Quotes[ edit ] I worked as a volunteer at that session and heard Mahatma Gandhi for the first time. I was profoundly impressed by his personality. Mahatma Gandhi was explaining his weapon of non-violent struggle for securing Swaraj Things should be done for their own sake. I accept that I will never understand reality , so I concentrate on action , dharma [duty] and commitment. As quoted in "Morarji Desai: I used to attend many of the public meetings held under its auspices. I heard with great interest what Mrs Annie Besant whose language was so charmingly appealing and who used the silver tones of her voice with such effect that many students came under influence. After I passed my intermediate examination, in the last days of , there was an annual session of Indian National Congress in Bombay which Sir Satyendra Prasanna Sanja presided. Mahatma Gandhi was explaining his weapon of non-violent struggle for securing w: But I am confident that within twenty five or thirty years, we will get Swaraj by this method. This purportedly proved true and just 31 years later India became independent. Dictatorial governments are either communist , or fascist , or military or personal. Nothing can control the power and wealth of a dictator. History has shown that there were no benevolent dictators and even if a saint became a dictator, he would be corrupted by the unlimited power and wealth at his command, and soon become a despot and tyrant. Mahatma Gandhi, who got us freedom by the unique method of non-violent resistance against evil was an ideal democrat. It all depends upon how one adjusts oneself to life. But charity and conversions cannot go together. Religion prospers only when charity and philanthropy are undertaken without any motive. The poor and illiterate may enjoy religious freedom without any fear. We have to be particularly vigilant about the Scheduled Tribes whose protection is not only guaranteed by the laws of the land but is also enshrined in the Constitution. It is our duty to preserve every aspect of their way of life along with their religion and ways of worship. No group belonging to any creed should interfere with their religion and rituals. Other organizations are also engaged in the philanthropic work But that work can be helpful only when it is done without any ulterior motive. The Niyogi Committee report on Christian missionary activities. You are free to do any action as you want. What you get is destiny. Destiny is not given by God , one thing to one man, something else to another man. Then God would be unjust, partial and would cease to be God. But, what I do as Prime Minister is a new action for which I am responsible. This country [India] has the best future. When it reached its summit, it was bound to come down. It has taken years. Yet, this is the only country which has not been destroyed in the world. All other civilizations have gone This is the only country whose civilization has survived to this day. Whether it is Egypt , Babylon or Sumeria , there is absolutely no indication of that in those countries at present. Whoever tries to destroy it will himself be destroyed. Whoever said Gandhi was against technology was wrong. I am not against industries. There are times when other things have to play a role like food. But big industries are essential. Take electricity , or steel. These are essentially for big industries only. Is truth out of place today? Then we are gone. Will it ever be out of place? Is international politics based on convenience rather than ethics? I tried to do things differently. When what I believe is the truth , I must act on it. But, I consider that you have every right to think what you think is the truth. I pay a price for adhering to my truth. I pay and do it cheerfully. The experience that I have, I think very few have. With this experience, a person acquires a deeper insight into life. He was a staunch Gandhian, driven by the burning conviction that he had a selfless mission to accomplish Fate gets you into positions of power. Life takes you there. I only do my duty and service to the people. I take all conditions as they come cheerfully and do my duty. I have certainly given it up, up to 95 per cent. My whole ambition in life is to realise God or truth , whatever you may want to call it. Do you believe in God? Belief in God is a matter of personal conviction and faith. Is any serious crime committed without drinking? But, why have we introduced it [prohibition] in the constitution? Take the case of ending your own life. Several years ago, a man called Lawrence Armstrong was suffering from TB. It struck him that it was his own urine. And, he saw in the veterinary hospitals some animals given their own urine by his doctor friend. Nature has provided its own cures. What happens to the birds and animals in the forest? For 45 days, he consumed all the urine he passed and at the end of it, he was a young man. Then he wrote a book, "Waters of Life". Here again, people say that I am imposing my will on them. I am not alone, Mahatma Gandhi was also against all artificial methods of family planning. He felt strongly about it. He used such hard language. Celibacy depends on self will. Only one in a million people can do it. God has also given the sense to control. He has given us intelligence which could be utilised both for good and bad. I only cherished service to people. There should not be greed even in service. I consider astrology as a perfect science. But, I also believe what has to happen cannot be changed. When you know, you worry about it. That why I never consult any astrologer. Of course, many of them come to me. But, no one can say I invited him or asked any questions. It was a minute role which I did somewhere around I had to quote from Gandhi. I spoke for 8 to 10 minutes continuously without any rehearsal, or writing, or retake. Not one word had to be changed. Because when you speak and act truthfully, you do not make a mistake. Very often, unfortunately the wrong kind of publicity appears in the press Is God free from it? Was Mahatma Gandhi free from it? Some of these people deliberately misquote.
