What Jim Henson and crew managed to create was a unique brand of humor that passed as a puppet-driven, vaudevillian variety show aimed at kids while actually being a subversive adult comedy. But one recurring bit in particular gets the top spot: Pigs in Space was hilariously parodying popular space operas long before Spaceballs and Futurama. One could even find enough similarities between Piggy and Dot Matrix or Leela to suspect she was subconscious inspiration for both, or see Captain Zapp Brannigan as a reincarnated version of Captain Link Hogthrob. Like much of the Muppet movies and show, Pigs In Space was accidentally on purpose a vehicle for social commentary, most notably tackling sexism and misogyny, which Piggy was frequently subjected to from her immature and incapable co-crew of Dr. Julius Strangepork and Captain Link Hogthrob. Here are the top 10 moments from the iconic sketch. The End of the Universe Video of 2mUlo9kb8Ig The Swinetrek are close to the end of the universe, where they will learn the true meaning and purpose of life. Afterward, the three return, stuffed and demanding their gloating announcer tell them the meaning of life. Boredom Zoom In We rarely -- if ever -- see any space-set show or movie tackle the reality of how boring the infinite vastness of the universe can be. Midcourse Correction Zoom In Piggy is the only one qualified to push the button to put the Swinetrek back on its proper course. So it only makes sense that Link, whose male ego is visibly bruised by the girl knowing more than he does, takes it upon himself to push the button. Link should totally star in a web series spoofing Donald Trump. Dummo Rays The Swinetrek gets caught in dummo rays, which only effect really stupid people, turning Link into a vegetable. Once he comes to, a side effect from Dummo Ray exposure causes him to start tap dancing. But it turns out what they needed saving from was dirty laundry. Hogthrob and Strangepork bamboozle her into cleaning their clothes while they go play touch football, because of course they do. Two things of note: The sketch is ridiculous in the best kind of way. The most infamous schnozz in Hollywood next to Jimmy Durante finally knows what true power feels like -- well, not really. The name Dearth Nadir serves to remind everyone except the clueless Gonzo just how low on the Muppet heirarchy he is: Luke, Artoo, and Threepio commandeer the Swinetrek to go save Chewie. Way to retroactively taint a Muppets sketch with uneven storytelling.

The Creature from Crab Nebula Episode Melissa Manchester The Chopped Liver alien is back on the Swinetrek, this time speaking a language that nobody can understand. Strangeork turns on a translator, and it is revealed that he is a spokesman from the Crab Nebula for a company called Swunko. This is one of the few Pigs in Space segments to not have a closing shot of the Swinetrek. Quiet Day Episode Tony Randall Since Miss Piggy has been turned into a stone statue, the crew enjoys an evening of peace and quiet. When Link pulls a lever, Miss Piggy is transformed back to normal, but when she tries to karate chop him, Link pulls the lever back up, and she becomes a statue again.
