Canadian Premiere. Eyjafhakkajokull, the Icelandic volcano, erupted in March , scattering dangerous ash causing cancellations and delays throughout European airspace - the largest disruption of air travel since World War II.

Seconds later, she was running for her life. The year-old lawyer from Toronto was steps away from the edge of the volcanic crater at the top of the mountain when a 6. The ground around her began shaking violently, sending her falling toward her Indonesian guide. Then she saw the ledge, where she had been perched moments before, collapse into the mouth of the volcano. Several yards away was a larger plateau where dozens of hikers had gathered to watch the sunrise. As Irwin struggled to regain her balance, she saw most of that plateau crumble into the crater, taking hikers with it. Once the shaking had stopped, she remembered, all the local guides near the summit yelled just one thing: At least 16 people were killed and more than were injured, the BBC reported. New reports said some hikers were among the dead, but Irwin said no one in her group was killed or seriously injured. Irwin, who first started hiking as an undergraduate student 10 years ago, was admitted to the bar in Toronto in June and was traveling through Southeast Asia with a friend to celebrate. She made a last-minute decision to trek up Mount Rinjani and flew alone to Lombok for what she thought would be a straightforward hike. At 12, feet, Mount Rinjani is the second-tallest mountain in Indonesia. The active volcano is a popular destination for hikers, attracting more than 89, visitors in , the Jakarta Post reported. A highlight of the hike is watching the sunrise from the rim at the summit, which looks over a lake inside the enormous crater. A photo of a plateau at the summit of Mount Rinjani in Lombok, Indonesia, just moments before it collapsed after the island was hit with a 6. Mackenzie Irwin Irwin said she woke at 2 a. Sunday to make the three-hour trek from her campsite to the summit. When the quake hit, nearly everyone was knocked to the ground. Others were buried up to their knees in loose volcanic rock, Irwin said. Local guides, many barefoot or in slippers, were bleeding as they ran toward the rim and tried to pull people away from the edge. Amid the chaos, guides yelled at hikers to descend the mountain as quickly as they could, explaining that earthquakes on Lombok have been followed by volcanic eruptions. It took Irwin two hours to reach her campsite. She met one of the four people who had been in her hiking group, then waited 15 minutes for another hiker to arrive before descending the mountain, scrambling to avoid falling rocks each time there was another tremor. Some paths that her group had used to ascend the mountain had fallen away; others had been split by ravines created by the earthquake. In many places, the hikers walked single-file to avoid the crumbling edges of pathways, Irwin said. Every time a member of the group wanted to rest, another hiker or a guide would urge them to keep going. The quake has taken both a physical and emotional toll. I pushed my body to the limit. She flinches when she hears loud sounds and has trouble sleeping. But Irwin feels lucky to escape without major injuries. She plans to return to Lombok in the coming days to help with disaster-relief efforts in the villages surrounding Mount Rinjani, which endured massive damage.

The American and the Eurasian tectonic plates split Iceland down the middle from South to North, meaning that the spreading process of the Mid-Atlantic Ridge can be witnessed on land. In total, Iceland has around 30 volcanoes, with 30 of them being active. A stratovolcano that reaches 2,000m, the volcano is completely covered by an ice cap. Often, when Eyjafjallajökull erupts, Katla follows with more force and destruction. Snæfellsjökull was the chosen entrance for the centre of the Earth! The ice-covered mountain is surrounded by striking lava and picture perfect vistas, however the glacier has been receding in recent years due to global warming. It is part of a national park of the same name and, as a result, there is easy access and multiple tours to be taken. Askja Volcano Askja, a popular volcano in Iceland flaunts two crater lakes. If you need a little warming up after all the ice, Askja is the perfect volcano to visit. Though an eruption in 1875 caused massive destruction and resulted in many Icelanders choosing to emigrate, Askja is now known for its famous hot spring. Askja is in the north of Iceland and tours are available by bus or by 4x4. The caldera is 10 km in diameter and Krafla as a whole is only 1,000m high. There is a road that leads to the caldera and once there, a 30 minute trail that also leads to a hot spring. Hekla has a long history of horrific eruptions since the settlement of Iceland in 874. While the last eruption in 1947 caused little trouble, past eruptions have caused tsunamis and covered the land with poisonous gas. No wonder it has such a hellish nickname. Hekla is a relatively short ride from the capital and car tours are available. Hverfjall Volcano An aerial view of the popular Hverfjall volcano in Iceland. Despite being a very popular volcano to hike, no one can decide on the correct name: This makes it a fantastic option for families with younger children or people looking for an easy hike. In total, it should take no longer than an hour to circle the rim of this Icelandic volcano. Hverfjall is easily spotted in the Lake Myvatn area in northern Iceland. A bump in the landscape, it is actually one of the best preserved circular volcanos in the world. Drive up to the volcano along Road 1 and park at its foot. They serve as base camps for scientific research as well as visitor centres. The volcano was only discovered in 1845 and opened to the public in 1935. Visitors can enter the volcano via an elevator, that takes them down into the magma chamber. At more than 2,000m above sea level, Bardarbunga is also a part of volcanic system that stretches on for 400km. Bardarbunga rose to fame in 1999 when it began erupting, only stopping 5 days later. It is located in the Vatnajökull national park, meaning accessibility is much improved, and guides and tours are available! For volcano enthusiasts, Iceland is the place to go and the country boasts some unique volcano tours as well! Of course, caution must be exercised while on the tours. With the sheer amount of volcanoes present, everyone will find a volcano that they can conquer! Tours and Holidays in Iceland.

3: Tiny hotel on the edge of the road - Review of Volcano Hotel, Vik, Iceland - TripAdvisor

A few hours before sunrise, as a lava lake swirling beneath a crack in the earth in Halemaumau crater continues to cast a scarlet glow against the dark horizon, a solitary figure walks toward Kilauea volcano's summit caldera.

Day 1 Chapter Text His clothes in a pile on the floor, Finn fidgeted in place as he stood completely nude before his new girlfriend, who remained fully clothed. Blushing intensely, his hands covered his privates while Phoebe eyed him top to bottom. He felt it was probably time to shut up now. Phoebe knelt on the bed with him, bringing her face right up to his crotch. She frowned a bit seeing that he was still meekly covering it with his hands. NEVER hide any part of your body from me. Put your hands to your side, behind your back, whatever. Like he would really regret disobeying her. He nodded and gulped as he brought his hands to his side, gripping the bedding to resist putting them back. This was somehow even worse than her harsh commands. What an adorable little thing! Barely 3 inches, he knew it was far from impressive. Got turned on just from being naked in front of me? He could only wince silently in embarrassment, unwilling to retort despite the humiliation. His hands shook, desperately desiring to hide his naked body from her burning gaze. Why should it now? Phoebe gently stuck her finger underneath his foreskin, circling around while rubbing the glans. He could already feel himself approaching climax. His eyes clenched shut, his muscles instinctively tightened in preparation forâ€¦ Then the pleasure stopped. The wave of ecstasy instantly fizzled out. As if every cell in his body was anticipating something that just got yanked out of his grasp. He opened his eyes to see Flame Princess smiling contently at his dick, twitching desperately in the air. Her eyes met his, and upon seeing his flustered, confused face, her smile grew even wider. His breathing got heavy as he felt that familiar feeling rising up from his balls, even faster than before. And then it stopped again. She ignored him completely, happily watching the precum ooze from the tip of his dick. It trembled in almost-ecstasy for a while before the pleasure left him once again. And then, yet again, the handjob started anew. And with every failed orgasm, Flame Princess felt herself getting bolder. The more he writhed, the more she wanted to torment him. Finn reflexively arched his back, thrusting his hips upward expecting that one final stroke. Still, he obediently kept his hands away from his crotch, clutching the bed covers instead. When the pleasure faded once again, his hips dropped to the bed once again. He laid there panting and sweating, already reeling from three failed orgasms in a row. She rested her hands on his thighs and loomed above his aching cock, looking directly into his eyes. But now those two words rang through his head like an ominous bell. A feeling of dread washed over him. One hour every day! Now you get to experience all sorts of lewd pleasures every day! Justâ€¦ with none of the payoff. Her dainty fingers expertly stroked every weak spot of his penis, sending jolts of ecstasy through his body. He felt himself getting closer. A mere second away from the coveted orgasm, and it stopped once again. He moaned as he teetered on the edge. It felt like every time she stopped, he was even closer to climax before it was torn away. Flame Princess giggled to herself again. That blood coursing through your little prick? Those muscles tensing up and spasming? I can see all of it. Know what that means? Sure enough, she released her grip just as he was about to explode. Finn had overcome countless challenges in his life, but this was something else entirely. This was more intense than anything that had come before. Especially when it comes to those he loves. Finally, as the hour drew to a close, Phoebe denied one last orgasm, gingerly tracing her finger along his length before pulling it away. His cock ached terribly from the endless arousal, trembling desperately in the air as streams of precum continued to ooze. His arm draped over his forehead as he attempted to collect himself. He managed to endure it, but it felt like forever. How was he going to survive this happening every day? He hoped maybe it would at least get a little easier as time went on. The thought of having the girl of his dreams make him cum was more than enough to keep him going. He fantasized about how it would happen. She sat down next to him and placed her palm on his cheek, turning his head towards her. It was then that he noticed what she was holding in her other hand. A small metalâ€¦ something? This is why I asked you to wait until tonight to come over. I had to get my hands on this baby first! I lock this on your dick and it keeps you from masturbating or even getting a boner! Before Finn could respond, she reached down and grabbed his testicles, chock full of sperm from the edging session. Finn yelped as she began tightening her grip, crushing his balls in her palm. To make matters worse, she also channeled a high amount of heat into her hand, making it burning hot. Phoebe released her grip, Finn gasped in relief. She slid his soft cock into the cage. It fit inside snugly; a little breathing room, but not much. She looped the back part of the device behind his balls, slid the padlock through, inserted a small key andâ€ CLICK! Just like that, the deed was done. He looked down his crotch, dejected and humiliated. The princess, on the other hand, looked joyful as ever. Where do you wanna go on our first date tomorrow?

4: On the edge of Mt Yasur Volcano - epic overnight tour. | MY TRAVEL JAM %

Getting closer to the volcano was like walking on an alien planet – some sort of crazy, blackened, smoking hellscape littered with dead insects and animals, cut apart by rivers of lava.

November 7, Picture this. The earth rumbles beneath your feet as the volcano erupts shooting bright red rock and flames high into the sky. Mt Yasur Volcano is an epic overnight experience and cannot be missed when visiting the islands of Vanuatu. See the most accessible active volcano in the world! A personal and exceptional tour, this is also the only tour that flies you directly to Mount Yasur for a closer view. The hour long flight to Tanna Island on a 10 seater aircraft will circle the volcano in both directions. Our pilot, Lisa was absolutely professional, with 30 years experience. She made us feel safe and was caring and accommodating. Something that sits well for anyone a little apprehensive about getting into such a small aircraft. You can fly independently with Air Vanuatu then book the tour from there. Good for those wanting to stay around for a few days. After a short distance the vehicles leave the flat surrounds behind and we begin our descent toward the other side of the island. But not before stopping to take in the views of the jungle that stretch all the way to the ocean. The vehicle comes to a complete stop and we pile out for a closer look. The colours of the landscape are inviting as I capture the lava fields on my camera. You too will want to snap as much as possible. Our little group has now grown to over fifty or so people, all anxious to get going. We are welcomed with a ceremony of dance before the village chief comes forth to bless and give permission for us to visit the volcano. There is nothing touristy about this procedure. It feels authentic and absolutely the real deal. Everyone is moved into vehicles as we make our way up to the mountain. The locals have come to gather with us. Mount Yasur can only be visited when the volcano is classed as either level 1 or 2, the higher the more active is it. We have come on a day of level 2 activity, how lucky for us. No one can prepare you for the jaw dropping sounds that fill the air. A loud and solid grumble that lasts for several seconds. You know there is a fireworks show happening right in front of you but you are yet to see the full impact. This is why this tour MUST be done as an overnight option. There is no other way to do it in my book. Add a bit of shaky ground every time the volcano erupts and you too will have an elevated heart rate. For those who feel a bit uneasy you can stay on the second level where there is more space. The volcano erupted every 5 to 10 minutes and brought with it a show like no other. Bursts of volcanic rock and flames shooting high into the air was mesmerizing, an absolute eye opener. No barriers, nothing between you and the mountain. I did see a few other peoples pictures without the use of a tripod and they were not able to capture the real essence of this beast. The drive back had everyone expressing their feelings and our new found respect for this once in a lifetime event. We moved back to the other side of the island ready for a feed and good nights rest. We chose the impressive Rockwater Resort. The rooms were very unique and very upscale. I had a beautiful nights sleep. Breakfast was provided but you will have to purchase your own dinner. From here it was an 8 am departure and within thirty minutes we were back in the air for our return trip. How many times can you say you have stood on the edge of an active volcano and how many others do you know that have done the same. This experience is one that will live on forever and I feel very privileged to have witnessed Mount Yasur Volcano for myself.
