What we are doing at school to help you If you are on study leave you can still contact staff via e-mail. Mrs Roberts " croberts toothill. Also on study leave come and find us for help when you are in school. Lunchtime Revision Sessions We are currently running lunchtime revision classes. This is an opportunity to go over any topics you find tough, or to ask questions you might not get a chance to in class. Exam day warm ups We will organise sessions for you to attend just before your exams. If you require any other teacher support or have good ideas that help you in other subjects please discuss these with your teachers. What should you be doing at home In order to do well in business studies you need to master two key issues. Firstly you need to be secure on subject knowledge. Secondly you need to be able to show your knowledge in the way the examiner wants to see it. Getting the knowledge secure Key terms Can you explain different business terms? See if you can describe the terms to a friend or parent. See if you can write your own definitions to terms. Check answers and update your traffic lights. Learning the maths bits! You will be given the ratio formulae but you still need to be confident with working out cash flow and working out gross and net profit. Topic cue cards can be useful to make to help learn the concepts. Showing your knowledge in the right way Examination questions have key words that prompt you to answer in a certain way. In business studies they often ask you to describe or explain issues. This means you need to answer in sentences not in lists! You will be asked to analyse or consider advantages and disadvantages. In these questions you need to explain the good and bad points of an issue. Lastly you will be ask to make decisions and justify these or evaluate an issue. To help practice these skills try the following: Take an issue e. Identify why it might be a good or bad idea. Then try to identify things that will swing the decision one way or the other e. How will they react? Will people pay higher prices? You can also draw mind maps. Put a key topic or question in the middle of a sheet of paper and then try to develop links or other questions in a diagram. Try revising with a friend. This can help, but you need to have a plan of what you are going to do and stick to it! Good luck, and please seek help from staff when you need it. These are accessed by the following web link: If you are unable to access the page from the above link please go to www. Then select GCSE from the drop down menu then business studies We will be using past papers in lessons and for homework between now and the summer exams. Revision Websites A number of websites have good business studies revision materials: The materials are very good and easy to follow. Select GCSE business studies and then either theory notes or online activities. Pick Business Studies and access notes and short tests. Tutor2u have lots of good notes. If you investigate the site you will find other revision tools. The resources are more geared up to A level students, but they are a good reference source. The web sites listed above are a sample of what is available. You need to be careful as all sites will cover different issues in different levels of depth. Some of the materials are not on our GCSE syllabus. How should websites be used? It depends on your needs. They are good to read through notes on a specific topic e. Answering exam questions Tip 1: Read the question carefully and think about what it is asking you Tip 2: Look at the number of marks allocated and answer the question accordingly Tip 3: Give a full definition and an example if you can think of one Tip 4:
