

1: Fourth of July – Independence Day - HISTORY

Independence Day is annually celebrated on July 4 and is often known as "the Fourth of July". It is the anniversary of the publication of the declaration of independence from Great Britain in Patriotic displays and family events are organized throughout the United States. Is Independence Day a.

Congress debated and revised the wording of the Declaration, finally approving it two days later on July 4. A day earlier, John Adams had written to his wife Abigail: The second day of July, , will be the most memorable epoch in the history of America. I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance, by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires, and illuminations, from one end of this continent to the other, from this time forward forever more. From the outset, Americans celebrated independence on July 4, the date shown on the much-publicized Declaration of Independence, rather than on July 2, the date the resolution of independence was approved in a closed session of Congress. Most historians have concluded that the Declaration was signed nearly a month after its adoption, on August 2, , and not on July 4 as is commonly believed. July 4, , which was the 50th anniversary of the Declaration. He was the third President who died on the anniversary of independence. President to have been born on Independence Day. An article in July 18, issue of The Virginia Gazette noted a celebration in Philadelphia in a manner a modern American would find familiar: Ships in port were decked with red, white, and blue bunting. The holiday was celebrated on Monday, July 5. The town claims to be the first public July 4 event, as it was carefully documented by the Moravian Church , and there are no government records of any earlier celebrations. Congress made Independence Day an unpaid holiday for federal employees. Similar to other summer-themed events, Independence Day celebrations often take place outdoors. According to 5 U. Parades are often held in the morning, before family get-togethers, while fireworks displays occur in the evening after dark at such places as parks, fairgrounds, or town squares. In New England , towns competed to build towering pyramids, assembled from barrels and casks. They were lit at nightfall to usher in the celebration. The highest were in Salem, Massachusetts , with pyramids composed of as many as forty tiers of barrels. These made the tallest bonfires ever recorded. The custom flourished in the 19th and 20th centuries and is still practiced in some New England towns. Some of the lyrics recall images of the Revolutionary War or the War of Firework shows are held in many states, and many fireworks are sold for personal use or as an alternative to a public show. Safety concerns have led some states to ban fireworks or limit the sizes and types allowed. In addition, local and regional weather conditions may dictate whether the sale or use of fireworks in an area will be allowed. Some local or regional firework sales are limited or prohibited because of dry weather or other specific concerns. On these occasions the public may be prohibited from purchasing or discharging fireworks, but professional displays such as those at sports events may still take place, if certain safety precautions have been taken. ## 2: Independence Day Celebration - Arvada Festivals

Independence Day of India. Independence Day is an annual observance celebrated every year on 15 th of August. India's Independence Day is a day of great significance for the people of India.

Indian independence movement European traders had established outposts in the Indian subcontinent by the 17th century. Through overwhelming military strength, the British East India company subdued local kingdoms and established themselves as the dominant force by the 18th century. In the decades following, civic society gradually emerged across India, most notably the Indian National Congress Party , formed in 1885. The discontent of this period crystallised into nationwide non-violent movements of non-cooperation and civil disobedience, led by Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi. The escalating political tension was capped by the attainment of Independence in 1947. The jubilation was tempered by the bloody partition of the subcontinent into India and Pakistan. Immediate background[ edit ] In 1945, the Labour government in Britain, its exchequer exhausted by the recently concluded World War II , realised that it had neither the mandate at home, the international support, nor the reliability of native forces for continuing to control an increasingly restless India. Partition and independence[ edit ] Swearing in of governor general and ministers at Government House Procession of ministers to Constituent Assembly State drive to Constituent Assembly Royal salute to governor general Hoisting of national flag at Constituent Assembly State drive to Government House Flag ceremony at India Gate Official dinner at Government House Reception at Government office. In all, between 1947 and 1948, over 1 million people on both sides of the new borders died in the violence. At the stroke of the midnight hour, when the world sleeps, India will awake to life and freedom. A moment comes, which comes but rarely in history, when we step out from the old to the new, when an age ends, and when the soul of a nation, long suppressed, finds utterance. It is fitting that at this solemn moment, we take the pledge of dedication to the service of India and her people and to the still larger cause of humanity. A group of women, representing the women of India, formally presented the national flag to the assembly. The Dominion of India became an independent country as official ceremonies took place in New Delhi. Nehru assumed office as the first prime minister , and the viceroy, Lord Mountbatten , continued as its first governor general. Instead, he marked the day with a hour fast, during which he spoke to a crowd in Calcutta, encouraging peace between Hindu and Muslim. Twenty-one gun shots are fired in honour of the solemn occasion. He pays tribute to the leaders of the Indian independence movement. The Indian national anthem, " Jana Gana Mana ", is sung. The speech is followed by a march past of divisions of the Indian Armed Forces and paramilitary forces. Similar events take place in state capitals where the Chief Ministers of individual states unfurl the national flag, followed by parades and pageants. Later Chief Ministers of respective states are allowed to hoist National Flag on Independence Day celebration from their respective state. Major government buildings are often adorned with strings of lights. Pageants celebrate "India Day" either on 15 August or an adjoining weekend day. Few films centre on the moment of independence, [62] [63] [64] instead highlighting the circumstances of partition and its aftermath.
