This is only a small sampling of the many financial calculations that can now be done easily with your hp 12c. To begin learning about this powerful financial tool, just turn the page. Pressing; again turns the calculator off. If not manually turned off, the calculator will turn off automatically 8 to 17 minutes after it was last used. To replace the batteries, refer to Appendix E. The Keyboard Many keys on the hp 12c perform two or even three functions. The primary function of a key is indicated by the characters printed in white on the upper face of the key. The alternate functions of a key are indicated by the characters printed in gold above the key and the characters printed in blue on the lower face of the key. These alternate functions are specified by pressing the appropriate prefix key before the function key: This can also be pressed to cancel the? Since theX key is also used to display the mantissa all 10 digits of a displayed number, the mantissa of the number in the display will appear for a moment after theXkey is released. Pressing the f org prefix key turns on the corresponding status indicator "f org" in the display. Each indicator turns off when you press a function key executing an alternate function of that key, another prefix key, orfCLEARX. Keying in Numbers To key a number into the calculator, press the digit keys in sequence, just as if you were writing the number on paper. A decimal point must be keyed in using the decimal point key if it is part of the number unless it appears to the right of the last digit. Digit Separators As a number is keyed in, each group of three digits to the left of the decimal point is automatically separated in the display. When the calculator is first turned on after coming from the factory " or after Continuous Memory is reset " the decimal point in displayed numbers is a dot, and the separator between each group of three digits is a comma. If you wish, you can set the calculator to display a comma for the decimal point and a dot for the three-digit separator. To do so, turn the calculator off, then press and hold down the. Doing so again sets the calculator to use the original digit separators in the display. Getting Started Keying in Large Numbers Since the display cannot show more than 10 digits of a number, numbers greater than 9,, cannot be entered into the display by keying in all the digits in the number. If you moved the decimal point to the left, the exponent is positive; if you moved the decimal point to the right this would occur for numbers less than one, the exponent is negative.
