The body tells more stories. RING on the community. What do you want the D. How would you like it to influence the audience and the participants? I just want people to come out and get as creative as possible. Because you know, the world we live in now is in need of so much creative change. RING Competition is promoting community, and it is opening doors for people to be seen and heard. We had a social media presence, you know Facebook, Twitter, and everything else, but nothing happens. So what can we do? And the best thing we have is dance, you know? Through dance instead of just expressing our voices. The body speaks more than the mouth does sometimes, you know? Instead of looking at it one way, you look at it in so many different ways. So you have so many different angles to reach. Do you think that your performances give other people perspective as well? Everyone perceives the show in their own way. Within the FLEXN show, it has so many different angles to it that people look at it and they link it to themselves, to their lives, and once you link to your life you feel connected to the performance. Community members of Pittsfield and participants from the D. What I would love for them to take away is complete self-freedom, and knowing who you are as a dancer, as a person. You can express those characteristics through movement and emotions. That would be the biggest thing I would love for them to take away, become who they are and be themselves. Honestly, the people I work with every day. I get on stage with them and I see something new every single time. When everyone comes out, just come with so much love and a lot of energy. This event has passed. July 22, pm; open to dancers of all levels. RING dance competition begins. 2: 10 Minutes With: Reggie 'Regg Roc' Gray | Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival

Jacob Lowry has 81 books on Goodreads, and is currently reading The Princess Diarist by Carrie Fisher and Armada by Ernest Cline, and recently added Acce.

Kevin Bacon portrays Ryan Hardy. He was placed on disability and removed from active duty after being stabbed in the heart by Carroll. His injuries require him to use a pacemaker. Hardy is recalled to service as a consultant after Carroll escapes from prison. At the beginning of the series, he is withdrawn from the world, bordering on alcoholism, tormented by guilt as he failed to identify Carroll as a suspect after their first meeting, and Carroll claimed five more victims before he was caught; however, later in the series, Hardy begins to open up to his colleagues and, later, Claire Matthews. In the season 1 finale, Ryan fights Joe in a boat house to save Claire, and Joe is left inside, presumably to die. Ryan overpowers Molly and kills her. While he survives, Ryan is told that Claire died, which devastates him. However, his obsessive belief that Joe is alive is strong. After discovering that Claire faked her death, Ryan attempts to restore his relationship with her. In the season 2 finale, Luke and Mark kidnap Claire and force Ryan to work with Joe to save her, which they do. Luke is killed while Mark escapes. Ryan subdues Joe, resists the urge to kill him, and has him arrested. He and Claire go their separate ways as Claire believes her past will bring them down. In season 3, Ryan has found love with a doctor, called Gwen. Theo blames Ryan for forcing his hand and making him kill his wife. Ryan then finds out that there is one person that Theo genuinely cares about, his sister, Penny, who, like Theo, was abused as a child and had gone from foster family to foster family. Ryan had previously rejected an invitation from Joe to watch him die. Ryan heads over to the prison, and manages to get Joe to release the hostages by admitting to having dreams in which he and Joe are good friends and Joe even helps teach Ryan to kill. This fails however as Ryan and Joe work together and kill the attacking prisoners. After the execution, Ryan goes to a bar, and repeatedly orders two shots of whiskey, as he imagines that he is drinking with Joe. Ryan then sleeps with the bartender, however he tells Gwen the next day as he feels guilty, Gwen leaves him. Ryan starts drinking again, having been 18 months sober, and even drinks at work. When Ryan and Max keep look out for Penny, they spot her, but she seemingly escapes. However, Ryan has actually caught her and takes her to his apartment to torture her. Ryan waterboards Penny as Penny has a fear of water and drowning. The trade goes according to plan, until Theo and Ryan begin shooting at one another, and Ryan shoots Penny, who was between him and Theo. Theo leaves but swears revenge on Ryan for killing the only person he cares about. Theo ambushes Ryan as he tries to call an ambulance for the wounded agent, and Theo takes the two agents hostage. After killing the other agent, Theo prepares to murder Ryan, but is stopped in the nick of time by guards of a rich financier, Eliza, who falsely believes that Ryan knew her dark secrets and wanted Theo to bring Ryan to her so she could find out what he knows. While Theo is being tortured, Ryan frees his hands which were tied behind his back, and escapes. He also says that he will ensure that the baby will be exactly like Theo, abused and neglected. After Theo kidnaps Gwen, Ryan chases them down and shoots Theo, seemingly killing him. However, as Ryan and Gwen embrace, Theo tackles Ryan and they both fall off a bridge. Theo falls into the water, while Ryan holds on to the side of the bridge, but lets go after telling Gwen that he loves her. In the last scene of the show, the camera follows a limping man moving through the hospital where Gwen, Mike and Max are. It is then implied that he kills Campbell. Ryan then walks through the halls, stopping to look at Gwen, Mike and Max, before leaving the hospital to begin his new life as a vigilante. James Purefoy portrays Joe Carroll. Portrayed by James Purefoy. He is a former professor of English literature at Winslow University. Little is known of his early life, other than that he was born in England and has a half-brother. He believes, like Edgar Allan Poe, whom he admires intensely, in the "insanity of art", i. Carroll began making "art" by eviscerating female students. He killed fourteen of them before he was caught by Ryan Hardy. While serving out his sentence at the Virginia Central Penitentiary in Waverly, Virginia, Carroll gathers a cult-like collection of followers who are willing to murder, kidnap, and sacrifice themselves for Carroll to execute his plan of revenge against Hardy. In the season finale, Carroll is apparently killed in a massive explosion outside his lighthouse after a brutal showdown with Hardy. In Season

2, it is confirmed he survived and has been hiding. When Joe attempts to return to his old ways, he meets Lily Gray, a follower of him and a brief love interest, as they spend the night at the end of "Reflection", but he leaves her after she drugs him and Joe expresses his contempt for her. He then travels to a cult called Korban and, after manipulating and later killing the leader Micah and his wife Julia, becomes the new leader of Korban with the intent of raining havoc on New York. As Joe explains to Ryan, he has moved on from Poe he has also given up all dreams of becoming a writer to the Bible which is ironic as Joe does not believe in God. He tries to force them to kill one another, but Kingston kills himself while Joe kills Preston later. Joe is then captured again by Ryan and sent to prison despite his efforts to goad Ryan into killing him. On the day of his execution, Joe kills two guards and keeps three people hostage, and demands that Ryan Hardy attend the execution, otherwise he will kill the hostages. When Ryan arrives, he has to handcuff his hands behind his back before entering the room. Ryan is then attacked by Joe using a stun gun. After coming around, Ryan gets Joe to release one hostage. After killing or incapacitating the inmates, Ryan saves Joe and they kill the remaining inmate. Joe is then executed as planned, as Ryan watches. Ryan goes to a bar and drinks that night, ordering two shots every turn, as he imagines that he is drinking with Joe. Natalie Zea portrays Claire Matthews. Portrayed by Natalie Zea. Claire is a professor at the university where Joe worked before he went to prison. In , she told Joe that she was pregnant with their son Joey. Claire told Ryan to speak to Joe when Ryan had a question about a murder case, not knowing Joe was the killer. Once Claire learned that Joe was a murderer, she divorced him and got custody of Joey. Claire made the first move when it came to her and Ryan. Ryan later ends their relationship because he wants a better life for her and Joey. After Carroll, whom Claire calls a madman, kidnaps their son, he sends men to kidnap her too. She is placed under protection, then Ryan takes her into hiding. She tells Ryan that Joe wrote her a letter. In the beginning of Season 2, Mike states that she died of her injuries. She reunites with Ryan and attempts to help him find and kill Joe. She escapes her custody to meet Joe after delivering a message to him but runs into Emma again. They engage in a struggle with Claire killing her, but she is captured by Luke and Mark. She is saved by Ryan and Joe, while Luke is killed and Mark gets away. Shawn Ashmore portrays Mike Weston. Portrayed by Shawn Ashmore. He is a young FBI agent. Weston wrote his thesis on Joe Carroll while in training and sees Ryan Hardy as a hero. After Lily Gray kills his father, he swears revenge on her. Eventually he kills her, causing concern in Ryan and Max. In the season 2 finale, Mike goes to save Ryan from the twins Luke and Mark. Mike saves them as Max kills Luke. Afterwards, he and Max kiss, beginning their relationship. It is revealed in a flashback that they broke up when Mike went with other FBI agents to hunt down Mark Gray, the man who killed his father. These cameras are what tip Mark off that the FBI have found his safehouse, and he flees. During the raid of the house, Tom finds the laptop and sees the incriminating footage. He then takes the laptop without reporting it. Tom finds Mike, and after a moment of hesitation, helps him out. Max and Mike succeed in apprehending Strauss, but when Mike sees Mark running onto a boat, he leaves Strauss to Max and goes after Mark. Daisy then assaults Max and frees Strauss. Meanwhile, Mike corners Mark, and prepares to kill him, but Ryan stops him. As Mike and Ryan talk, Mark escapes. Tom then goes to his apartment, where the body of an FBI agent, who he inadvertently killed during a struggle over the laptop. However, he is ambushed by Daisy and Mark, who request that he bring Mike to them. Tom lures Mike out with him by pretending to have a lead on the murdered agent. Here, Mike realises that Tom is handing him over to the Mark. After he hands Mike over, he has acid thrown on his face and is shot and killed.
