They guard him by the Command of God. These angels have honourable scribes and their duty is to write down all the good and bad deeds. Yes We do and Our Messengers appointed angels in charge of humankind are by them, to record. Not a word does he or she utter, but there is a watcher by him ready to record it. Not a single word is left unrecorded. Prophet Muhammad, may the mercy and blessings of God be upon him, explained that God has defined and given details about the methodology of recording good and evil deeds. If he actually performed the good deed then it is written as ten good deeds, or up to seven hundred times or more. If a person intended to do an evil deed, but did not do it, it is written as a good deed, while if he entertained the thought and acted on it, it is written as a single evil deed. The one on the right writes down good deeds and the one on his left writes down evil deeds. Two other angels guard him and protect him, one from behind, and one from in front. So there are four angels by day and four others by night. In his traditions, Prophet Muhammad reminds his followers that they are constantly being visited by angels. It can therefore be understood that angels are very much involved with the life of human beings and this interaction does not end when the angel of death removes the soul, nor does it end after the angels question the deceased person in his grave [4]. Angels are the gatekeepers of Paradise. You have done well, so enter here, to abide therein. Excellent indeed is the final home! It spares not any sinner, nor does it leave anything unburnt! Over it are nineteen angels as guardians and keepers of Hell. And We have set none but angels as guardians of the Fire, and We have fixed their number only as a trial for the disbelievers - in order that the People of the Scripture may arrive at a certainty and the believers may increase in Faith. They are unable to disobey God and follow His orders without flinching or hesitating. It is their sustenance. These noble creatures play a significant role in the life of human beings. They guard and protect, record and report, and gather with human beings who remember God.

5: Guarded By Angels | My Life with My Angels

Guarded By Angels By Mary Balogh - FictionDB. Cover art, synopsis, sequels, reviews, awards, publishing history, genres, and time period.

Missionary is protected from murderous attackers by the miraculous appearance of 26 armed guards. Another widely-circulated tale about a girl who barely avoids becoming the victim of a rapist also draws upon this theme: This was a journey of two days and required camping overnight at the halfway point. On one of these journeys, I arrived in the city where I planned to collect money from a bank, purchase medicine and supplies, and then begin my two-day journey back to the field hospital. Upon arrival in the city, I observed two men fighting, one of whom had been seriously injured. I treated him for his injuries and at the same time talked to him about the Lord Jesus Christ. I then traveled two days, camping overnight, and arrived home without incident. Two weeks later I repeated my journey. Upon arriving in the city, I was approached by the young man I had treated. He told me that he had known I carried money and medicines. We planned to kill you and take your money and drugs. But just as we were about to move into your camp, we saw that you were surrounded by 26 armed guards. My five friends also saw them, and we all counted them. It was because of those guards that we were afraid and left you alone. The missionary told the congregation the date, and the man who interrupted told him this story: I was about to putt when I felt the urge to pray for you. In fact, the urging of the Lord was so strong, I called men in this church to meet with me here in the sanctuary to pray for you. Would all of those men who met with me on that day stand up? This story is an incredible example of how the Spirit of the Lord moves in mysterious ways. If you ever hear such prodding, go along with it. As a literal account of an actual occurrence, this one has a few implausibilities: The native who had received treatment for his serious injuries and been told about Jesus Christ by a missionary decides to repay the kindness by killing and robbing that same missionary. Even though the attacker expects to find the missionary alone, unarmed, and asleep, he enlists the aid of five confederates to help him overpower his victim. These details are all obvious plot devices: A more plausible version of the same story appeared in the book Touch the World Through Prayer: During the Mau Mau uprising in Kenya in , missionaries Matt and Lora Higgens were returning one night to Nairobi through the heart of Mau Mau territory, where Kenyans and missionaries alike had been killed and dismembered. Seventeen miles outside of Nairobi their Land Rover stopped. Higgens tried to repair the car in the dark, but could not restart it. They spent the night in the car, but claimed Psalm 4: A few weeks later the Higgenses returned to America on furlough. They reported that the night before they left Nairobi, a local pastor had visited them. He told how a member of the Mau Mau had confessed that he and three others had crept up to the car to kill the Higgenses, but when they saw the sixteen men surrounding the car, the Mau Mau left in fear. He called the men of the church, and sixteen of them met together and prayed until the burden lifted. Did God send sixteen angels to represent those men and enforce their prayers? The Reverend John G. Paton, pioneer missionary in the New Hebrides Islands, told a thrilling story involving the protective care of angels. Hostile natives surrounded his mission headquarters one night, intent on burning the Patons out and killing them. John Paton and his wife prayed all during that terror-filled night that God would deliver them. When daylight came they were amazed to see that, unaccountably, the attackers had left. They thanked God for delivering them. A year later, the chief of the tribe was converted to Jesus Christ, and Mr. Paton, remembering what had happened, asked the chief what had kept him and his men from burning down the house and killing them. They seemed to circle the mission station so that the natives were afraid to attack. Only then did Mr. Paton realize that God had sent His angels to protect them. The chief agreed that there was no other explanation. Could it be that God had sent a legion of angels to protect His servants, whose lives were being endangered? In , while I was travelling on horseback in Central China with Mr. Fred Mitchell, we came to a spot that was notorious as a robber hide-out. The missionary accompanying us was keeping a sharp look-out. Suddenly we came upon a body lying beside the path. The victim was obviously not long dead. The brigands had been at work. A few days later I received a letter from my wife, asking whether we had been in any danger on a date and at a time she named. On that particular night she had been suddenly awakened with the strong impression that I was in danger. She rose and prayed until the burden lifted and peace returned. On consulting my diary, I discovered that this midnight prayer synchronized with the time we were passing through the robber-infested area. God heard and answered the prayer for the safety of His servants. Sanders 3 We found yet another example of this sort of tale in a collection of inspirational anecdotes, which had itself reprinted it from a collection. In that tale which is too long to type in here , the tent of two female missionaries serving in Africa is surrounded one night by headhunters. Rather than cower in the dark, they light their lamp and proceed to make and drink tea all night. In the morning, they discover the headhunters have left. Guarded By Angels. The angel of the Lord encamps around those who fear him, and delivers them. Psalm (ESV) There are lots of reasons for us to fear. We face many.

Edit "Ezekiel" watches over an ill Sam. When Dean Winchester sent out a desperate prayer to any angel to help Sam, Gadreel, who was traveling by bus, heard the prayer and got back on the bus to help. Dean killed the angel with his own angel blade before Gadreel passed out. While he is unconscious, Dean traps him in Holy Fire and demands to know what he wants as he is distrusting of angels. Gadreel, identifying himself as "Ezekiel", convinces Dean he wants to help and Castiel later confirms by phone that "Ezekiel" can be trusted, so Dean lets him try. However, both Gadreel and Sam are weak and he is unable to heal him right away. With Sam near death and unable to do anything, Gadreel offers a "bad" solution: Doing so would allow him to heal Sam from the inside while recuperating from his own injuries. Gadreel possesses Sam and leaves the hospital with Dean, leaving his previous vessel there with no memory of what happened. Gadreel decides to let Sam remain in control of his body while he hides away in his mind, but warns Dean that Sam must not know until he can accept it or he will be able to eject the angel from him. Gadreel then uses the demon-killing knife to kill them in order to avoid questions when Sam wakes up. He also reassures Dean that Sam is feeling better and that he is successfully healing him though it is slow going. Dean grows worried about the angels chasing Castiel, but has Gadreel give back control to Sam rather than continue helping. When Dean gets desperate to find Castiel after learning that reapers are after him, Dean calls on Gadreel to help. Gadreel is unable to do so due to Castiel warding himself with a tattoo against angels, but Dean instead has him look for Reapers that are after Castiel. Gadreel is able to locate Castiel this way and gives back control to Sam. After Castiel is killed by the reaper and Dean kills the reaper, Gadreel once again takes control of Sam and resurrects Castiel. Dean covers it up by claiming that Sam got knocked out and then he made a deal with April not to kill her if she brought Castiel back and then killed her anyway. With no other choice, Dean tells Castiel he has to leave. He tells Dean he can either bring Charlie back or help with the Witch and Dean has him resurrect Charlie. Dean then tells Sam and Charlie that they got knocked out by the Witch but he drove her off. However Sam becomes suspicious as he heard Dean call for a "Zeke" but Dean tried to say that Sam was out of it. As a result, Chef Leo tries to eat Sam to heal his own cancer. In Rock and a Hard Place, when Dean prepares to tell Sam about Gadreel, the angel quickly takes possession of Sam and tells Dean that Sam is not ready to know the truth, but also promises that he will not be in Sam much longer. He is not happy when Castiel comes back and asks Dean to get rid of him. While at a bar, he goes outside to get some air where he is met by Metatron who tells him he know who he really is. After many secret meeting with Metatron he accepts the offer, Metatron is glad and gives him a piece of paper with a name on it telling him to kill said person. Meanwhile, Dean has figured out the truth from Castiel and asks Kevin to help him find a way to cancel the angel out so that he can tell Sam the truth. They find special sigils and paint them in the storeroom but Gadreel had overheard and alters the form. Dean brings "Sam" to the room and activates the spell and tells him the truth but "Sam" punches him out. Dean witnesses this in horror and tries to aid, but "Sam" telekinetically pins him to a pillar. After revealing the truth to Dean, Gadreel then proceeds to leave the bunker with the angel and demon tablets. Gadreel meets with Metatron in a bar where he is surprised to find his original vessel working as a bartender. Metatron orders him to kill another man named Alexander Sarver to prove his loyalty and Gadreel is angry that he must kill again, but Metatron yells at him to stop questioning his orders. Traveling to Sommerset, Pennsylvania, Gadreel is surprised to find that Sarver is actually the vessel of his friend Abner and hesitates in killing him. Meeting with Abner when his family is gone, Gadreel learns that he has taken on the role of his vessel, taking care of the Sarver family and taking up his job, happier with his life as a human than of an angel. Abner is horrified to learn that Gadreel killed Thaddeus. While cleaning up, Gadreel is approached by Dean while Gadreel is distracted, Castiel knocks him out. Gadreel is taken to an abandoned warehouse where he is chained up and interrogated by Dean who demands to know who he is and why he betrayed him when he had trusted the angel and fought with him. Gadreel tries to comfort him by telling him that Sam is safely locked away in his mind with no idea of what is happening, but threatens to tear his body apart if they try to expel him. However, Gadreel retakes control saying he has withstood much worse torture and can wait forever. Gadreel possesses his original vessel. Instead, Crowley fights him to no avail and Sam attacks. Gadreel initially has the upper hand, but Sam manages to overpower him, finally expelling him. Expelled from Sam, Gadreel returns to the bar where Metatron is waiting in his natural form and gains permission from his original vessel once more. Gadreel possesses the man again and Metatron realizes the Winchester's once again interfered in their plans. Gadreel tortured by Dean. In Meta Fiction , Gadreel continued to work for Metatron, who was now playing God with the power of the tablets, and was recruiting angels to join his legion with a spell to lure angels in. Those that refused Gadreel would kill. The angel continued this in a pattern across America but in one hit Metatron ordered Gadreel to deliberately leave one alive for Castiel to find. Later Gadreel went to a shop of a hunter for ingredients he needed but killed the owner when he was finished but when he was leaving in the back ally, he was trapped in Holy Fire by Sam and Dean. When Metatron abducted Castiel he offered Cass in exchange for Gadreel and both side did so willingly. Castiel encourages Gadreel to change loyalties. Gadreel is skeptical because of his honor but Castiel reminds him of his mistake in the garden and that following Metatron will have the same consequences, telling him that there are other ways that he can redeem his failure. In Stairway to Heaven , Gadreel was present with Metatron when he met with other angels in charge of their own factions to gain their trust, all those that refused, Gadreel would kill. However one angel Gadreel was unable to kill due to the number of people in the area but made the point to Metatron that no one would follow him over Castiel. As he shakes hands with Dean, Dean slashes him across the chest with the First Blade , seriously wounding him. Gadreel moments before his death. They find his car some distance away and covered in blood with Gadreel close by, seriously wounded. Gadreel begs them not to hurt him and advises Castiel not to heal him as it will weaken him with his already weak grace. Gadreel is stunned to learn that Dean is being affected by the Mark of Cain and that he used the First Blade on him. In order to do so, Gadreel leads Castiel to the portal to Heaven, pretending that Castiel is his prisoner so that the angels guarding it will let them pass. Castiel and Gadreel try to convince Hannah to release them to no avail as she sees Gadreel as someone who only cares about himself. Realizing this to be true, Gadreel carves the sigil the suicide bomber angels used into his chest and makes a speech about how while imprisoned, he only thought about redeeming himself for his actions above all else when really he should be focusing on the true mission: Finally understanding this and hoping that his name will one day be remembered as one of those who restored Heaven instead of as the one that let the Serpent into the Garden of Eden, Gadreel orders Castiel and Hannah away and then kills himself with a piece of rock from the dungeon floor, causing an explosion that releases Castiel and convinces a horrified Hannah of the truth. His sacrifice did give Heaven a second chance, as all the angels were finally able to return home, and his dying wish of redemption came true. He was well-meaning and benign. However, after his failure to prevent evil from infecting the Earth, Gadreel was dishonored. Gadreel after being ordered to kill Kevin. After his true identity was revealed, his personality shifts significantly. It is revealed that he took possession of Sam both for healing purposes, and to hide from Bartholomew and Malachi , but also to make amends for his past mistakes and failures. Despite the stigma he received in Heaven, Gadreel does have some inherent benevolence. When Metatron tasked him to smite Kevin Tran , Gadreel stated that killing the innocent was not who he was. Despite this, Gadreel did as he was told, smiting Kevin, and showing great remorse in doing so. He also imprisoned Sam in a fantasy world rather than harming him as he could have and tried to comfort Dean with this. He also now sees himself as a hero who will lead Heaven back to its former glory, though it is possible he is delusional in this aspect, as he is using less than scrupulous methods to do so. Despite his apparent compassion, he has a self-preservation instinct which shows when he gives Dean an ultimatum: At the end of his life, Gadreel revealed that ever since his imprisonment he had become obsessed with redeeming himself and regaining his good name to the point that he lost sight of the true mission: This causes Gadreel to sacrifice himself to give Castiel the chance to do this, hoping that perhaps one day his name will be remembered among the many who restored the angels to Heaven, rather than as the one who let the Serpent into the Garden. This shows that Gadreel was somewhat selfish, at least after his imprisonment, but he came to understand what was truly important. Although he did horrible things while serving Metatron, Gadreel was driven to do what he did due to his desire to reclaim his good name. He had deeply loved humanity as their Guardian, and felt very regretful for failing and disappointing God. In the end, Gadreel gave up on fighting for himself and focused on fighting for the good of all angels, dying with the hope that one day, his family would admire him as they once had.

Powers and Abilities Edit Gadreel possesses the common powers of an angel and even more. Like Castiel, Gadreel was extraordinarily powerful, even for an angel. According to him, he was severely injured when he fell, which left him considerably drained and weakened, as seen when he was easily bested by another fallen angel. Once he regained his strength, he was capable of killing entire groups of angels alone, proving to be far stronger than a standard angel. When the angels fell from Heaven, many of their wings were destroyed, however, Gadreel managed to retain his wings, although they were badly damaged. If the vessel chooses, they can expel him. Gadreel returned to possessing his original vessel after being expelled by Sam Winchester.

Immortality - As with all angels, Gadreel does not age and is immune to any earthly disease and toxin. He was present at the Garden of Eden and, according to Castiel, has been imprisoned since the beginning of time. However, in his weakened state at that time, he was no match for another fallen angel though he held him off long enough for Dean to kill him. His strength gradually returns over the course of the season and, though he was barely back to half-strength during the events of Slumber Party, he implied that he was strong enough to help defeat the Wicked Witch. As of Holy Terror, his strength is almost completely restored. By Meta Fiction his strength was fully restored and he was able to kill several groups of angels with no effort in a short space of time without apparent injury to himself, albeit after catching most of them by surprise.

Flight - While disembodied, Gadreel can fly. When he resurrected Castiel, who had been rendered human by his lost grace, he healed his wound and the ones he got from torture.

Telekinesis - Gadreel was able to pin Dean to a wall with just a wave of his hand and keep him there without any apparent concentration.

I had chosen paths that needed extra hands to ensure that I would not be trapped or struck by any evil Demons or stones. I was only 19 and I feared the imminent death that had been promised me by my call to duty as a young person never engaged in anything violent or combat before and I had to learn how to fight even better than before. For a number of times, I feared the shadow of death as I felt it following me closely and never leaving my side; I could feel the cold and numbness in my hands, my head as it never eased my mind and while I slept, I kept one eye open just in case a Demon had found its way past the Angel by my side. I questioned my faithfulness; I questioned my heart as the fear tore at me from the inside. I learned to pray on my knees as I asked for blessings of life to keep me going for the following year. A year of hell, no chance I would get a reprieve from the war and pain and sorrow that was threatening to take away my tomorrow. But time gave me hope that I would learn to accept my fate and destiny as God had designed his plan for me and slowly I felt like I was sitting next to a guardian Angel. A comrade in hell who knew me well inside and out, wet or dry, in light and darkness " this Angel stood by me unconditionally. As the war progressed, the heated battle became worse and darker for me as time took away my emotions and chilled my heart putting out the fire that was my passion of life inside of me. No chance of getting out of my promise or oath of allegiance to carry on the good fight, I dwelled in darkness more than in the light, even with my guardian Angel by my side. When I stood on a narrow ledge, it would hover above me like a shield and when I was wading through the water, it followed me relentlessly no matter how deep it was or how wide we had to travel. Tired or mentally fatigued to the point of sheer exhaustion, my Angel carried me along until it was time to stop and regroup or turn in for the evening. Closing both eyes tightly, I knew I was covered by His Angel and not scared to rest and do it all over again tomorrow. The lightning in the sky, the thunder of the mass dropped B52 bombs dropping from the air and shaking the ground with deafening explosions afar coming nearer and nearer as the day or night progressed. Never a moment to reap any real deep sleep, my relationship with God grew stronger as His Angel became bolder and carried me safely or protected me from the Demons around me. Not once did I reach the other side; not once was I tempted to travel the road of darkness as my Angel guided my heart and soul to the light and kept me going towards the end of the valley of death where I no longer feared any evil. If I walked down the wrong path, I often drifted in thought and a force would grab me to get my attention. Sometimes, my Angel carried me to lighten my feet and other times it just found a safe and dry place for me to rest my head under the monsoon rains of the past. In the end, my tour was over, me and my Angel went home and never looked back to those days in hell and despair.

8: The four angels which guard the Ark of the Covenant

Two other angels guard him and protect him, one from behind, and one from in front. So there are four angels by day and four others by night." Apart from the four angels constantly with each human being, guarding, and recording, other angels continually visit human beings.
