The pathogen spreads, not just in the minds of humanity, but into nature. That is a distinction only you make, sweetling, nature and you. See the Fungal Filth. The alien energies of the Zero Point slide and drip and crawl and spread. In places, they irradiate the local fungus, taking on yet unseen manifestations. A new strain, or at least new to this Age. The Filthy fungus thrives in places of upheaval or of rot. Its spores spread, first infecting trees, but then taking over local fauna and commanding them to further the spread. The fungal Filth mutates and expresses itself. See the Bug, the Incubator. It breaks from the tree host, and totters off on spindly root-legs, puffing clouds of preternatural illness. See the Seeders, the Blobs. Formed from large colonies of the evil fungi, they share a low collective intelligence. See the Colonist, the Fungal Hulk. The dominant form of the Filth Fungi, they have learnt to walk as bipeds, a dire warning of things to come. See the Spore-Ridden Ape. See the Simian Horror. Infected by the fungal Filth, it grows and mutates in ways unseen in other Filth-infected life forms. It moves about to the alien signal of all the nearby spores. Its life belongs to the fungi, and it may not react entirely friendly to the Filth of the "normal" strains. You will have to jump to get to the proper segment of the ship. Ali I am a 7th Grader who loves fashion. I love to share tips and redesigning ideas, and I like making old stuff look better than new! You will surely see that in my blog, "Cool Katz"!

He is all that he sees; all that flows to him from a thousand sources He is the land, the lift of its mountain lines, the reach of its valleys. Mary Austin We inter-breathe with the rain forests, we drink from the oceans. They are part of our own body. You came out of it, like a wave from the ocean. You are not a stranger here. Alan Watts One touch of nature makes the whole world kin. Thomas Hardy Shall I not have intelligence with the earth? Am I not partly leaves and vegetable mould myself? No matter who you are, where you live, or what kind of life you lead, you remain irrevocably linked with the rest of creation. Deep inside, we still have a longing to be reconnected with the nature that shaped our imagination, our language, our song and dance, our sense of the divine. Benyus If there is one thing clear about the centuries dominated by the factory and the wheel, it is that although the machine can make everything from a spoon to a landing-craft, a natural joy in earthly living is something it never has and never will be able to manufacture. Henry Beston There is something of the marvelous in all things of nature. Aristotle The world is mud-luscious and puddle-wonderful. Helen Keller I am in love with this world. I have climbed its mountains, roamed its forests, sailed its waters, crossed its deserts, felt the sting of its frosts, the oppression of its heats, the drench of its rains, the fury of its winds, and always have beauty and joy waited upon my goings and comings. John Burroughs In those vernal seasons of the year, when the air is calm and pleasant, it were an injury and sullenness against Nature not to go out and see her riches, and partake in her rejoicing with heaven and earth. John Milton And forget not that the earth delights to feel your bare feet and the winds long to play with your hair. Kahlil Gibran I thank You God for most this amazing day: Behold the miracle of the earth With all the wonder of a child. Edna Jaques Healing Through Nature The indescribable innocence of and beneficence of Nature,--of sun and wind and rain, of summer and winter,--such health, such cheer, they afford forever! John Muir The best remedy for those who are afraid, lonely, or unhappy is to go outside, somewhere where they can be quite alone with the heavens, nature and God. Because only then does one feel that all is as it should be and that God wishes to see people happy amidst the simple beauty of nature. I firmly believe that nature brings solace in all troubles. Anne Frank In the woods, we return to reason and faith. There I feel that nothing can befall me in life, - no disgrace, no calamity leaving me my eyes, which nature cannot repair. You become one with it No place for greed or anger there. Pha Pachak Away from the tumult of motor and mill I want to be care-free; I want to be still! Guest Discovering Wisdom in Nature She unfolds her treasure to his search, unseals his eye, illumines his mind, and purifies his heart; an influence breathes from all the sights and sounds of her existence. Alfred Billings Street Believe one who knows: Trees and stones will teach you that which you can never learn from masters. It is my principal teacher, and I try to open my whole being to what it has to say. Wynn Bullock If there is any wisdom running through my life now, in my walking on this earth, it came from listening in the Great Silence to the stones, trees, space, the wild animals, to the pulse of all life as my heartbeat. Vijali Hamilton There is in all visible things an invisible fecundity, a dimmed light, a meek namelessness, a hidden wholeness. This mysterious unity and integrity is wisdom, the mother of us all, "natura naturans. It rises up in wordless gentleness, and flows out to me from the unseen roots of all created being. Thomas Merton Come forth into the light of things, let Nature be your teacher. Look deep into nature and you will understand everything. Albert Einstein To look at any thing, If you would know that thing, You must look at it long John Moffitt You only need sit still long enough in some attractive spot in the woods that all its inhabitants may exhibit themselves to you by turns. Henry David Thoreau One should pay attention to even the smallest crawling creature for these too may have a valuable lesson to teach us. Black Elk I begin to see an object when I cease to understand it. His eyes are, by nature, open to the glories of the stars, the beauty of the flowers, and the mystery of life. Search As a child, one has that magical capacity to move among the many eras of the earth; to see the land as an animal does; to experience the sky from the perspective of a flower or a bee; to feel the earth quiver and breathe beneath us; to know a hundred different smells of mud and listen unselfconsciously to the soughing of the trees. Valerie Andrews Must we always teach our children with books? Let them look at the stars and the mountains above. Let them look at the waters and the trees and flowers on Earth. Then they will begin to think, and to think is the beginning of a real education. David Polis Wisdom begins in wonder. Socrates If you wish your children to think deep thoughts, to know the holiest emotions, take them to the woods and hills, and give them the freedom of the meadows; the hills purify those who walk upon them. Rachel Carson Now I see the secret of the making of the best persons. It is to grow in the open air, and to eat and sleep with the earth. Walt Whitman Inviting Nature in Through Gardening The garden is where you take the time in your life to tune in and listen. It just takes being still long enough, opening your heart, opening your spirit up to what the plants have to tell you. Gabriel Howearth To cultivate a garden is. Christian Bovee Of all the wonderful things in the wonderful universe of God, nothing seems to me more surprising than the planting of a seed in the blank earth and the result thereof. Celia Thaxter I used to visit and revisit it a dozen times a day, and stand in deep contemplation over my vegetable progeny with a love that nobody could share or conceive of who had never taken part in the process of creation. It was one of the most bewitching sights in the world to observe a hill of beans thrusting aside the soil, or a rose of early peas just peeping forth sufficiently to trace a line of delicate green. Nathaniel Hawthorne My spirit was lifted and my soul nourished by my time in the garden. It gave me a calm connection with all of life, and an awareness that remains with me now, long after leaving the garden. Nancy Ross All through the long winter, I dream of my garden. On the first day of spring, I dig my fingers deep into the soft earth. I can feel its energy, and my spirits soar. Helen Hayes Connecting With Other Beings I want to realize brotherhood or identity not merely with the beings called human, but I want to realize identity with all life, even with such beings as crawl on earth. With bats, weasels, worms I rejoice in the kinship. Even the caterpillar I can love, and the various vermin. George Washington Carver I frequently tramped eight or ten miles through the deepest snow to keep an appointment with a beechtree, or a yellow birch, or an old acquaintance among the pines. John Muir The purpose of life is undoubtedly to know oneself. We cannot do it unless we learn to identify ourselves with all that lives. The sum-total of that life is God. Alan Watts About Us.

He threw two handfuls of rice there, just before sundown. Will it be enough? Grandma told him about the hopping corpses and hungry ghosts. She told him a body might rise, if a pregnant cat jumps over the coffin. She told him the kyonshi are covered in mold and decay, and rigor mortis forces them to move in hopping motions. She told him that when they see a pile of rice, they are compelled to count every grain. The sound at the window is getting louder. He prays the rice will last till morning. Sometimes death goes wrong. The cadavers rise, hunting and devouring the life essence of their living victims. The Chinese call them the jiangshi. The Vietnamese call them gangshi. In Japan, they are known as kyonshi. They are not only found in Asia, sweetling, but have spread to other parts of the world. We see them in Kaidan. We see them claiming the cemeteries, dislodging the local spectres. Kill them, and they rise again. Undying, yet not unstoppable. They can be locked down, transfixed to the the ground and paralysed, if a sacred Ofuda scroll is affixed to their head. Kyonshi 4 Details , Kaidan Kaidan ,
