Program Information The Program covers initial health evaluations, annual monitoring exams, and medically necessary medical and mental health treatment for certified WTC-related health conditions. For the List of conditions that may be certified by the Program, see covered conditions on page 10. You must use your public or private health insurance or pay out of pocket for any treatment for a health condition not certified by the Program. You are responsible for bills from your providers or health insurance for all health conditions not certified by the Program. For Certified-Eligible Survivors, the Program is the last payer of your monitoring, treatment, and medication. The Program will bill your private insurance first, then any public insurance you may have, and then the Program will cover all additional costs for the treatment and medications for your certified WTC-related health conditions. These services are still offered at no cost to you because you will not be responsible for paying any co-insurance charges, copayments, or deductibles for care of your certified WTC-related health conditions so long as you see a Program doctor.

Insurance The Zadroga Act requires all Program members to have qualifying health insurance unless they meet one of the exceptions in the Affordable Care Act. You, or your primary health insurance plan, will have to pay for care received outside of the Program. If you do not have insurance, your Program doctor will refer you to a staff person who can help you determine if you might be eligible for public health insurance programs like Medicaid or Medicare. If not, a staff person can help you to get the care you need at a federally qualified health center, or other community health center, that offers more affordable care options for you.
