Even though teachers are surrounded by their students each day, they often lose sight of how important they truly are. Following are twenty teacher appreciation ideas that you can use and modify to help honor the teachers in your life.

Fasting Church callings Why do you think we sometimes choose to please ourselves rather than God? What are the consequences of honoring ourselves more than God? Eli honors his sons above the Lord. What responsibility did Eli have when he learned of the wickedness of his sons? What did he do? What was their response? After reprimanding his sons, Eli did nothing further to correct the terrible sins in his family and at the tabernacle. In what way had Eli honored his sons more than God? What did the man of God say would happen to the house of Eli? In what ways do we sometimes honor other people more than God? Uncover the second sketch or the object representing other people. Class members may suggest ways such as the following: We allow our peers to persuade us to do something we know is wrong. We act dishonestly because we are afraid of what other people might think of us. We fail to correct family members or friends in their wrongdoing because we want to maintain good relations with them. How can parents fulfill their responsibility toward wayward children in a spirit of love? What is the responsibility of children as their parents strive to lead them in righteousness? Samuel honors the Lord. You may want to have an assigned class member briefly summarize this chapter. Who spoke to Samuel in the night? Whom did Samuel first think was calling him? How did Samuel learn it was the Lord calling? How does the Lord communicate with us? He communicates most often through the whisperings of the Holy Ghost. Class members may suggest additional ways he communicates with us. How can we prepare ourselves to receive and understand communications from the Lord? In what ways did Samuel honor the Lord? Uncover the picture of the Lord. You may want to consider the following passages in your discussion: How did the Lord honor Samuel? How do you think the Lord will honor us if we honor him as Samuel did? The Israelites honor the world. The Israelites were governed by judges. Whom was Israel supposed to regard as their king? Why did the children of Israel want a king? What did the Lord instruct Samuel to say about the problems of having a king? In asking for a king, whom did the Israelites honor? Uncover the third sketch or the object representing the world. You may want to use the pamphlet For the Strength of Youth to discuss the standards the Lord has set for us so we will not participate in the wicked ways of the world. Explain that these standards apply to adults as well as youth. How should this knowledge affect our attitudes toward the ways of the world? How do we sometimes reject the Lord as our king? Conclusion Call attention to the four items that have been displayed during class. Explain that all of us must choose each day whom we will honor. Bear testimony of the blessings and joy you have received as you have honored the Lord. Invite class members to share their own experiences or testimonies. Additional Teaching Ideas The following material supplements the suggested lesson outline. You may want to use one or more of these ideas as part of the lesson. Value of the things we choose Sometimes we exchange things of great value for things of lesser value. What did Eli and his sons give up because of their choices? What things did Samuel tell the Israelites they would give up if they wanted a king? What things of great value do we sometimes give up for things of lesser value? Monson made the following statement to show how the Lord honors those who honor Him: Remember that this work is not yours and mine alone. Then President Monson told the following story: How he wanted to visit the temple! How he desired to receive his spiritual blessings! Request after request to journey to the temple in Switzerland had been denied, and he almost despaired. Then his home teacher visited. Brother Walter Krause went from the northeastern portion of Germany all the way to Hungary. He had not had home teachers since before the war. Now, when he saw the servants of the Lord, he was overwhelmed. He did not shake hands with them; rather, he went to his bedroom and took from a secret hiding place his tithing that he had saved from the day he became a member of the Church and returned to Hungary. He presented the tithing to his home teachers and said: Now I feel worthy to shake the hands of servants of the Lord! I have tried and tried. The government has even confiscated my Church books, my greatest treasure. This time approval came, and with joy Brother Denndorfer went to the Swiss Temple and stayed a month. He received his own endowment, his deceased wife was sealed to him, and he was able to accomplish the work for hundreds of his ancestors.

What education is needed for teaching the following: College[edit] The requirements necessary to become a teacher vary dramatically from country to country, and in the United States, it varies from state to state. In general, a four year bachelors degree is required to teach elementary school, though often there is no direct "degree" in elementary education. Both elementary and secondary certifications require student teaching, which is either one-quarter or one-semester in length, depending on the program. The path to becoming a college professor is much more varied. College professors eventually earn a doctorate in the area of their particular interest and giftedness. College professors are specialists in their field of study, which means they have often been professionals in that field for a number of years prior to entering the college teaching scene. Teacher recertification is the way that teachers keep "current" in the issues that affect their classrooms, their teaching style, and most importantly, their students. Most students think that their teachers get the summer off. In reality, most teachers spend a large portion of each summer attending summer school, taking additional classes that will help them be better teachers. In most cases, re-certification requirements require that a teacher earn a certain number of college credits every three years. There are a variety of certifications and endorsements available to teachers. In the SDA teaching system, a teacher begins with a basic certification, after three years and some classes and tests, a teacher may receive a standard certification. Interview at least two teachers with the following questions[edit] a. Why did you choose to become a teacher? What part of teaching do you like the best? What part of teaching do you like the least? What do you do to get ready for a school year? What do you do to get ready for a school day? What teacher-related activities do you do after school is out each day? What are some qualities of a good teacher? What are the responsibilities and duties of a teacher? When interviewing a teacher, please keep the following tips in mind: Teachers love to tell stories, and love to spend time with people Because teachers love people, they often have a hard time saying "no" or "could we do the interview later? Teachers love to see that you care enough to write it down! If your selected teacher is okay with it, record your interview on an audio or video device. Get your heart involved in the interview, and learn what you can about the teacher and what it is like to be one. This is a special one-on-one opportunity you have with a special person. Make the most of it! Explore the Bible and the book Education by Ellen G. White to learn what teaching methods Jesus used. Present a three-minute oral report on what you learned. The Ellen White writings can be viewed and searched online at <http://> If you are 16 years old or younger, do the following for a minimum of 40 minutes per week for three weeks. Assist a teacher in designing and preparing a bulletin board. Assist a teacher in preparing learning aids. With the supervision of a teacher, teach a child or class at least one concept. If you are older than 16 years, do three of the following[edit] a. Teach in one day in each department of Vacation Bible School. Teach two Honors from the Honors Handbook. Assist in teaching requirements for one of the AY classes, culminating in investiture. Teach at least one year in an elementary or secondary school or in a college. Historical notes[edit] When the original Honor for Teaching was accepted in , it was for adult Master Guides and had only one requirement: Many Honors have grown and changed over the years. Today we focus on development that allows our youth to participate in and earn any Honor. teachers to feel valued and honored in this society, when your worth is often measured in what you're paid. Paying teachers what they're worth to society is a way to honor the teacher's heart.

Husband, Bill; daughters Courtney, 22, and Allison, 18 Last book read: Fog, my third-grade teacher who took interest in my education and made me want to be a teacher, and Coach Walker. Favorite class in school: Physical education Favorite teaching memory: I had been working with a young lady who was struggling in math, and we met after school several days per week to work on her facts. After several weeks, she volunteered to solve a problem in class and got the correct answer. She was beaming from ear to ear. When class was over, she came up to me, thanked me for working with her, and gave me a hug. Years later, I received an invitation to her graduation party and learned that she graduated top 10 of her class. Morning by morning he awakens; he awakens my ear to hear as those who are taught. All Scripture is breathed out by God and profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, and for training in righteousness, that the man of God may be competent, equipped for every good work. For I have given you an example, that you also should do just as I have done to you. Truly, truly, I say to you, a servant is not greater than his master, nor is a messenger greater than the one who sent him. If you know these things, blessed are you if you do them. And when the king saw Queen Esther standing in the court, she won favor in his sight, and he held out to Esther the golden scepter that was in his hand. Then Esther approached and touched the tip of the scepter. What is your request? It shall be given you, even to the half of my kingdom. And if anyone does not stumble in what he says, he is a perfect man, able also to bridle his whole body. But whoever would be great among you must be your servant, and whoever would be first among you must be your slave, even as the Son of Man came not to be served but to serve, and to give his life as a ransom for many. Let them do this with joy and not with groaning, for that would be of no advantage to you. For you are not swayed by appearances, but truly teach the way of God. Is it lawful to pay taxes to Caesar, or not? Should we pay them, or should we not? Brothers, I do not consider that I have made it my own. But one thing I do: The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He makes me lie down in green pastures. He leads me beside still waters. He restores my soul. Even though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for you are with me; your rod and your staff, they comfort me. You prepare a table before me in the presence of my enemies; you anoint my head with oil; my cup overflows.
