In addition, you can earn extra income while working from the comfort of your home that can help pay utility bills. There are a few chapters that accept money from the Emergency Food and Shelter Program Grant program, but only those few chapters would help. In addition, the Red Cross provides service to military families, disaster assistance, health and safety classes and other community services. Its services depend on consumer need, and the Red Cross must always keep funds in reserve available for emergencies. The Red Cross receives a portion of its funding from the United Way. Heating Oil Help - There are organizations and programs that offer discounted or free heating fuel oil. Operation Round Up - This is a program that is provided by many gas and utility companies across the country. This organization will help provide utility bill assistance grants to families and individuals in need of help. However, it will help with more than utility bills. The program offers other aid, such as help for paying rent, medical bills, heating bills, housing repairs and more. It will provide a "safety net" for those who need help paying bills and if they have nowhere else to turn to for aid. The Salvation Army will provide food, clothing, utility bill help and also counseling. There are many case workers at the Family Emergency Services who will help prevent homelessness through crisis intervention. You can contact your local Salvation Army Chapter for more information on charity services they offer. United Way - Many utilities companies across the United States will offer assistance and support to customers to help them pay their utility bills. These utility companies often times will outsource the administration of the program to the United Way. You can contact you local United Way office to see if they are aware of any support provided by your utility provider. You can receive your discount after your completed application is approved by your gas company. Colorado - Energy Outreach Colorado This assistance program is dedicated to the efficient delivery of cost-effective energy assistance, providing energy conservation and energy education for lower income, or struggling households, that will help maintain their self-sufficiency and well being. It provides help with paying bills, as well as emergency energy bill assistance to those who need help with electric bills. It also provides repairs to air-conditioning and heating equipment, as well as other energy-related needs. The program helps the sick, the elderly, the disabled, and numerous others who may need help. Both the natural gas industry and private citizens provide funding. Georgia - Project SHARE This is a statewide help program that is funded by electric utility customers who donate through their monthly electric bills. LIHEAP Low Income Energy Bill Assistance Programs. The LIHEAP assistance program is a federally funded energy bill assistance program. Financial help in the form of a grant or credit on an account is provided to both struggling and lower income households who need assistance paying for their home energy bills.

It is designed to help eligible, low-income Ohioans meet the high costs of home heating. How do I sign up? Call , TDD or write to P. Box , Columbus, Ohio Each household should mail only one application. Customers can check the status of their HEAP applications online. Your utility company must be regulated by the PUCO. If you are a customer of one of these companies, call your company to learn more. You must apply for all energy assistance for which you are eligible You must have a gross yearly household income at or below percent of the federal poverty guidelines. What will my monthly payment be? Contact your local energy assistance program provider. You must provide proof of your gross monthly household income for at least the last 30 days. Will I have to pay a deposit when I sign up? If you paid a deposit in the past, that amount will be used to reduce any debt you owe the utility company. When is my first payment due? If you are unable to pay at enrollment, the installment can be added to your next monthly bill, but you will be billed for two payments. You will also lose the arrearage credit for the first month. When PIPP Plus payments are made on-time and in-full, customers earn an incentive credit and an arrearage credit. If you make full, on-time payments for 24 straight months, all of your arrearages will be eliminated. Will fees be assessed for late payments? No, but you will not receive the incentive or arrearage crediting benefits that come from paying your PIPP Plus payment amount on-time and in-full. Every 12 months you must provide proof that your gross monthly household income is at or below percent of the federal poverty level to remain a PIPP Plus customer. You will have one billing cycle to make up those payments, or you will be removed from PIPP Plus, and your entire bill balance will become due. At that time, your utility may offer you an extended payment plan to help you avoid disconnection. To remain a PIPP Plus customer, you must provide proof of your gross monthly household income at least every 12 months. If you do not provide proof of income you will be removed from PIPP Plus, and your entire bill balance will become due. If you are participating in a customer choice program, and then become eligible for and participate in PIPP Plus, you will automatically be switched to the utility. If you were under a contract with a marketer, they may assess an early termination fee if you switch to PIPP Plus before your contract expires. The electric transition and arrearage crediting program provides customers with a 12 month transition from PIPP Plus to full payments. Under the Electric Graduate PIPP Plus program, customers pay either an average of their most recent PIPP Plus amount and a budget billing amount calculated by their utility, or a regular budget payment or the cost of the electric service billed each month. Services include attic, wall and basement insulation; blower-door-guided air leakage reduction; heating system repairs or replacements; and health and safety testing and inspections. All measures are provided based on an on-site energy audit and on cost-effective guidelines developed using the NEAT computerized energy audit. Individualized client education is an important component of the program. Who benefits from HWAP? The program is available July 1 through August 31 and applies to electric utilities only. What are the benefits? A member who is has an illness that would benefit from assistance, verified by physician documentation; or Have a member of the household who is at least 60 years old How do I sign up? Extended payment plans PUCO-regulated gas and electric companies have the following extended payment plans available to help you to make affordable payments and maintain service: The one-sixth plan requires you to pay six equal monthly payments on your past due amount in addition to your current monthly bill. The one-ninth plan requires you to pay nine equal monthly payments on your past due amount in addition to your current monthly bill. These plans are available to all residential customers regardless of income. For more information, contact your utility company. You may also call the PUCO toll-free: Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. For more information, please contact your utility company. Energy assistance for military personnel and their families The Patriot Plan, a program providing protections and benefits to military personnel and their families, can assist qualifying customers with maintaining utility service while serving on active duty. Upon return from active duty, utility companies must offer customers a period of time equal to the length of their deployment to pay any arrearages that may have accumulated. Additional time may be requested by a customer if the amount in arrearages presents a hardship. Utility companies are also prohibited from charging any late payment fees or interest to qualifying customers during the period of deployment or the repayment period. The Patriot Plan does not apply to career active-duty military personnel serving their regular tour of duty.

Sometimes, they just freeze to death. Most of the time, however, they die in house fires caused by desperate attempts to get some sort of heat, such as using a portable stove. An entire family died a few years ago when the father attempted to use fire to thaw out frozen pipes so they could get some water. Instead, he burned the house down. There is no excuse for allowing children to freeze to death in the cold. We may be going through tough economic times, but this is not the Paleolithic Era. There are a couple of myths out there about this. This is not true, and they do pull the plug on thousands. The other myth is that there is lots of help available. There is a Detroit-based non-profit group called THAW, the Heat and Warmth Fund, which exists to provide low-income households with energy assistance, especially in winter. But it never has enough money to help everyone. This year, it looks like the need will be greater than ever, and so far donations to THAW are below expectations. There are a couple other signs of trouble ahead. This is money that comes from surcharges on utilities, and has been used to help people for a dozen years. Without that money, people will be desperate. There are bound to be more desperate people than ever, now that tens of thousands of children are losing cash welfare assistance, forever, thanks to another new law. Is anybody going to do anything about this before we get into deep winter? She had more than a dozen sponsors. They are all Democrats. Republicans control the House, and the last thing they want to do is pass a Democratic bill to help the poor stay warm. There are two different Republican plans now being debated, one in the House and one in the Senate, which would provide some relief. Nor is it clear if the legislature has the moral will to get this done before people start freezing to death.
