White House issues guidance on transgender bathrooms Fall in line or face loss of federal funding LGBT groups praised the announcement CNN The Obama administration issued guidance Friday directing public schools to allow transgender students to use bathrooms matching their gender identity. A joint letter from the Departments of Education and Justice went to schools Friday with guidelines to ensure that "transgender students enjoy a supportive and nondiscriminatory school environment," the Obama administration said. The announcement comes amid a heated national debate over transgender rights in schools and public life. The administration is embroiled in a legal standoff with North Carolina over its controversial House Bill 2, part of which has to do with transgender bathroom access. Other states and local governments have attempted to draw lines around rights for transgender people with mixed results. This latest guidance for schools goes beyond the bathroom issue, touching upon privacy rights, education records and sex-segregated athletics, all but guaranteeing transgender students the right to identify in school as they choose. It echoes what members of the administration have previously said on the topic. Fall in line or face loss of federal funding. Pat McCrory slammed the guidance and called on Congress to address the issue. Now, both the federal courts and the U. Congress must intercede to stop this massive executive branch overreach, which clearly oversteps constitutional authority," McCrory said in a statement. Lamar Alexander, the chairman of the Senate Health, Education, Labor and Pensions Committee, reiterated in a statement that the guidance was not federal. The threats of predators are serious, and we should not facilitate allowing grown men or boys to be in bathrooms with little girls. March 23 Who voted for it: The bill passed the state House and the state Senate , with Senate Democrats walking out and not voting in protest. The new law puts in place a statewide policy that bans individuals from using public bathrooms that do not correspond to their biological sex. It also stops cities from passing anti-discrimination ordinances to protect gay and transgender people. A federal lawsuit has been filed over the measure. But in the court of public opinion, Gov. Schools should let transgender students use bathrooms, locker rooms and other sex-segregated facilities consistent with their gender identity, according to the guidance. Staff should address transgender students by their preferred names and pronouns. Schools cannot require students to have a medical diagnosis, undergo any medical treatment, or produce a birth certificate before treating them consistent with their gender identity, the guidance states. Transgender policies across the country: Where do they stand? The guidance takes the same approach to the bathroom issue: A school may provide gender-separated facilities but it must allow transgender students access to such facilities consistent with their gender identity. If a school opts for individual stalls it must make them available to all students. Secretary of Education John B.

Still yet to be determined: Obama on the Issues Economy: Previously, President Obama helped secure the passage of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act in commonly known as the Stimulus Bill to help provide funding for infrastructure projects and boost job creation across the country. Economists disagree on the level of help the bill has provided, though most believe it helped create jobs and limited the effects of the recession. President Obama has repeatedly stressed the importance of reducing the federal budget deficit, while also urging government support for impoverished Americans, education, and infrastructure investment. During his State of the Union Address in , President Obama called for a two year freeze on pay for federal workers and major cuts to federal discretionary spending, stating "This freeze will require painful cuts. The Secretary of Defense has also agreed to cut tens of billions of dollars in spending that he and his generals believe our military can do without. President Obama attempted to reach a grand bargain with House Speaker in John Boehner in that would help reduce the deficit through a combination of spending cuts and tax hikes, however, the bill was ultimately scuttled by a refusal of the Republican controlled Congress to allow any tax increases as part of the deal. In , President Obama signed a bill that began the process of creating a national though not government run health care system that allows uninsured Americans to buy into already existing plans through a series of subsidies and tax incentives. The bill also prevents insurance companies from denying coverage to those with pre-existing conditions and allows children to stay on their parents health insurance till age 26, among other provisions. Economists are still arguing over the ultimate cost of the Bill, with some saying it will boost the federal deficit and does almost nothing to control costs. However, the independent Congressional Budget Office did issue a report concluding that the bill would reduce costs over a 10 year period as compared with continuing the current system of coverage. Although the bill, labeled "Obamacare" by conservative critics, received a lot of attention from Republicans as being an unconstitutional expansion of government power, it was upheld by the Supreme Court in a ruling in June In , President Obama ordered an assault by Navy Seals that ultimately resulted in the death of Osama bin Laden in Abbottabad, Pakistan, bringing to justice the man who planned and organized the attacks of September 11th, In Iraq, President Obama fulfilled his promise to withdraw troops, as almost all American forces withdrew from the country by December 15, Currently, his administration is in the midst of planning a withdrawal and transfer of power to Afghani military forces, with the U. Voted against banning partial birth abortion as a legislator in Illinois. President Obama did issue a presidential order banning the use of federal funds for abortions as part of the Health Care Bill. On May 9th, , President Obama expressed strong support for gay marriage during an interview with ABC News, explaining that "it is important for me to go ahead and affirm that I think same-sex couples should be able to get married. President Obama also voted against a proposed constitutional amendment to ban gay marriage while serving as a Senator. As a Senator Obama consistently voted against abolishing or raising the limits on the so-called "death tax" which currently only applies to individuals passing on more than two million dollars worth of property to their children. As a Senator, Obama voted yes on the comprehensive immigration reform bill in , which was supported by President Bush and most Democrats in Congress, but faced major opposition from most Congressional Republicans.. During his campaign, Obama expressed supports for stricter gun control, a ban on semi-automatic weapons, and stricter accountability for gun show dealers. All positions cited come from www.

But, Obama added, when there is a vacuum in democracy, "other voices fill the void. A politics of fear and resentment and retrenchment takes hold." Trump, meanwhile, claimed he fell asleep.

We should try to reduce these circumstances. The issue of climate change is one that we ignore at our own peril. There may still be disputes about exactly how much is naturally occurring, but what we can be scientifically certain of is that our continued use of fossil fuels is pushing us to a point of no return. And unless we free ourselves from a dependence on these fossil fuels and chart a new course on energy in this country, we are condemning future generations to global catastrophe. Obama criticized the idea of a gas tax "holiday" as a ploy by his rivals "designed to get them through an election" and not actually help "struggling consumers". An apology for slavery would be appropriate but not particularly helpful in improving the lives of African Americans, he said. Reparations could also be a distraction, Obama said. Bollinger and the legality of "race-conscious" college admissions. On March 15, , Obama stated, "I do not agree And the civil unions that I proposed would be equivalent in terms of making sure that all the rights that are conferred by the state are equal for same-sex couples as well as for heterosexual couples. He also called for full equality for gays during his second inaugural address on January 21, , saying, "Our journey is not complete until our gay brothers and sisters are treated like anyone else under the law â€” for if we are truly created equal, then surely the love we commit to one another must be equal as well. Hate Crimes Prevention Act , which added gender , sexual orientation , gender identity , and disability to the federal hate crimes law. On July 21, , Obama signed Executive Order , adding "gender identity" to the categories protected against discrimination in hiring in the federal civilian workforce and both "sexual orientation" and gender identity" to the categories protected against discrimination in hiring and employment on the part of federal government contractors and sub-contractors. Obama extended the Family and Medical Leave Act of to cover employees taking unpaid leave to care for the children of same-sex partners. Department of Commerce , being possibly the first transgender person appointed to a government post by any US President. Senate in and for U. However, in a interview, he stated that he personally believed that marriage was "between a man and a woman" and that he was "not in favor of gay marriage. Toklas LGBT Democratic Club on June 29, , Obama reiterated his opposition to the proposed amendment, stating that he supported the extension of "fully equal rights and benefits to same-sex couples under both state and federal law. He was the first sitting U. President to do so. On March 1, , Obama, speaking about Hollingsworth v. Perry , the U. Supreme Court case about Proposition 8 , he said: And the answer is no. He praised the way the U. Supreme Court had addressed the issue, saying, "There have been times where the stars were aligned and the Court, like a thunderbolt, issues a ruling like Brown v. And, given the direction of society, for the Court to have allowed the process to play out the way it has may make the shift less controversial and more lasting. And that was included specifically in the law, so that kindergarteners are able to exercise some possible protection against abuse Conservative, pro-life Republicans want this bill to pass. By large margins, the American people want this bill to pass. It is only the White House standing in the way of progress â€” standing in the way of so many potential cures. Marijuana decriminalization and medical marijuana[edit] In May , a campaign spokesman for presidential candidate Obama told the San Francisco Chronicle that he would end DEA raids on medical marijuana suppliers in states with their own laws. Such amendments would clarify the rights of an individual who has received FISA orders to challenge nondisclosure requirements and to refuse disclosure of the name of their attorney. This bill would give the FBI the authority to conduct "roving wiretaps" and access to business records.
