Not that long ago, Diversity & Inclusion was viewed as a sort of "icing on the cake" issue - companies knew that having a team dedicated to these issues was a good thing to have, but not totally necessary to the bottom line.

Hispanic Magazine Archives Dates: The Hispanic Magazine Archives contains documents relating to the production of each issue of the magazine. Within this collection are annotated drafts, page proofs, research material, correspondence, press releases, press kits, newspaper clippings, photographs and machine-readable diskettes. Materials are written in English Repository: The first issue appeared on newsstands in April There had been other attempts to target the Hispanic community by other magazines but most of them folded. Hispanic started out on a format modeled after People magazine. The magazine targets educated and upwardly mobile Hispanics. Its founders believed that there was a wealth of information to be shared with the public regarding the positive things with which Hispanics were involved. They also felt there were no good role models for Hispanic youths. In addition, they wanted to do their part to change the way Hispanics were viewed by the general public. Founders were fueled by the results of a then recent study, which found the best known Hispanic in the US to be the cartoon character Speedy Gonzales. In Hispanic saw its circulation rise to , Since then its readership has continued to increase and is expected to reach to , in Texas was chosen and in the offices were relocated to Austin where they remained until when they relocated to Coral Gables, Florida. Hispanic maintains sales offices in Washington D.
