A native of Norman, Oklahoma, Alan Munde is one of the most highly respected and best-loved banjo players in the world. A master of both melodic and traditional Scruggs styles of playing, Alan has played professionally for over 25 years.

In addition to impressive performance skills, Gerald has always been quick to share his knowledge. He began teaching almost from the time he started playing. His many students include Dixie Chick, Emily. He has been on the Camp Bluegrass banjo faculty since Gerald was always known for being the guy who knew all the cool licks. Prince, disco, fusion jazz. Gerald soaked it all in and more. In these years, Gerald was playing music full time and worked with an incredible variety of groups including Roanoke Bluegrass with Dan Huckabee. He developed and marketed the first good sounding electric pickup for banjo called the Jones Acoustic Plus. At one time, this pickup was the preferred system and was used by all the top professionals including Bela Fleck. This successful-hobby-turned-profession continues today. His expertise extends to package design, professional digital photography and web page design. Through the s, Gerald continued to perform as a freelance musician in the Dallas area. This group performs a variety of music based largely around fiddle and banjo. Gerald also performs in an original education production along with classical guitarist Chris McGuire. This educational grade school program traces the history of stringed instruments from ancient Persia to modern times. Gerald is featured on a host of instruments including banjo, guitar, fiddle, mandolin and even the flute! Other recent activities include 1 providing sound equipment and sound engineering for various Dallas area festivals and concerts, 2 producing and recording CD projects for various music groups, 3 recording instructional materials for Mel Bay Publishing, 4 re-mastering the 45rpm recordings of Jim Chancellor for release in CD format, 5 serving as a officer for the Fort Worth Classic Guitar Society, and 6 teaching banjo at various workshops including Camp Bluegrass in Levelland, Texas. Gerald is a unique combination artist and technical expert. His music is soulful and inspiring while his calm analytical mind can unravel to most perplexing of technical mysteries. His beautiful music, kooky sense of humor and incredible technical knowledge make him an incredible presence to encounter. I have no better friend.
