Lemonis, 48, will be formally introduced in a press conference at 10 a. The press conference is open to the public. He is the most dynamic recruiter I have been around in my 25 years in college baseball, and his track record of identifying and developing Major League talent in his 24 years of coaching illustrates that. Chris is also one of the elite baseball tacticians in the country. We are excited that Chris will successfully lead us into a new chapter of Mississippi State baseball. My goal is to keep the program moving forward, strive for championships and ultimately win in Omaha. We will be aggressive in attracting the best players in the country to Mississippi State, and when they get here, we will develop them to their fullest potential on and off the field. Lemonis mentored and or recruited 47 players that signed professional contracts after being selected in the MLB Draft during his eight years as the top assistant and recruiting coordinator at Louisville, including a school-record 10 selections in the MLB Draft. He helped produce 10 first or second round draft choices during a seven-year span. To this date, 12 Cardinals who were recruited by and or played for Lemonis have gone on to reach the big leagues. Rosenberg and Tony Zych. Lemonis leaves a strong legacy at Indiana as he tied for the most NCAA postseason appearances by a head coach in school history. He became the first coach in program history to earn three NCAA regional berths in his first four years, finishing with a mark. The Hoosiers reached the regional title game after defeating Texas Southern and eliminating No. The Hoosiers were among the Big Ten leaders in several categories, ranking first in earned run average 3. A season prior, the Hoosiers produced a record and earned the No. Indiana finished as the highest rated RPI team in the league 34th , while seven Hoosiers garnered All-Big Ten honors during the campaign. The Hoosiers shattered the school record in fielding percentage in back-to-back seasons, including a mark of. On a national level, the Hoosier pitching staff finished second in walks allowed per nine innings, second in WHIP, fifth in strikeout-to-walk ratio, 11th in team ERA and 25th in hits allowed per nine innings. Lemonis helped the Cardinals produce 15 All-Americans, 54 all-conference selections and a pair of conference Player of the Year winners. Prior to his time at Louisville, Lemonis spent 12 seasons as an assistant coach at his alma mater, The Citadel, including the final four as associate head coach under legendary coach Fred Jordan. Lemonis, who worked primarily with hitters and outfielders at The Citadel, oversaw 35 new offensive records. Lemonis not only understands what it takes to get to Omaha as a coach but also as a player. He twice earned All-Southern Conference honors and was tops on the team in home runs three times. He led the Bulldogs with a. Lemonis is also no stranger to Starkville. His father, Thomas, was a Mississippi State graduate in electrical engineering. A native of Myrtle Beach, S.

The most unique and certainly the most resounding symbol of Mississippi State University tradition is the cowbell. Despite decades of attempts by opponents and authorities to banish it from scenes of competition, diehard State fans still celebrate Bulldog victories loudly and proudly with the distinctive sound of ringing cowbells. The precise origin of the cowbell as a fixture of Mississippi State sports tradition remains unclear to this day. The most popular legend is that during a home football game between State and arch-rival Mississippi, a jersey cow wandered onto the playing field. Mississippi State soundly whipped the Rebels that Saturday, and State College students immediately adopted the cow as a good luck charm. Whatever the origin, it is certain that by the s cowbells were common at Mississippi State games, and by the s were established as the special symbol of Mississippi State. Terrell and Ralph L. Reeves obliged some students by welding handles on the bells to they could be rung with much more convenience and authority. By the demand for these long-handled cowbells could not be filled by home workshops alone, so at the suggestion of Reeves the Student Association bought bells in bulk and the Industrial Education Club agreed to weld on handles. In the MSU Bookstore began marketing these cowbells with a portion of the profits returning to these student organizations. Today many styles of cowbells are available on campus and around Starkville, with the top-of-the-line a heavy chrome-plated model with a full Bulldog figurine handle. But experts insist the best and loudest results are produced by a classic long-handled, bicycle-grip bell made of thinner and tightly-welded shells. Cowbells decorate offices and homes of Mississippi State alumni, and are passed down through generations of Bulldog fans. In , the SEC adopted a rule against artificial noisemakers that made it illegal to ring a cowbell during games. Despite creative efforts by MSU fans to circumvent the ruling and continue the tradition, the ban was in effect until That spring, the 12 schools of the SEC agreed to a compromise on artificial noisemakers, acknowledging the role cowbells play in the history of Mississippi State University by amending the conference by-law. In the fall of , on a one-year trial with specified restrictions, cowbells were permitted in Davis Wade Stadium for the first time in 36 years. In , the rule was made permanent by the SEC. Considering making this choice an honor, the inaugural State team gave the privilege to team captain W. Accounts report that without hesitation Matthews chose Maroon and White. First round draft picks Mississippi State has had 12 players selected in the first round of professional football drafts.

Chadwick led the Aggies from 1901 to 1902. McKen retired from coaching in 1903 after being fired by Athletic Director Dudy Noble because of a 4-4-1 season. Mississippi State did not field a football team in 1903. Walker compiled a 22-32-2 record over his 6-season tenure. The Mississippi State Maroons posted a lackluster 2-7-1 record in 1904. Colvard relented and fired Walker as football coach, but kept him on as athletic director, a post he kept until 1907. Mississippi State improved to 3-7 in 1907. In the next five seasons, he only won a total of five games in SEC play. Before the season, Bellard boldly predicted that the Bulldogs would rebound and win their first SEC title since 1903. They not only failed to do so, but went winless in SEC play. Bellard was fired after the season. Rockey Felker era 1908 [edit] Rockey Felker returned to his alma mater, which was coming off four consecutive losing seasons, from his post as wide receivers coach at Alabama. Felker suffered through four losing seasons 4-7, 1-10, 5-6, 5-6 between 1909 and 1912, and only won a total of five games in SEC play. He was only 1-7 vs. Sherrill, along with Bill Snyder of Kansas State, were among the first to use the rich JUCO systems of their respective states to help their programs progress. Although Sherrill won only eight games in his last three seasons, he built Mississippi State into a consistent winner despite playing in the same division as powerhouses like Alabama, Auburn and LSU. He also finished with a winning record against in-state rival Ole Miss 7-6. Sherrill also achieved notoriety by having his team observe the castration of a bull as a motivational technique prior to a game versus Texas. Unranked Mississippi State subsequently beat the 13 ranked Longhorns. Consider splitting it into new pages, adding subheadings, or condensing it. It was the first time a Mississippi State coach received the AP honor since Charley Shira in 1956 and the first time a Mississippi State coach received the coaches award since Wade Walker in 1956. They also became the first team to be ranked 1 in the new FBS Playoff Football Poll and held the top ranking for the first three weeks of the poll before losing to Alabama. However, at the end of the season, only one of the three teams remained ranked. As a result, they were awarded a trip to the Orange Bowl against 10 Georgia Tech on December 31, 1956. Mississippi State finished the season 10-3 and were ranked 11 in the final AP Poll.
